BAR GOES AHEAD WITH HULLVERSON INQUIRY DESPITE LAWYER'S ABSENCE

He Stays Away From Hearing, Asserting Supreme Court Rules 'Make It Impossible for Me to Defend Myself.'

CHARGES HEARSAY EVIDENCE IS USED

Says He Is 'Prepared for Any Action,' However, in Investigation of His Conduct in Handling Silicosis Claims.

Everett Hullverson, an attorney, failed to appear before the St. Louis Bar Committee yesterday in response to a notice specifying complaints about his professional conduct in handling silicosis claims against corporations.

The committee, however, proceeded with its meeting and consideration of the complaints under the new rules of the Missouri Supreme Court, permitting it to do so without his presence after giving reasonable notice of the complaint and fixing the time for a hearing.

Hullverson explained today that he did not appear because the new rules for regulation of the bar were "such as to make it impossible for me to defend myself."

The rules, he asserted, permitted too wide a latitude in the taking of complainant's testimony.

"Ninety per cent of the investigation has been based on hearsay testimony supplied by the very ones I sued," Hullverson asserted. "The employers have directed the investigation, have sat right there and directed testimony behind my back."

Hullverson has filed a $500,000 damage suit against eight mining, glass, insurance and cement corporations and several individuals, charging they conspired to have him disbarred and discredited before the public.

"Dead Men Quoted," he said. "I have no way of knowing how much evidence I'd have to bring in." He continued, "I could go for six months and never know if I had enough. The committee is entitled to make findings on any evidence, whether I'm there or not. In some instances dead men have been quoted. I can't defend myself against hearsay testimony."

"But I'm plenty prepared for any action the committee may take. There's not the slightest question that I'll be able to defend myself successfully before any proper commission or tribunal where rules of evidence prevail."

Hullverson had been notified by the committee last month to appear yesterday and answer specifications of alleged professional misconduct. He disclosed the nature of the specifications in a petition filed in the Missouri Supreme Court Monday, in which he requested a decision as to whether the court's rules for regulation of the bar, adopted last Nov. 1, could be applied retroactively.

The court dismissed his petition yesterday morning just before the committee was scheduled to meet. The committee held an all-day meeting. Samuel H. Liberman, chairman, would not discuss what took place, pointing out that all committee meetings were secret under the Supreme Court rules.

Specific Allegations. The specifications against Hullverson, as set forth in his petition, alleged he had stirred up litigation, solicited law business, employed "runners" to obtain business and agreed to divide fees with them, made advances to clients, suggested to clients that they feign or exaggerate physical condition and asserted claims or filed suits for clients who had no disease reasonably attributable to the cause alleged.

He contended in his petition that the specifications referred to matters alleged to have taken place before Nov. 1. He said today that none of the acts specified took place in fact.

Boyle G. Clark, general chairman of the 35 Judicial Circuit Bar Committee, returned to his home at Columbia today after attending the meeting of the local committee.

46-Hour Week Postoffice Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Senate Postoffice Committee favorably reported yesterday the House bill putting all postoffice employees on a 46-hour week but amended it to make the effective date Oct. 1 instead of July 1. The bill would affect 185,000 employees and cost $22,000,000 annually, it has been estimated.

SOLEMN RIGHT, REPUDIATION DISCUSSED BY CUMMINGS

Attorney-General Asks House Committee to Pass Bill Barring Gold Suits Against Government.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Attorney-General Cummings told the House Banking Committee today that unless a resolution is passed barring damage suits against the Government to collect losses arising from dollar devaluation, an "international agreement to establish a gold standard would be almost impossible. He did not say whether such an agreement was contemplated by the administration.

He told the committee that the Government had a constitutional right to forbid damage suits against it arising from devaluation of the dollar. The Attorney-General was testifying at the opening of hearings on a resolution to bar such suits.

The measure has been placed on the administration's "must" legislative list for this congressional session. The Supreme Court held in the "gold clause" cases that no claimant had shown actual damages caused by devaluation. The Court indicated that holders of Government securities containing a gold promise clause still might file suits in an effort to show actual damages. The measure is designed to bar such suits.

Quoted Roosevelt Message. Cummings quoted from a message in which the President told Congress there was "no constitutional or inherent right to sue the Government."

BYRD WANTS OPINION ON GUFFEY COAL MEASURE

Says Congress Is Becoming Laughing Stock by Passing Unconstitutional Bills.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—A resolution demanding from Attorney-General Cummings an opinion on the constitutionality of the Guffey coal bill was introduced by Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, yesterday. Byrd said in a statement that "in passing unconstitutional bills the Congress of the United States is simply making a laughing stock of itself."

Last week President Roosevelt wrote the House Ways and Means Committee, where the Guffey stabilization bill is pending. "I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

Cummings earlier had declined to give the bill now in pending. The present tokens, found objectionable because of similarity to coins, were issued July 1 when the 3 per cent sales tax became effective. They represent one and one-half mills each.

The action was agreed to after a conference with the State of Illinois representatives of the Treasury Department, Keenan wrote.

ILLINOIS TO CALL IN SALES TAX TOKENS; TOO MUCH LIKE COINS

New Ones to Be Issued Subject to Approval by United States Treasury.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Michael L. Igoe, United States attorney, was notified today by Joseph E. Keenan, Assistant United States Attorney-General at Washington, that Illinois has agreed to withdraw the present sales tax tokens and issue new tokens, subject to the approval of the Treasury Department.

The present tokens, found objectionable because of similarity to coins, were issued July 1 when the 3 per cent sales tax became effective. They represent one and one-half mills each.

RAY LONG, EDITOR AND WRITER, ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

Found Fatally Wounded in California Home, Apparently Discouraged Over Work in Movies.

By the Associated Press.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 10.—Ray Long, former editor of Cosmopolitan and other magazines of wide circulation, who came to California a year ago to work as a story editor for movie studios, was found fatally wounded late yesterday in the bedroom of his Beverly Hills home, a small rifle by his side. He died in an emergency hospital, where a hurried operation was attempted.

"There is no doubt it was a suicide," said A. G. Peterson, Beverly Hills officer who investigated the death. So far as is known, Mr. Long left no note, but his housekeeper, Mrs. Helen Andt, said he had not been well. He is thought to have been discouraged over his work. He was 37 years old.

Mrs. Lucy Bovie Long, his widow, was notified of his death at her home in Greenwich, Conn. Funeral tomorrow.

A simple, private funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel of a mortuary. Only a few friends will be present. Rupert Hughes, novelist, will deliver a eulogy.

Later the body will be cremated and the ashes placed in a vault here pending the decision of the widow, who is now in the East, as to the final disposition.

A short time ago he was named western editor of Liberty Magazine, and subsequently assumed an editor's post on Photoplay, a movie magazine. While these positions and his studio work were well paid, his earnings hardly compared with the $180,000 a year he made at the peak of his career.

Native of Indiana. Mr. Long was born in Lebanon, Ind., March 23, 1878, and was educated in Indiana public schools. His first job on a newspaper was with the Indianapolis Star, and later he went to Cleveland and Cincinnati. In the latter city he was a police reporter for the Post and later became city and managing editor.

The body was found today, said the evidence showed the trust company received cash and notes from Antonopoulos totaling $38,200, which Antonopoulos received only $29,751.

"Respondents (the bank and mortgage company) in their brief maintained that the charges of fraud were not proven by the evidence," Commissioner Westhues said. "The uncontradicted evidence shows the applicant, a man unable to read the notes and deeds, was led to believe by respondents' agent that he was signing notes and a deed of trust for a loan sufficient to pay a balance due on the purchase price of a building, which in any event should not have been in excess of $28,000, when, as a matter of fact, the agent of respondents procured his signature to notes aggregating $35,500 and two deeds of trust. In addition, appellant paid cash to respondents in the sum of $27,000. An appeal by the Hoosier Mills Corporation of New Bedford, Taunton and Adams against the cotton processing tax and floor taxes is now being decided by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The Hoosier Mills appeal, first of its kind to reach the higher court, attacks the taxes as unconstitutional.

Defense Contention Rejected. The Commissioner overruled a defense contention that Antonopoulos had an opportunity to read the notes and deeds, or if unable to do so, to have someone read them for him, and having failed to do so he could not recover.

"In this case the evidence, which respondents have not disputed, discloses a deliberate deception by the agent of respondents, in obtaining appellant's signature to the notes and deed of trust of $5500," Commissioner Westhues said. "It may be that respondents were in possession of facts which would have explained the whole transaction so as to disprove fraud. However, they set aside and offer an explanation."

"Under the circumstances it would seem that if respondents had a legitimate defense they would have been anxious to place the facts before the court, to the end that the fraud be entirely disproved."

All of the judges of court en banc except two concurred in the opinion. Judges Coles and Leedy were of the opinion the case should be reversed and remanded for new trial.

ROOSEVELT TO MAKE TRIP TO WEST COAST THIS SUMMER

Says He Probably Will Speak at Steps En Route; Plans Not Yet Definite.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Roosevelt is going to make a trip this summer to the Pacific Coast. He said at his press conference today that he probably would talk informally at spots along the way.

He will make no definite plans for the trip until Congress adjourns, probably some time in August.

COURT REVERSES $5500 JUDGMENT ON DEED OF TRUST

Mortgagor Who Couldn't Read Was Induced to Sign Excessive Notes.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—Cancellation of a second deed of trust and notes for $5500, signatures of which were alleged to have been obtained fraudulently, was ordered today by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc, in a suit by Peter Antonopoulos of St. Louis, against the Chouteau Trust Co. and the Chouteau Mortgage Co. of St. Louis, to void the instruments and enjoin a foreclosure on realty involved in the transactions. The trust company is being liquidated by the State Finance Commissioner.

The Supreme Court reversed judgment of St. Louis Circuit Court for the bank and mortgage company, and directed the lower court to enter a decree canceling the deed and notes, enjoining foreclosure under the deed, and calling for an accounting by the defendants to Antonopoulos of any sums which may be due him.

Property Purchased in 1925. The suit arose from purchase by Antonopoulos of a building at 713 North Sixth street, St. Louis, in 1925. Antonopoulos, who spoke little English and could not read or write the language, agreed to pay $29,500 for the building and negotiated a loan of $28,300 by the defendants, in connection with the purchase.

The foreclosure of the property under a second deed of trust was threatened in 1929, Antonopoulos filed suit charging that an officer of the defendants fraudulently had caused him to sign a total of $35,500 in notes, together with two deeds of trust, although he had received only $29,751. He said he signed the various notes and deeds on representations they were necessary to complete the loan transaction and that he was unable to read the papers he signed.

The defendants admitted execution of the notes and deeds of trust but denied all charges of fraud. Commissioner Henry J. Westhues, who wrote the opinion adopted by the court today, said the evidence showed the trust company received cash and notes from Antonopoulos totaling $38,200, which Antonopoulos received only $29,751.

"Respondents (the bank and mortgage company) in their brief maintained that the charges of fraud were not proven by the evidence," Commissioner Westhues said. Eden Speech in Commons. The British Government's determination to seek a peaceful settlement of the dispute "in co-operation with the governments of other countries" was repeated today in the House of Commons by Capt. Anthony Eden, Minister for League of Nations Affairs.

Eden's assurance was given in reply to Geoffrey Le M. Mander, Liberal member, who had invited the Foreign Secretary to represent to Italy that, for Britain, it is a matter of honor not to default in obligations under the Covenant of the League of Nations.

Eden, saying such an invitation appeared to refer to the possibility that Italy would resort to war, said "that situation has not yet arisen and I earnestly trust that it will not arise."

From Addis Ababa came reports that the first refugees—including American, British and Italian residents—had started by train from the Ethiopian capital for the frontier.

The Daily Express correspondent at Addis Ababa, who reported the departures, said most foreign firms represented in Addis Ababa had closed.

FATHER OF KIDNAPED TACOMA BOY

Defense Seeks to Bar Victim of Kidnaping From Witness Stand.

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., July 10.—The Government went ahead with its second day testimony in the kidnaping trial of Mrs. Margaret Waley today after defense counsel John F. Dore announced he will ask for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Dore said that on the basis of the witnesses heard yesterday "they haven't any case against her, and that not only has the Government failed to prove Mrs. Waley conspired with her husband, Harmon Metz Waley, and the fugitive, William Dainard, but if there was a conspiracy it ended before the kidnapers crossed the State line into Idaho with their victim, 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser."

Dore announced a revision of plans for bringing Waley here as a defense witness today from McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary, where he is serving 45 years after pleading guilty of the kidnaping. Waley will be brought into court under Judge E. E. Cushman's order at 9 a. m. tomorrow, at which time there will be a conference with both Waleys present in Judge Cushman's chambers.

Repeating that the Weyerhaeuser boy "undoubtedly" will be a Government witness, J. Charles Dennis, United States Attorney, said he was uncertain whether the lad will be called to the stand today or tomorrow. The defense has prepared and protested against allowing the victim to testify.

The defense's contention was that the lad should be allowed to "forget his experience" and "can add nothing not already known" about the $200,000 kidnaping.

A. M. Kohn, Federal fingerprint expert from Washington, identified today a fingerprint on an electric light globe from the attic of the Spokane "hideout house," as that of Mrs. Waley.

In Mrs. Waley's statement on her arrest in Salt Lake City she denied ever being in the attic. Courtroom spectators recalled that on his release for $200,000 ransom June 1, the boy said he once heard someone moving around upstairs when he was imprisoned in the house, and that once he heard a woman laughing and talking.

Seventeen witnesses were heard in the opening day's testimony, including J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr., the boy's father, and an executive of the lumber firm that bears his name.

Weyerhaeuser was called to testify to George's disappearance, May 24, the ransom negotiations, the final payment and the boy's return June 1.

ETHIOPIA DEMANDS HEARING IN LEAGUE

Calls for Immediate Convocation of Council at Geneva for Considering African Kingdom's Dispute With Italy.

By the Associated Press.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, July 10.—The Foreign Ministry announced today that Ethiopia, "persisting in a peaceful solution" of the dispute with Italy, demands the immediate convocation of the Council of the League of Nations.

Failure to agree in the Italian-Ethiopian Conciliation Commission meeting at Scheveningen, the Netherlands, "following the refusal of the Italian arbitrators to examine the question of Uslual" did not surprise Ethiopian Government circles, the announcement said.

"The Italians' unwillingness to take up this question was termed new proof of the justice of Ethiopia's claims against the illegal occupation of its territory and the Italian aggression of Dec. 5, 1934. (The Italian arbitrators, insisting that discussion be confined to the actual blame for the Uslual border clash in which 30 Italians and 119 Ethiopians were reported killed, declined to entertain, or even listen to, Ethiopia's contention that Uslual is situated on Ethiopian territory.)"

The Foreign Minister addressed letters to the representatives of several European nations protesting against the refusal of certain European arms factories to deliver to Ethiopia war material "which is necessary for the defense of integrity and independence."

These letters went to the Belgian Minister, to the French Minister, who also represents Czechoslovakia, and to the British Minister, who also represents Sweden and Denmark.

New instructions from Washington as a result of which the withdrawal instructions to Americans in Ethiopia may be rescinded, are understood to have been received by W. Perry George, United States Charge d'Affaires here.

Several Americans have started to leave Ethiopia as a result of the State Department instructions issued last week.

Britain Wants to Effect Settlement at Any Cost.

LONDON, July 10.—Great Britain's ministers, anxious to achieve a peaceful settlement at virtually any cost, decided today on the final form of England's stand in the Italian-Ethiopian controversy.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, will make his declaration to the House of Commons tomorrow, and authoritative sources said England still clung to the hope that an eleventh-hour compromise might prevent war in East Africa.

Some sources, however, said the breakdown of conciliation proceedings at Scheveningen, the Netherlands, was a certain signal for hostilities.

RFC ATTORNEY UNDER FIRE AT LOBBYING INQUIRY

Thomas Corcoran Sticks to Denial of Administration Pressure to Gain Utilities Bill Support.

STORY OF RELATIONS WITH BREWSTER TOLD

Testifies Congressman Broke Agreement by Claiming Political Credit for $36,000,000 Project.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The investigation into the White House lobby behind the holding company bill deteriorated into a political and dog fight today with both Republicans and Democrats seeking to make capital out of testimony already put into the record.

Thomas C. Corcoran, young RFC attorney who helped to draft the bill and who was charged by Representative Ralph O. Brewster of Maine with threatening the withdrawal of funds for the Public Works power project on Passamaquoddy Bay, in Brewer's district, Maine, if Brewer did not vote in favor of the "death sentence" provision, was again a witness.

For two hours in a barking hearing room, with the crowd packed close around the witness to catch every word that he said, Corcoran was cross-examined by the committee all of Brewer's charges and drew from the Maine Congressman the angry cry of "liar."

With very little debate, the House without a recorded vote approved an appropriation of $50,000 for the investigation into the lobbies that worked for and against the "death sentence" provision in the holding company bill. Chairman O'Connor, in a plea for the $50,000, insisted that his rule committee would make a thorough and complete investigation. O'Connor's feud with Representative Rankin of Mississippi over leadership in the House on the power fight came out in a scornful reference to the plan and his sponsorship of TVA power distribution at Tupelo, Miss. O'Connor has said that the investigation will require from two to six months to complete.

Republicans Question Witness. The hearing today lacked the high color and the tension that marked the appearance of Brewer and Corcoran yesterday. Republicans tried doggedly to draw from Corcoran an admission that his remarks to Brewer in St. Louis, just before the critical vote on the "death sentence," were in effect a threat.

Representative Lehlbach (Rep.), New Jersey, hammered on the table in his insistence that what Corcoran had said to Brewer was if not actually a threat to stop work on the "Quoddy" project, then it was an implication so plain that Brewer could not have missed it.

"I do not think so," the young "brain trust" replied in the calm manner that has marked his appearance before the committee. "Mr. Brewster was so familiar with the whole background of 'Quoddy' and we had worked on it together for so long that he could not so have interpreted my remarks."

Picture of What Happened. But as members of the powerful House Rules Committee, conducting the investigation, went over Corcoran's testimony of yesterday, there emerged a clearer picture of exactly what had happened.

Brewster was known as an opponent of the "power interests" in Maine, having on several occasions fought out the power issue with the Insull interests in that State. Even before his election to Congress he had been introduced to Corcoran through a mutual friend in New York and through the offices of Dr. Ernest Gruening, former Portland (Me.) publisher and now Director of the Division of Territories and Insular Affairs in the Interior Department.

Corcoran and other members of the administration, according to Corcoran's testimony, took it for granted that Brewster was with them in support of the holding company bill in its more drastic form, with the "death sentence" provision, even though Brewster was a Republican. Corcoran said today that Gruening and Representative Moran (Dem.), Maine, told him that Brewster was "100 per cent all right."

Brewster Taken Into Councils. On this recommendation Brewster was taken into the intimate councils of the administration on two important matters—the "Quoddy" project and the holding company bill. He participated in conferences and made suggestions on strategy and as this intimacy deepened, Corcoran entrusted to Brewster the task of putting through the Maine Legislature at a special session, to have been held this fall, an act creating a Maine power authority which would have safeguarded the $36,000,000 that the Government proposed to spend on "Quoddy."

Principal in Dispute at Lobby Hearing

THOMAS C. CORCORAN (with hands extended) and BENJAMIN D. COHEN (left). CORCORAN denied charges made yesterday by Congressman Brewster of Maine at the House inquiry into lobby lobbying that, as RFC attorney, he threatened to stop construction of the Passamaquoddy Bay dam unless Brewster voted to uphold the "death sentence" in the holding company bill.

testified, the Government entrusted an important phase of this $36,000,000 project to Brewster.

Says Brewster Broke Agreement. A few days before the critical vote on the "death sentence" in the House, the "Quoddy" project was assured and, according to Corcoran's testimony, Brewster flew to Maine, and, contrary to a previous agreement, took the political credit for putting over the Federal allotment. Then, in Corcoran's interpretation, he let it be known that he felt his political situation in Maine was "delicate" and that he needed the support of the power interests. Therefore he declined to vote for the "death sentence."

"It looks to me," said Representative Mapes (Rep.), Michigan, drawing Corcoran out at length on the "Quoddy" project, that he had broken the support of the power interests. Therefore he declined to vote for the "death sentence."

"I resent that," Chairman O'Connor said sharply. O'Connor has refused to state his position on the "death sentence" and so far as is known did not participate in the unrecorded teller vote. "I have never known Mr. Corcoran and I have never had any relationship with him whatsoever."

Cox Joins in Discussion. Representative Cox (Dem.), Georgia, carried the burden for the administration, seeking to get into the record that up until just before the vote Brewster had never given Corcoran any reason to doubt that he would approve the more drastic holding company bill as passed by the Senate. Corcoran told how Brewster had gone to the celebration in connection with the official beginning of work on "Quoddy."

"To put it another way, he'd got the $36,000,000 and the publicity out of participation in the celebration."

"You'd gone to a goat's house with a wolf, isn't that about the way of it?" Cox asked.

"Well, I have never heard that expression before," Corcoran said. "But I was very much frightened that I had made a mistake."

"I do not know but that the public interest would not be served by the cancellation of this Public Works project that is likely to waste $36,000,000 of public money," Cox said.

Chairman Interrupts. "We're wasting too much time on this 'Quoddy' talk," Chairman O'Connor said, as several members objected to Cox's remark. "We're not devoting ourselves to the charges that have been made here."

"All right, I'll strike out my last remark," Cox said reluctantly.

RULES OCCUPATION TAX MUST BE BASED ON GROSS REVENUE

Missouri Supreme Court Upholds Company That Attacked Legality of Kansas City Levy.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—The Missouri Supreme Court held today that Kansas City could levy an occupational tax on merchants and manufacturers only on their gross revenue. The opinion, written by Laurence M. Hyde, commissioner, was on a review of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co. attacking legality of a city ordinance requiring it to pay a city occupational tax on basis of floor space, contending it was contrary to a State statute providing for a tax in proportion to annual sales.

The company, which operates a branch office in Kansas City, offered to pay the tax, but contended the basis of floor space under the classification of implement dealer, as stipulated in another section of the ordinance.

COMMITTEE PUT IN CONTROL OF BELGIAN DEPOSIT BANKS

Royal Decree Exempts Five Large Institutions; Step Follows Devaluation of Belg.

BRUSSELS, July 10.—By royal decree, all operations of deposit banks, with the exception of five large institutions, are brought under control of a committee of eight members today. The decree is another step in the Government's financial operations following the devaluation of the Belgian franc.

The committee of eight will be composed of members selected by the bankers, by the national bank and by the newly-created Institute for Rediscount Guarantee. The committee will be in charge of supervising the relations between paid-in capital sums deposited in banks and the investments of institutions.

The banks will be required to submit a monthly statement to the national bank and also to publish a yearly balance sheet. The legal reserves of the banks are to be made up of state, communal or provincial debentures, or by debentures from state-controlled bodies.

REPORT OF U. S. SILVER BUYING

NEW YORK, July 10.—The New York Times financial city edition here heard a report yesterday that the United States Treasury purchased about 12,000,000 ounces of silver in London, again averting a threatened collapse of price.

The story says that the Treasury is estimated to have bought between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 ounces of the metal in the London market in the last three business days at a cost to the Government of between $20,000,000 and $27,500,000, to bolster the world price.

the present investigation. But only once did Brewster interrupt to clarify something the witness had said, and then he was quickly silenced by O'Connor.

Corcoran testified today that he was one of the first lawyers entered the RFC, having entered the Government service nearly two years before President Roosevelt took office. He is 34 and a graduate of the Harvard Law School, a protégé of Prof. Felix Frankfurter who has put so many of his "bright young men" into the government, Corcoran stated in answer to questions from Chairman O'Connor.

ceased to grant credit, resulting in a paralysis of business. Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations, who appeared pleased after his conferences with the Foreign Secretary and Eden yesterday, talked also with Dino Grandi, Italian Ambassador to London.

An official communiqué issued after Avenol's conversations with Sir Samuel and Eden said they "discussed various questions which will be dealt with by the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations in the near future."

Yates told the committee that on Aug. 15, 1934, he wrote Ickes telling him that conditions on the island "put the Roosevelt administration at stake," but that Ickes took no action.

Yates said Pearson's closest friends on the island were "reactionaries using their friendship with the Governor to exploit the people of the island."

He said that the chief offenders were the four members of the Colonial Council, and that they were all large "land owners."

Yates also said that Pearson was a man over 60, continued the clergyman. "I have no ax to grind and I believe that not another dollar should be sent to the Virgin Islands for the support of such a Government."

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt at his regular press conference refused to comment on the statement made yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Ickes that Judge T. Webster Wilson of the Virgin Islands should be removed. Judge Wilson was an early witness against the Pearson administration.

PASTOR CALLS GOV. PEARSON 'LIAR AND THIEF'

Virgin Islands Rule 'Awful Nightmare,' the Rev. E. G. Anson Says in Affidavit at Hearing.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 10.—An affidavit calling Gov. Paul M. Pearson of the Virgin Islands a "liar, thief and hypocrite" was read into the record today at the Senate investigation of Pearson's insular government.

Paul Yates, discharged administrative assistant to the Governor, continuing his testimony in support of his charge of maladministration, introduced the affidavit. It was signed by the Rev. E. G. Anson of St. Paul's rectory, Frederikstad, St. Croix.

It described the last four years under Governor Pearson as an "awful nightmare" and alleged that Pearson had "appointed a run runner to guide the destinies of the vocational schools."

"Crowd of Greenhorns." "Never in my life," said the clergyman in his affidavit, "has such dishonesty flourished."

He referred to Pearson's administrative personnel as "a crowd of uneducated and inefficient greenhorns."

"I am a man over 60," continued the clergyman. "I have no ax to grind and I believe that not another dollar should be sent to the Virgin Islands for the support of such a Government."

CHARGE FILED AGAINST GIRL IN 'PEEPING TOM' KILLING

Los Angeles Neighbor Contradicts Testimony That Youth Peered Into Window.

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Manslaughter charges were filed yesterday against Kathryn Parks, 17-year-old dancer who shot and killed Glenn Dreyer, 17, on the lawn of her home Sunday night.

A Coroner's jury returned an open verdict in Dreyer's death, recommending "further investigation." Miss Parks, who told police she had been bothered by "peeping Toms," testified Dreyer peeped into her window and that she fired but had no intention of hitting him.

Mrs. J. R. Hale, a neighbor, said she saw a youth walking across the lawn shortly before the shooting but asserted "at no time did he stop and peek in."

Yates told the committee that the men Ickes sent to investigate conditions in the islands told him, before they left, that they feared dismissal if they reported what they had found. He said the two investigators, Leslie Hunt and Lee Barton, had a confidential conversation with him before they returned to the United States.

"Hunt said 'If we went back and reported what we have found, we will be fired,'"

Yates said. "Barton told me Pearson was a cantankerous old fool. They said they found the opposition to Pearson overwhelming. I gathered that they felt they must decide whether to recommend that Pearson should be retained or asked to resign and didn't know how it would set with Secretary Ickes."

Yates said Pearson's closest friends on the island were "reactionaries using their friendship with the Governor to exploit the people of the island."

DICKINSON NOMINATED AS AID TO CUMMINGS

Assistant Secretary of Commerce to Be Head of Anti-Trust Division.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Roosevelt nominated John Dickinson, former professor of law at Pennsylvania University and now Assistant Secretary of Commerce, today to be assistant to the Attorney-General.

Dickinson is to be in charge of the anti-trust division of the Justice Department. He was nominated to succeed Harold M. Stephens, who recently was named as Attorney-General Cummings' immediate assistant.

Mr. Roosevelt arranged for a discussion later today with Secretary of Commerce Roper regarding a new Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Leadership of the anti-trust division of the Justice Department is a potentially powerful post, especially in view of the recent Supreme Court decision on the NRA and its partial suspension of the anti-trust laws. President Roosevelt has charged the department and the Federal Trade Commission with close cooperation to see that new voluntary codes for industry stay within the anti-trust statutes.

Dickinson formerly was a lecturer at Harvard University, as well as an instructor at Pennsylvania.

RABBI SEIZED AS SMUGGLER

Taken Off Liner; 700 Watch Paris in His Reft.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 10.—With the arrest of Max Erlich, a Polish Rabbi employed in the commissary of the liner Aquitania, Treasury Department officials said today they had succeeded after several years in breaking up a ring which smuggled hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of watch parts into the United States.

Erlich, who had charge of the Orthodox Jewish Diet Department on the British liner, was arrested when the ship docked late yesterday. Government agents found 700 watch parts in a belt the Rabbi was wearing. Search of his room disclosed 1300 more parts. The total value of all the parts found yesterday was estimated by Treasury officials at $5000. Erlich was held at the Customs House on a smuggling charge.

Mo. Pac Reorganization Talk. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 10.—Conferees concerning reorganization of the Missouri Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande Railroads are being held at the Mayfair House in New York. It was learned today when Jesse H. ## MILITARY TRIAL FOR GUARDSMAN WHO SHOT WOMAN

Supreme Court Holds Articles of War Apply When Militia Is Called in Emergency.

PRIVATE FIRED WHEN AUTO DIDN'T STOP

Soldier Says Fatal Killing in Dunklin County During Flood Was Accidental.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—Ray Bixler, 20-year-old private in the Missouri National Guard, who is being held under military arrest on a charge of murder, for the fatal shooting of Miss Harriet Hasty of Paragould, Ark., while he was on guard duty during a flood in Dunklin County last March, must be tried before a military court-martial, the Missouri Supreme Court ruled today.

The decision, the first by the Missouri courts on the jurisdictional question involved, was in a habeas corpus proceeding instituted by Attorney General McKeltrick on behalf of Dunklin County officials to determine whether Bixler should be tried in the Circuit Court or before military court.

Under Arrest at Armory. The Supreme Court ordered Bixler remanded to the custody of Adjutant-General Harold W. Brown of the Missouri National Guard, pending his trial before a general court-martial. Bixler has been held under arrest in the National Guard Armory at Caruthersville, his home, since the shooting of Miss Hasty on March 21.

Bixler is an enlisted man in Company B of the 140th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, which was called into service by Gov. Park last March to patrol Dunklin County levees while the St. Francis River was in flood stage. Bixler was assigned to guard duty at a bridge near Cardwell, Miss Hasty was passing the night of March 21, when the driver of an automobile in which she was riding failed to halt at a command by Bixler, who had been instructed to require traffic to move slowly over

PRIVATE FIRED WHEN AUTO DIDN'T STOP

Soldier Says Fatal Killing in Dunklin County During Flood Was Accidental.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—Ray Bixler, 20-year-old private in the Missouri National Guard, who is being held under military arrest on a charge of murder, for the fatal shooting of Miss Harriet Hasty of Paragould, Ark., while he was on guard duty during a flood in Dunklin County last March, must be tried before a military court-martial, the Missouri Supreme Court ruled today.

The decision, the first by the Missouri courts on the jurisdictional question involved, was in a habeas corpus proceeding instituted by Attorney-General McKellick on behalf of Dunklin County officers, to determine whether Bixler should be tried in the Circuit Court or before a military court.

Under arrest at Armory. The Supreme Court ordered Bixler remanded to the custody of Adjutant-General Harold W. Brown of the Missouri National Guard, pending his trial before a general court-martial. Bixler has been held under arrest in the National Guard Armory at Caruthersville, his home, since the shooting of Miss Hasty last March 21.

Bixler is an enlisted man in Company B of the 140th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, which was called into service by Gov. Park last March to patrol Dunklin County levees while the St. Francois River was at flood stage. Bixler was assigned to guard duty at a bridge near Cardwell, Miss Hasty was shot the night of March 21, when the driver of an automobile in which she was riding failed to stop at a command by Bixler, who had been instructed to require traffic to move slowly over the bridge.

Bixler declared the shooting was an accident. He had been instructed to fire a shot from his rifle, in the air, if a car failed to stop, or when other guards along the bridge. He said he was holding his rifle in one hand and a lantern in the other, and that the rifle slipped when he attempted to fire it in the air.

Charged With Murder. A charge of murder was filed against Bixler by his company Commander, under Army Articles of War, before the emergency was declared terminated and the troops returned to their homes. Later Prosecuting Attorney E. L. Kirkwood, who filed a picture of Dunklin County filed a murder charge against Bixler, but the military authorities refused to surrender him to the sheriff.

Judge George R. Ellison, who wrote the opinion, pointed out that the company, with others, had been called out by the Governor, under his legal authority, as an emergency measure. He said that the state law provides that when the militia is called into active service, under such circumstances, the articles of war governing the United States army automatically are in force, and apply to any offenses committed during such service.

He held that while the jurisdiction of the court-martial was concurrent with that of the State courts, the court-martial, having obtained jurisdiction of Bixler for an alleged offense committed while the articles of war were in force, "would not lose that jurisdiction merely because the exigency had passed."

The other judges of the Court in banc concurred in the ruling.

768 ARRESTS IN 14 DAYS FOR SPEEDING IN CITY

More Than Total for Preceding Month; 63 Pct. Decrease in Driving While Intoxicated. Arrests for speeding in the 14 days prior to yesterday totaled 768, more than the total for the preceding month, Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, vice-president of the Board of Police Commissioners, said today.

Last week, Maj. Lambert said, there was a 63 per cent decrease in arrests for driving while intoxicated; a 52 per cent decrease in cases in which drivers fled from the scene of accidents and a 30 per cent decrease in automobile accident injuries requiring hospital treatment. The comparisons were with the previous week.

CHAIN LETTER PEDDLERS HELD

Two Booked for Suspected Violation of "Blue Sky" Law. Two men peddling chain letters of the "Fidelity Fraternity" were arrested yesterday in a downtown hotel and were booked for suspected violation of the State "blue sky" law.

The letters were of the $1 variety and the men said their profit came from a 50-cent service charge. They protested that they thought the business was legitimate.

Former Model Divorced by Husband

MRS. ANNE BURNS DIVORCED AT RENO

Husband of St. Louis Debutante of 1931 Charged Her With Cruelty.

Dawson J. Burns Jr. of New York obtained a divorce at Reno, Nev., yesterday from Mrs. Anne Rumpf Burns, a St. Louis debutante of 1931 who attained success as a model for widely known illustrators. Burns alleged cruelty. The hearing was private.

Shortly after leaving the court Burns boarded a plane for New York. A passenger on the same plane was Mrs. Dennis L. Tankard of New York, who divorced her husband at Reno on Monday. Kirkwood, attorney for Mrs. Tankard, said she told him she had no intention of getting married.

Mrs. Burns, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Henry Rumpf, 431 South Clay avenue, Kirkwood, expressed indignation today that he had filed suit on an other ground than that of incompatibility, explaining that she had originally expressed a desire for a divorce and had come here four months ago preparatory to establishing a year's residence in St. Louis County before filing her suit.

"I was the one who was going to allege cruelty," Mrs. Burns said, and he has no grounds at all to make such a charge. Incompatibility would be true enough.

"But about two months ago I received a communication from his lawyers stating that he would go to Reno and obtain a divorce, alleging incompatibility. While I would have liked to have gone to Reno myself, I was not in a financial position to do so and agreed to his proposal, after making an arrangement whereby his family contributed to my expenses for a six-months-old daughter, Suzanne."

Her first information about the decree was contained in a telegram received last night from Burns. It read: "Decree granted today. Know you will face the new adventure with the same courage and spirit as before."

Observing that her sense of humor was "still intact," Mrs. Burns gave her version of her marital difficulties since their wedding at Grace Episcopal Church, Kirkwood, on Aug. 28, 1933.

Her husband, she said, was "never home." Shortly after their marriage, she said, she learned that his income was not what she had assumed it to be and discovered they were dependent on whatever his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson J. Burns, 227 Park avenue, New York, chose to give them.

"I worried much that I lost 25 pounds," she said. "I used to weigh 117 and now I only weigh 92."

Mrs. Burns became engaged when she was in New York the winter of 1932, achieving success as a model for McClelland Barclay and other artists. A trip to Hollywood for a screen test was canceled because of her engagement and later she visited Barclay's summer home at Southampton, L. I., with her fiancé. The artist composed a picture of her for a cover of a summer number of the Red Book and she has appeared on the cover of other national magazines.

Mrs. Burns came to St. Louis with her parents from Chicago in 1929. She is a graduate of the Latin School for Girls there and later attended the St. Louis School of Fine Arts.

MOVE TO PREVENT EXPLOSIVE GAS FROM ENTERING SEWERS

Laclede Co. to Expose Valve Fluid to Air Before Emptying It Into Drains.

Chemists who examined the liquid pumped from drip valves of the Laclede Gas Light Co. to determine whether a dangerous amount of explosive gas entered the sewer system when the fluid was emptied reported today to Director of Streets and Sewers McDevitt that if the fluid were permitted to trickle along the city's streets for about 100 feet before entering the sewers, the gas would be dissipated harmlessly.

McDevitt said that practice would be followed. Fluid taken from the drip valves was examined by 20 chemists, employed by the Laclede Gas Light Co., but working for the past week under the supervision of City Chemist Kiser.

Before the strike of maintenance employees of the Laclede company the drip valve fluid was pumped into portable tanks and emptied directly into the Mississippi River without passing through the city's sewers.

WOMAN FINED $40 FOR THROWING EGGS IN STRIKE

Miss Sarah Riess Said to Have Pelted Automobile Containing Garment Workers.

Miss Sarah Riess, 3106 North Twenty-first street, was fined $40 by Provisional Police Judge O'Hanlon today for throwing eggs into an automobile occupied by garment workers city the Forest City Manufacturing Co., 1627 Washington avenue, where a strike is in progress. Her companion, Irene Page, 1624 South Jefferson avenue, who, witnesses said, did not throw eggs, was fined $20 for peace disturbance.

The two women employees testified the defendants, who have been fined previously for disturbances growing out of the strike, approached their car near the manufacturing company, July 2, as they were waiting to be driven to their homes.

ZOO'S THREE GIRAFFES PLACED IN OPEN AIR PITS FIRST TIME

Seemed to Feel at Home, Director Vierheller Says; Animals to Be Named Soon.

The three new giraffes at the zoo in Forest Park were permitted to leave their cages and walk around in the open air pits for the first time this morning.

They seemed to feel right at home and Zoo Director Vierheller said he was pleased with the way in which they had adapted themselves to their new surroundings.

The giraffes are as yet unnamed. The captain of the ship which brought them over from Africa called one of the females George, but this name probably will be changed. Vierheller already has received protests against giving a female a masculine name.

TOBACCO MAN BURIED AT SEA

Funeral of Bowman Gray Held on the Kungsholm.

By the Associated Press. ABOARD THE MOTORSHIP KUNGSBOLM, AT SEA, July 10.—Under the bright rays of the Arctic Circle's midnight sun Bowman Gray, 61-year-old chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., was buried from this ship Monday night.

An honor guard of Scandinavian sailors lowered the casket, wrapped in an American flag, into the sea at midnight. Services were conducted by the Rev. J. J. Kolmos of Wheaton, Ill., a passenger. Only the immediate family, Mrs. Gray and her two sons, Bowman Jr. and Gordon, with a few friends and officers of the ship, attended the services. Mr. Gray, who died aboard the Kungsholm Sunday of a heart attack, had expressed a wish to be buried at sea.

LACLEDE REJECTS ARBITRATION PLAN TO END GAS STRIKE

Company Refuses to Submit 'Closed Shop' Question to Board of Three—Union Had Agreed.

Refusal of the Laclede Gas Light Co. to submit the "closed shop" question to arbitration has apparently terminated the most recent effort to end the strike of union gas workers, now in its fourth month.

The union, meeting Saturday night, receded from its original demand for a "closed shop" and agreed to submit that and all other points in controversy to a committee consisting of Mgr. Timothy Dempsey, one representative of the company and one from the union. In a letter yesterday to Munro Roberts, union attorney, E. P. Gosling, president of the company, stated: "The company cannot agree to submit to arbitration the question of a closed or preferential shop. To do so would be to turn over the management of the company to the Gas Workers' Union."

Gosling wrote that the company was willing to submit all complaints involving union workers to Mgr. Dempsey alone. "I must repeat," the letter stated, "that the company will not submit the question of the open shop, preferential shop or the right of Gas House Workers' Union to represent all other employees of the company not members of this union."

Roberts, replying to Gosling, wrote: "I am indeed sorry that your company is unwilling to terminate the strike by submitting the entire matter to arbitration. It is our desire to have the unfortunate controversy brought to a speedy close and to accomplish that purpose we remain willing to submit all issues to impartial arbitrators. We sincerely trust that your company will reconsider its position and exhibit a disposition to cooperate in settling the dispute."

The recent negotiations for a settlement were arranged by Mgr. Dempsey, who called the disputants into conference at his parish house, Mayor Dickmann previously had been unsuccessful in an effort to end the strike.

SERVICE CAR DRIVER FINED $200 FOR CARELESS DRIVING

Woman Waiting for Street Car Was Struck by Conveyance of Raymond Letcher.

Raymond Letcher, 23-year-old service car driver, 125 Hope avenue, Luxemburg, was fined $200 by Police Judge Simpson today for careless driving in an accident March 18 in which Letcher's car injured Mrs. Julia Young, 61 years old, 409 Sidney street.

Young was waiting for a street car at Broadway and Park avenue when struck by Letcher's service car. She spent seven weeks in City Hospital as a result of the accident, according to testimony at the trial. Letcher appealed.

CITY LIBRARY CIRCULATION OFF

Re-employment of Many Given as One Reason for Drop.

The re-employment of many idle workers during the past year and a curtailed budget were given by Dr. Arthur Bostwick, librarian of the St. Louis Public Library, as reasons for a decrease in circulation of books in his annual report to Mayor Dickmann.

During the year 5,332,732 books were issued, Dr. Bostwick reported, which he noted is a smaller number than in any of the years beginning with 1929, when unemployed persons began to use the library facilities in large numbers.

ROBBER ROUTED IN SHOP WITH PINCH BAR AND STOOL

Manager at 901 Delmar Boulevard Refuses to Hold Up His Hands.

A robber, who tried to hold up the Dressand Shoe Co., 901 Delmar boulevard, at 6 p. m. yesterday, fled without loot when the manager, Barnett Reiss, hit him with a pinchbar and a foot stool.

Reiss was waiting on a man customer when the robber, carrying a revolver, entered and ordered the customer, a Negro porter and Reiss to hold up their hands. Reiss seized a small pinchbar and threw it, hitting the robber on the shoulder. A foot stool followed the pinchbar. Reiss scoring another hit. As the robber turned and fled, Reiss threw an iron bar, missing the man and smashing a pane of glass.

MADISON COUNTY BAR ACTS AGAINST UNLICENSED PRACTICE

Decides on Civil Suits or Injunction Aimed at Offenders; Collection of Legal Work.

The Madison County Bar Association passed a resolution last night authorizing its Committee on the Unauthorized Practice of Law to begin proceedings against persons who are not lawyers but who perform legal work.

No method of procedure was adopted, but it was decided to bring civil suits or seek injunctions against alleged offenders. The chief offenders, according to Harold Taylor, member of an investigating committee, are persons who run collection agencies and threaten suits, although they are not lawyers.

The association voted down suggestion that a letter of warning be sent to those believed to be infringing on the lawyers' practice and that a pamphlet containing a description of what constitutes the practice of law be distributed.

CITY RECEIVES FIRST CHECK $72,067, ON PWA GRANT

Money Applies to Part of Auditorium; Home Section Is $137,000.

The first check for the city from the PWA under grants, the first of which were applied for nearly two years ago, was received today by President Brown of the Board of Public Service. It was for $72,067.76, in connection with miscellaneous work in the opera house section of Municipal Auditorium.

In an estimate submitted to the PWA Dec. 31, the city requested $72,591.50, but $523.74 was deducted on the ground that the required 30-hour week was not observed in some of the work. This payment was made in connection with contracts amounting to $301,125, the balance of which was charged to 1923 bond funds. The total PWA grant on the opera house section was $137,000, of which the balance was to be claimed later.

MAN MISSING SINCE MONDAY FOUND IN CELL AT CITY JAIL

Joseph Dresner Failed to Furnish Bond on Charge of Drugging With Improper License.

Joseph Dresner, manager of the Ace Taxi cab Co., East St. Louis, who was reported to have been missing from his office since Monday, was found by police today in a cell at the City Jail, where he has been since Monday, when he failed to furnish a bail bond following his arraignment in Court of Criminal Correction on a charge of driving an automobile with an improper State license.

Dresner, who lives at 2352 Menard street, was arrested by a traffic policeman July 1 in the police campaign against citizens who drive automobiles with licenses from other states. The policeman quoted him as saying he drove with an Illinois license because his business was in East St. Louis. His wife was notified of his whereabouts. His case will be heard next Monday.

MAN GETS FIFTH TERM ON BAD CHECK CHARGES

Charles Wheeler Given Two Years; Asks Court to Care for Wife, Children.

Charles Wheeler, 58 years old, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Sartorius yesterday for obtaining money by passing worthless checks by a system, which he told the Court has resulted in four previous prison sentences, but a gain of "many thousands of dollars."

Wheeler pleaded guilty and glibly told how he toured the country with his wife and two children, obtaining blank checks from Moose, Elk and Odd Fellow headquarters in small towns, which he later filled in for small amounts and cashed in larger cities while making small purchases. He said he passed 17 checks in such a manner here, although he was only specifically charged with passing three on small storekeepers.

He said he spent the money as fast as he obtained it and asked the Court to see that his wife, who is ill, receives medical care and that his children are placed in custody of the Juvenile Court. Judge Sartorius, who also presides in Juvenile Court, promised Wheeler he would see that his family got proper care.

Wheeler, who admitted serving prison terms in California, Washington and Colorado, was arrested July 4 in a rooming house on Delmar boulevard, where he had been staying for several months.

SUPREME COURT STOPS SUIT OVER LACLEDE STOCK CONTROL

Preliminary Rule of Prohibition in Action Aimed at Holding Company.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—A preliminary rule of prohibition preventing Circuit Judges Ryan and O'Malley of St. Louis from proceeding with a suit by Louis Monheimer, who attacked stock control of the Laclede Gas Light Co. by the Utilities Power & Light Corporation of Chicago, was issued today by the Supreme Court in banc.

The Court ordered returns to be filed in 30 days, after which arguments will be heard as to whether the writ shall be made final. The suit was filed in April, 1933, by Monheimer, a stockholder in the Laclede company. It was directed against Utilities Power & Light and seven of its subsidiary or allied companies, including Laclede.

Monheimer charged the holding company dominated Laclede through illegal stock control and caused it to suffer heavy losses by requiring it to enter undesirable contracts with other subsidiaries of Utilities Power & Light. The holding company, in asking for the writ of prohibition, alleged that service obtained on it in Illinois was not legal and that the St. Louis Circuit Court had no jurisdiction.

BOY, 8, HIT BY AUTO, DRIVER GOES ON; LICENSE IS CLEW

August Allgeyer Jr. Suffers Skull Injury When Struck by Car in 3900 Block of Louisiana.

August Allgeyer Jr., 8 years old, suffered a skull injury and bruises when he was struck by an automobile in the 3900 block of Louisiana avenue this afternoon.

A man, who took the boy to St. Anthony's Hospital, said the driver failed to stop. He furnished a license number which is being traced. The boy resides with his parents at 3408 Alberta street.

MAN INDICTED IN AUTO DEATH OF CCC YOUTH ON DEC. 23

Howard Brown, Negro, Arrested on Charge of Manslaughter; Car Ran on Sidewalk.

Howard Brown, 21-year-old Negro, was arrested today at South Kinloch Park, St. Louis County, on an indictment, returned yesterday by the county grand jury, charging him with manslaughter.

The indictment charges that an automobile driven by Brown last Dec. 23 struck and killed Arthur Schaible, 19, after hitting a parked car and running onto the sidewalk on Carson road, near Harvey avenue, St. Louis County.

Schaible, who was home on a Christmas furlough from a CCC camp when he was killed, was the son of Calvin Schaible, Larkin avenue, Ferguson.

Col. T. E. Lawrence's Benefaction. By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 10.—One of the most valuable anonymous benefactions of the late Col. T. E. Lawrence (Lawrence of Arabia) was disclosed today, an education fund for children of killed or wounded Royal Air Force officers. The fund has expended $4000 (about $19,400) since 1928 from an endowment fund from the receipts of the sale of Lawrence in the Desert. Lawrence's story of his Arabian campaign during the World War.

VIEW OF DICKMANN ON LOCAL JOBS OFFICE

He Thinks Employees Will Be Chosen on Basis of Merit.

Mayor Dickmann in a letter yesterday to the St. Louis Chapter, American Association of Social Workers, expressed the opinion that the St. Louis office of the Missouri Employment Service will continue to be properly conducted, with employees selected on a basis of merit.

Herschel Alt, president of the St. Louis group of social workers, wrote the Mayor on June 28 requesting that a committee be appointed to safeguard the standards of service in the local office of the employment service. Mayor Dickmann pointed out, in his reply, that up to June 30 the service was supervised by a local committee under a contract with the city and Federal governments, which contributed maintenance funds. When the contract expired June 30, the Mayor stated, Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen, State Labor Commissioner, announced that she would undertake the direct supervision of the employment service office in St. Louis. As a result, the office was removed from the jurisdiction of the local committee.

"I apprehend," Mayor Dickmann wrote, "that it will be just as necessary for the city and Federal governments to contribute to the support of the office in the future, and that such contributions will not be forthcoming unless the office is properly conducted."

TWO EX-CONVICTS INDICTED FOR MIDLAND BANK HOLDUP

Paul E. Ryan and William Kilbride Both Arrested When They Left Penitentiary.

First degree robbery indictments were returned yesterday by the St. Louis County grand jury against William Kilbride, 25 years old, and Paul E. Ryan, 31, both ex-convicts, for the $631 holdup of the Midland Savings Bank, 6136 Page boulevard, on June 11, 1929.

Kilbride, who admitted more than 50 robberies when he was arrested in 1929, was arrested for the bank holdup when he left the penitentiary on June 9, last. Ryan, his companion in most of the robberies, was arrested when he was released from the penitentiary on May 22, last.

SENATE TO INSIST ON UTILITY BILL'S
'DEATH SENTENCE'Instructs Its Conferees to Hold Out for Mandatory Abolition of 'Unnecessary' Holding Firms.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—By an abrupt change of tactics, the Senate sent the utility bill to conference today and instructed its conferees to insist on the provision desired by President Roosevelt, for mandatory abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies in seven years.

There was an understanding, however, that a disagreement with the House on this section would result in a request to the Senate for further instructions.

Vice-President Garner appointed as Senate conferees Chairman Wheeler of the Interstate Commerce Committee, who had charge of the bill in the Senate; Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky; Brown (Dem.), New Hampshire; White (Rep.), Maine, and Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota.

The action followed withdrawal by Senator Dietrich (Dem.), Illinois, of a motion to instruct Senate conferees not to insist on the so-called holding company "death sentence."

The Senate approved the "death sentence" by a one-vote margin when it passed the utility bill. The House refused to approve it, and defied President Roosevelt.

Dietrich yesterday withdrew his motion for Senate acceptance of the House provision leaving holding company abolition to the discretion of the Securities Commission.

Then Dietrich made his motion on instructing the Senate conferees. The proposal was denounced by administration leaders and Republican supporters of the measure as "surrendering in advance."

Wheeler complained that the House amendments struck out the "heart" of the measure. He read a letter from Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Securities Commission, asserting that the bill as passed by the House would put a "staggering" burden of administration on the commission.

Kennedy said the commission could "with reasonable efficiency" perform other new duties in the way of supervising financial operations of the utilities, as provided in the Senate bill.

The House bill, he said, set up "no effective standard to guide the commission in the momentous decisions it must make as to which of the holding company systems are to be broken up, and how such process is to be effected."

"I do not believe it is fair, or practical," the letter continued, "to expect any five men to shoulder the grave responsibility for deciding which of these systems are to be reorganized and into what size and character the ultimate groupings shall evolve."

Kennedy said it was his "strong conviction that it is not a wise policy to vest in any one group of men the tremendous responsibility involved in this grant of power."

I do not believe that any commission should be given unfettered discretion to decide matters of such transcendent importance."

Debate on Dietrich's motion brought to the floor for his maiden speech the Senate's youngest member, Rush D. Holt (Dem.), West Virginia, who supported the administration on the abolition issue. Holding companies, he said, "are nothing but a means by which State regulation is escaped, Federal regulation dodged, investors skinned and consumers gouged."

He assailed the whole holding company system as "an economic waste and a cancerous growth in the American economic system."

Senator Norris of Nebraska, opposing the Dietrich motion, said holding companies had been "conceived in sin, managed in total defiance of public good and in defiance of the interest of honest consumers and honest investors."

"They are parasites upon our civilization," he said. "They have robbed more widows and orphans than you can enumerate in a week, yet they are calling upon us in the name of widows and orphans to save the investors."

JOHN J. SHEEHAN DIES
AFTER FALL IN KANSAS CITY

Brother of Internal Revenue Collector Was Branch Office Manager of Manufacturing Firm.

KANSAS CITY, July 10.—John J. Sheehan, 59 years old, branch office manager of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co., was found fatally injured today on the third floor kitchen roof of the Pickwick Hotel.

He died in a hospital. Apparently he had fallen from the fifth floor of the hotel building.

John J. Sheehan has been district manager of the Kansas City company for about 20 years, his brother, Collector of Internal Revenue Thomas J. Sheehan said. Besides Collector Sheehan, three other brothers, Joseph A., Jerry, and Public Administrator Walter F. Sheehan, and two sisters, Mrs. H. T. Ghio and Mrs. Alice Dames, all of St. Louis, survive.

ADMINISTRATION WINS FIRST HOUSE TEST ON TVA BILL

Provision Fixing Time Limit on Sale of Electricity Below Cost Defeated 98 to 67.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—A divided and acrimonious House of Representatives prepared today for a final test of strength on the bill broadening the powers of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The issue is whether the House will take the administration measure passed by the Senate, or whether it will accept a drastically modified substitute reported by its own Military Affairs Committee.

All signs indicated the White House would have its way in all major differences. The line-up appeared to be entirely different from that which resulted in the administration's decisive defeat on the Utility Holding Company bill. Comparison of the Senate bill and that recommended by the House Military Affairs Committee showed that the differences arose mainly from the question of how much latitude the TVA shall be allowed to exercise in its campaign to substitute public manufacture and distribution of power for private operation. Most of the changes which the committee made in the measure were designed to limit TVA's freedom of action in that respect.

The administration won in the first test when the House knocked out, 98 to 67, the provision forbidding TVA to sell electricity or chemicals below cost after July 1, 1937. Instead the House approved a substitute requiring TVA to sell its current and chemicals above the cost of production, as soon as practicable. The House committee had fixed the definite time limit on sale below cost.

An amendment offered by Chairman McSwain (Dem.), South Carolina, of the Military Affairs Committee, and sponsored by the Treasury Department, to exempt TVA bonds from all except gift and inheritance taxes, was greeted with a derisive uproar from the Republican side, and produced some of the warmest debate of the session. Representative Tabor (Rep.), New York, reminded the Democrats of President Roosevelt's message asking for a constitutional amendment abolishing tax-exempt securities. "You talk and talk about ending this tax-exempt racket, but when it comes to acting, this is how you act," he taunted. "Who are you following, your President, or some assistant secretary of the Treasury?"

For Ending It Now. Representative Celler, New York, jumped into the fray to say that he was one Democrat who favored ending it now. He pointed out that a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment preventing the issuance of tax-exempt securities has been pending before the House Judiciary Committee four months. "Why don't you report it?" he shouted half a dozen Republicans in chorus. "To be perfectly frank, we're waiting for orders," Celler replied.

"What kind of a body is that—to wait for orders?" he claimed the venerable Mrs. Kahn (Rep.), California. "Haven't we got the courage and sense to do our duty, without waiting for orders?"

So They Start Now. Another Democrat, Connery of Massachusetts, joined the uprising. He said he had been advocating an end to tax exemption for 13 years, and had always heard the same explanation—that it was unfair to pick out a single issue. "I say that the time to start is now," he shouted. "Start now, and slap the same proposition on every succeeding issue that comes along. It has got to be stopped some time, and there's no time like the present to begin."

McSwain's amendment was overwhelmed with such a roar of "noes" that he didn't even ask for a count. The House adopted on a voice vote an amendment by Representative Buchanan (Dem.), Texas, that would forbid TVA to use money obtained from sale of bonds without specific authorization from Congress.

Then it approved another by McSwain carrying the Buchanan bond amendment principle to the proceeds of products sold by the Authority as well as to income from bond sales. That is, all money is to go into the Treasury and be appropriated by Congress.

The Senate bill would authorize TVA to raise $100,000,000 by the issuance of bonds, and expressly votes that the money may be used for the construction or purchase of transmission lines and distributing systems, which, in turn, may be sold to counties and municipalities. The House bill would limit the bonding power to $80,000,000, to be used for general construction purposes.

Under the Senate bill, TVA could build transmission lines paralleling those of private companies. Under the House bill, it would be required to purchase the private line, by negotiation if possible, otherwise by condemnation. Administration leaders contend the latter process would result in endless delays. Reflecting Comptroller General McCall's criticism of TVA purchases

GLASS SAYS AAA BILL IMPOSES BIRTH CONTROL AMONG BEES

Makes Remark in Senate During Discussion of Proposal to Broaden the Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—One reason why Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia doesn't like the AAA bill is because he contends it attempts to impose birth control on bees. "I don't want to be put in jail because I can't control the activities of my queen bee," he told an amused Senate today during discussion of the legislation to broaden the AAA Act.

Senator Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, replied that the bill proposed only to preserve a marketing agreement already in effect among bee shippers.

CIRCUS BEAR INJURES TWO

Children at Perryville, Ark., Scratched.

PERRYVILLE, Ark., July 10.—Slipping its chain, a trained bear rushed a group of children at Thornburg, six miles south of here, injuring two.

John D. Boyet, 2 years old, was cut and scratched about the face. Doris Powell, 8, escaped with scratches. The animal, part of a small circus, was recaptured by its trainer.

In the draft reported by the military affairs committee, is a clause requiring TVA, when constructing dams and reservoirs, to follow plans drafted in the 1930 report of the chief of army engineers. Denouncing the administration for opposing this provision, Representative McLean (Rep.), New Jersey, told the House:

"The obvious purpose behind this attitude is to give TVA exclusive and unlimited judgment and control of the whole program of construction, and to bind the Government permanently by decision made immediately."

Nevertheless, an amendment eliminating the provision, offered by Representative Hill (Dem.), Alabama, was adopted by a vote of 138 to 55. It followed party lines, except that Progressives, Farmer-Laborites and Republican Progressives voted with administration Democrats. Less than half the membership voted at all.

Representative May (Dem.), whose Kentucky district contains 30,000 coal mines, said the House bill was not as bad as the Senate's, but both were bad enough. He complained that electrification of the South is ruining the coal industry.

Reply by Maverick. Representative Maury Maverick, colorful Texas Democrat, retorted that he had no patience with such arguments. "Texas produces more oil than any state," he said, "but I'd be ashamed to come here and argue against this bill on the ground it might reduce oil consumption. We're not going to restore prosperity by starving one section to stimulate another. Restore the purchasing power of these people in the Tennessee Valley and they'll be able to buy the industrial products of the coal regions."

"I am opposed to hemming TVA in with all these restrictions. We should at least give it as much freedom as we gave the holding companies last week."

ON TRIAL FOR KILLING MAN 32 YEARS AGO

Former Missourian Testifies at Sevierville, Tenn., That He Acted in Self Defense.

By the Associated Press.

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn., July 10.—James Derrick, 66 years old, went on trial here yesterday on a murder charge filed 32 years ago.

Derrick told a jury of farmers he struck Rhoten Denton with a rock "to keep him off me with a knife." Derrick testified he fled from the state after the killing "because they were hunting me with guns."

For three days, he said, he hid in the woods near his home and then walked to Bryson City, N. C., where he caught a train for Memphis, Tenn. Later, he said, he settled in Missouri, where his wife and young son joined him.

Derrick returned to his home in the mountains near here eight months ago and recently was arrested on the murder charge.

The State produced only one witness, Fred Ballenger, 60-year-old Negro. Other witnesses to the actual killing of Denton are dead.

Former Sheriff W. J. Sauls testified he went to Manchester, Ok., in 1910 with a requisition from the late Gov. Malcolm Patterson of Tennessee, to return "James Derrick" on the murder charge. Derrick, he said, had obtained his freedom on a habeas corpus writ four hours before his arrival.

Derrick denied he had ever lived in Oklahoma or had been arrested on the charge there.

GIRL, 6, WALKING IN SLEEP, HURT IN FALL FROM WINDOW

Frances Trammill, 2609A Madison Street, Suffers Spinal and Scalp Injuries.

Frances Trammill, 6 years old, fell out of a second-floor window at her home, 2609A Madison street, at 1:50 a. m. today, apparently while walking in her sleep.

Patrolman Eugene Bauer, across the street, heard the child strike the sidewalk and ran to her assistance. At City Hospital she was pronounced suffering from a spinal injury and scalp wounds. She is the daughter of Mrs. Christine Trammill.

Captor of Giraffes Tells Of Big Game Hunting

Says He Kills Wild Animals Only for Food or When in Danger—Lion Cubs Easy to Take.

Walter Schulz, the unassuming young German who brought the three new giraffes to the St. Louis Zoo, and his father, Christ Schulz, are holders of the unofficial world's record for the number of wild animals caught. The two have so many captures to their credit that the other wild animal dealers now in the business will hardly ever be able to catch up with them.

Without ballyhoo and popularly written accounts of jungle expeditions, they have quietly gone about their business of trapping and furnishing their quarry to the zoos of the world until now, as Director Vierheller of the Zoo put it, they "are in a class by themselves."

When they landed in Boston last month they had more than 2000 animals aboard ship.

Walter Schulz, who is only 30 years old, and who doesn't really feel at home except on the African plateau, expects, before he retires, to set up an unassailable record of captures. It won't be any record that can be quoted in exact figures. Lion cubs, for instance, are so easy to catch, Walter says, and he catches so many, that he has stopped counting.

The Zoo's giraffes had the personal attention of Walter Schulz all the way here. On the railroad trip from Boston he stayed in the express car with them, getting practically no sleep. His father stayed in the East to dispose of some of the other animals.

He likes all animals and hates to kill any of them, which he does only when food is needed on a trapping expedition or when his life is endangered. He has plenty of narrow escapes to tell about, but the quiet manner in which he tells them minimizes the danger and belies the fear he really felt.

He says he knows only one man who, he thinks, really told the truth about his feeling when he saw his first lion in the wild state. "This fellow told," Schulz said, "that he was sure his hair stood straight up in the air. He forgot completely that he had a gun in his hand and he said he couldn't have lifted it to his shoulder anyway. He's sure the lion thought he had paralyzed him, which was enough, and therefore walked away."

Schulz saw his first wild lion when he was nine years old. That one was just jogging through the veldt. Several years ago he saw five at one time under somewhat different circumstances. He and his father had been riding all day and decided to spend the night in the open. They were sleeping on the ground, with their horses tied up nearby.

Walter was sound asleep when he heard his father cry, "Lion!" and looked up to see a lioness leaping toward the nearest horse. The horse was quick and must have sensed the animal near; it turned clear around, throwing the lioness off, but tossing the snarling beast on its back right at Walter's feet.

Five Lions in Group.

In the excitement, Walter couldn't find his rifle among the blankets, but the lioness was frightened and ran off—only to join four others. Walter and his father looked around.

"It was a beautiful sight," Walter said. "Five lions standing in a semi-circle in the starlight, not 20 yards from us. Father got out the flashlight and shone it on them. As he focused it on the largest and oldest male, the male stretched out and lay down. Then he opened his mouth wide and growled. Father shone the light right in his mouth and I fired. One shot broke his neck."

"With that the lioness came charging at us. I fired and missed. It was my last cartridge. But the bullet had thrown sand in the lioness' eyes. It was still rubbing the sand out of her eyes when I loaded up again. I fired twice at close range and killed it."

The other three lions trotted off into the night. Chivalry among lions, Schulz explained, is a strange thing. If a male is shot, the female will invariably charge the shooter. But if a female is shot, the male will do nothing about it and probably will trot off.

Last January while encamped one night on a trapping expedition, Walter, unable to sleep, suddenly discovered a lion licking the water cans standing next to his father's cot, and another lion astride the cab and hood of a truck, pawing at a zebra inside a cage on the truck.

He shot the lion on the truck and frightened the other away. The Schulzes have their home and ranch at Arusha, a small town 300 miles in from the coast in Tanganyika, East Africa. Near them is a tribe of natives whose males must steal a certain number of cattle and sheep before they are classed as warriors. When a native steals a sheep he customarily goes into a cave and eats the whole animal himself, followed by a strong laxative made from tree bark.

Although the natives are strong in body—part of their diet consists of drinking blood—a little ingenuity will stop their thievery. After too many sheep had disappeared from the ranch, Walter Schulz waited one night. Two thieves came in and tucked a sheep under their arms. Walter merely lit two Roman candles and shot them in the natives' direction. The colored spray made the dark skins of the thieves glisten as they dropped their sheep and ran, and since then not one animal has been stolen from the ranch.

Lithe, strong and unburned, Walter Schulz is gentle with the animals he handles. He knew the giraffes were nervous when they were being unloaded at the Zoo because they wouldn't come up and lick his face. As a good luck charm he wears a crude bracelet of hair from a giraffe's tail.

Soviet Emblem Banned in France.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 10.—A police ban on the hammer and sickle flag of the Soviet Union today allayed fears of possible clashes on Bastille day. Sunday. Leftists promised to defy the edict of Police Prefect Langeron prohibiting the display of any flag but the French tricolor and organization banners. The police order followed threats by the National Union veterans to tear down the red flags which the Communists and Socialists intended to display.

Investigate Our LONG TERM LOAN

Straight mortgages have proven a burden rather than a way to home ownership because of the fact that straight mortgages have to be refinanced approximately every three years.

The plan of the Building and Loan Associations of St. Louis eliminates renewals and simplifies home ownership by making ONE LONG TERM LOAN which is paid off monthly, like rent. No more expense or annoyance of renewals.

MIAMI PROTEST ON LOCATION OF NEGRO HOUSING PROJECT

Too Near White Residential Section, Officials Will Tell PWA.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., July 10.—The Dade County (Miami) Commission will protest to the Public Works Administration against the location of a proposed $1,000,000 low-cost Negro housing settlement near a white residential section.

The commission agreed yesterday to take this action after a delegation of county residents spoke against the tentative location and showed a petition which had 3,000 signatures.

The county's protest to Secretary of Interior Ickes will not ask for abandonment of the housing plan, which has tentative approval of the PWA, but will request it be located in an area farther from white residences.

One of Five Rescued Tells How Yacht Drifted Nine Days at Sea

Woman and Two Boys in Treasure-Hunting Party Caught in Stormy Weather Off Coast of Cuba.

By the Associated Press.

BATABANO, Cuba, July 10.—Four Canadians and one United States citizen were towed into this sponge fishing village aboard their small ketch Casarco yesterday, sea-sick and near exhaustion after drifting nine days in the open sea. They had started out in search of hidden treasure.

The five were picked up Monday off Cape Corrientes by the Cuban gunboat Santa Clara, towed to the Isle of Pines and then brought here. The 50-foot ketch, skippered by M. C. Rice of Toronto, sailed out of Havana harbor June 28 for an unannounced point in the Pacific Ocean where Rice hoped to dig up treasure.

With Rice were Elbert James of Daytona Beach, Fla., Mrs. Rice and her sons, Harry, 12 years old, and Derek, 14. James was employed as crew man at Miami. The purpose of the cruise was not told to him. The night after the Casarco left Havana, engine trouble developed. Drifting off Cuba, the Casarco began to leak and those aboard were compelled to bail until they were picked up by the Santa Clara. Throughout the nine days they were buffeted by tropical storms. Mrs. Rice suffered from seasickness.

In Toronto, Rice said, he repaired a clock for a woman who paid him by giving him a watch. When he repaired the watch he found a small picture inside the case. On the back of it was placed a map showing the location of hidden treasure buried along the coast of some country bordering on the Pacific ocean. The map gave longitude and latitude and other details, including the amount buried, Rice said.

Story of Accident.
The following account of the misfortune that overtook the ketch was written for the Associated Press by James.

"At last we are back on land after almost two weeks of hectic battling on rough seas, and I am not particularly interested in other treasure hunts.

"I shipped aboard the Casarco at Miami for a cruise with the Rices. "Later he revealed he was seeking treasure and told me some of his plans.

"After leaving Havana, our motor quit and we went adrift. The first trouble was with the starter, and I was able to get it started again. However, things got worse. We shipped water which got into the crankcase and finally the valves jammed up on us.

"Every time we hoisted the sails the tautness of them would strain the keel and we sprang a leak. The next day we started bailing and we bailed constantly thereafter. We are still bailing here in port to keep from sinking at the dock.

Radio Call for Aid.
"On July 5 we had no hope of fixing the motor, and no place to make land, and we decided to call the Coast Guard by radio. Capt. Rice acted as operator and got WHGW, amateur station at Palm Beach, Fla.

"We were able to use only the jigger and jib sails because the strain caused leaks.

"On the night of July 5 we burned flares all night and the same July 6. The night of July 6 a heavy squall caught us and we shipped more water. There were no signs of the Coast Guard and we rode out the squall with the jigger sail, radiocasting our new position to Cuban boats seeking us.

"On the night of July 6 we signaled with flares in Morse code to the freighter Lychford, which came close to see if we were endangered. We told them we were not in immediate danger and they left, promising to relay our position to Key West.

"On July 7 Cuban radio amateur CM2 at Havana told us the Santa Clara was coming up the coast seeking us, which revived our hopes. At 6 p. m. on July 8 we sighted the Santa Clara.

Finally, the Rescue.

"Our hopes sank when she passed us and we frantically signaled by firing a revolver and using sun reflectors. The Santa Clara turned about and came to us and put a line on us. Mrs. Rice was seasick and sunsick all the time.

"The commander of the Santa Clara first decided to tow us to Coloma, but later decided to take us to Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines.

"We reached Nueva Gerona at 1:35 p. m. July 8 and Mrs. Rice and the two boys boarded the Santa Clara for the voyage to Batabano. We took on two Cuban sailors and a Cuban pilot and started to work our way under sail through the treacherous channels near Nueva Gerona. The Santa Clara planned to pick us up again after we negotiated the shallow channel.

"However, we went aground and the Santa Clara found us at 4 p. m. and pulled us off the reef and towed us to Batabano, where we arrived today.

"It was a rough experience, with constantly heavy seas and terrific winds. Seas had smashed the engine room hatch, broken the guard rail and done other damage. One night while I was off duty, asleep, I heard breakers on the coast and jumped from the bunk and found we were less than 100 yards from being wrecked on a deserted coast.

"We had plenty of food but our water was nearly gone when the Santa Clara reached us."

FRANCE'S FIRST AIR MAIL

Domestic Service Inaugurated Between Paris and Provinces. By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 10.—France's first domestic air mail service was inaugurated officially today, to make daily deliveries between Paris and the most distant provincial cities.

Sponsored by Georges Mandel, former Minister of Communications, the network radiating from the capital included Le Havre, Lille, Strasbourg, Toulouse, Bordeaux, Mantes, Marseilles and Cannes. The mails are to be transported by "Air Bleu," a private company, the expenses to be met solely by postage.

PARK AGAIN REFUSES TO OUST MRS. CRUZEN

Governor Thinks Federal Agency's Attitude 'Much Ado About Nothing.'

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—Gov. Park, after receiving and reading the letter sent him by W. Frank Persons, director of the United States Employment Service, today repeated his former statement that Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen would be retained in the position of State Labor Commissioner, to which the Governor lately reappointed her for a four-year term.

As told yesterday, Persons demanded in his letter that Mrs. Cruzen be removed as director of the State Employment Service, supported jointly by Federal and State funds. He did not ask that she be removed from her strictly State job, as this is outside his jurisdiction.

Persons' demand was occasioned by Mrs. Cruzen's attempt to assess State Employment Service employees 1 per cent of their June salaries for the Democratic State Committee, of which she is vice-chairman. She is regarded as a Pendergast appointee. The Governor, asked today whether er Federal employment service funds for Missouri had been cut off, as threatened by Persons, said he did not know.

"It all seems to me a case of much ado about nothing," the Governor said. He said he had talked with Mrs. Cruzen, and that she had objected to giving up any of the authority which she has been exercising, by virtue of her state position, over Federal employment activities.

"Mrs. Cruzen's appointment stands," the Governor said. "She will not be removed."

Senate Agrees to House Navy Bill. WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Senate agreed yesterday to a conference report on the House bill increasing the number of naval officers and sent it to the House for final action. The bill would raise the officer line strength from 5,600 to 5,500 men. It would also modify the retirement law so that Lieutenants could serve 21 instead of 15 years before being retired, and Lieutenants, junior grade, 14 years, instead of seven. The conference adopted an amendment preventing active officers from working for companies selling goods to the navy and forbidding retired officers from working for companies selling directly to the navy.

NEW NASH "400" STEPS OUT AHEAD IN COMFORT FEATURES

WIDEST SEATS IN PRICE CLASS

Plenty of room is essential to comfort—and this car has plenty! The front seats of the "400" are 1 1/2 to 6 1/2 inches wider than the front seats of competitive cars—and the rear seat 1 to 4 inches wider! Thirty-eight inches of headroom and hatroom in both seats. Only one other competitive car has more than 36 inches, and only in one seat.

LOTS OF LUGGAGE SPACE

All Nash models have a large built-in compartment for carrying ample luggage and spare tire. You'll be surprised how much luggage you can pack into the "400"—out of everybody's way and safely under lock and key.

THIS new Nash "400" is as different from other cars as day from night . . . and every difference is a betterment! The "400" is by far the roomiest car at the price. First car with a Monitor-Sealed Motor. First car to combine an all-steel body with seamless steel top and steel floor. First car to eliminate hood-lifting at gas stations. First car to make available in its price field the performance thrills and operating economy of the Nash Automatic Cruising Gear, optional at slight extra cost. Be sure you drive this "newest new car in years".

SYNCHRONIZED SPRINGING

Equalized spring action at all four wheels. Levels the ride—relaxed comfort for all passengers. Makes every road seem newly paved.

RAPID SERVICE HOOD

Everybody says, "Why didn't someone think of this idea before?" No lifting the hood to add either oil or water. Radiator ornament is hinged. Oil and water caps are underneath. Oil supply indicator on dash.

WHAT CAN'T BE SEEN IN AUDITORIUM ARENA

Many Interesting Features of Huge Section Hidden in Ceiling or Above It.

Some of the most interesting features of the huge arena section of Municipal Auditorium, being completed this summer, may be found in the ceiling and above it, beyond the sight of future audiences.

Construction officials said today that the $1,184,397 work, started April 16 with bond and PWA funds, would be finished in time to accommodate the American Legion national convention, Sept. 23 to 26, barring unforeseen interruptions. Lately, nearly 300 workmen of various crafts have been engaged on the job, including all available local metal lathers and six who had to be brought from Kansas City.

For the work on and above the ceiling a scaffold of 48,000 square feet is in use. It is said to have cost $10,000 or more. Containing a quarter of a million board feet of lumber, it is suspended from the steel roof trusses by 372 sets of cables and was built on four different levels because of the slope of the ceiling. The highest level is 87 feet above the arena floor. When the hazardous task of erecting the scaffold begins several weeks hence, the cables will be drawn up through three-inch holes in the ceiling and kept for future use. The holes will be plugged from above with tin disks, painted like the plaster.

Acoustical Plaster Used. Installation of nearly 35,000 square yards of steel lath in the ceiling was expected to be finished by today. Plasterers have been following closely behind the lathers, and will be through with the two coats in about 10 days. Three coats of acoustical plaster, each a quarter inch thick, have been started to form the final surface. Voices of workmen on the scaffold are deadened by this material, which will prevent reverberations. Samples already have been sent to an acoustical testing laboratory. Color was mixed in this plaster, which will be a light buff when dry.

Painters and electricians will be the last to use the scaffold. The painting job will be comparatively short. The electrical workers will place troughs in covers to furnish the indirect illumination of the hall.

Hundreds of little doors were built in the covers so that an operator above the ceiling may reach in to clean or replace the bulbs. Paint and distance will make the doors invisible to spectators below. Three horseshoe-shaped slots more than two feet wide have been left in the ceiling for additional lighting. These will be covered with glass, in 336 separate units. Above the glass of each unit will be four bulbs of 1500-watt capacity each—a total of 2016 kilowatts—enough current for scores of homes.

With a portion of these horseshoe lights it will be possible to flood the arena floor in brightness yet leave the adjoining tiers of seats in comparative obscurity. One of the three horseshoes will have hinged openings to permit the play of lights in specified directions.

Eyebolts Through Ceiling. Fifty-nine steel eyebolts have been attached through the ceiling to the trusses. Spectators will scarcely be able to detect them, yet they will be capable of supporting about a ton each. Such things as circus apparatus, special lights for a prize fight ring, loud-speaker equipment, banners, and decorative materials may be suspended from them. A number of similar eyebolts were put in the sidewalls.

The roof trusses, which have a clear span of 266 feet, form a steel maze rising 48 feet above the ceiling. On them has been placed four-fifths of a mile of "catwalks"—perforated metal footways, with hand rails and lights. From these walks the lights will be operated and adjusted, the eyebolts manipulated, the sleeves for the scaffold cables sealed and other odd jobs performed over the heads of unsuspecting audiences.

Two large openings have been provided near the center of the ceiling for operation from above the spot lights to reach the stage at varying angles.

Work in the big structure has been limited by no means to the upper reaches. Much plastering has been started in other sections. A terra cotta wall has been placed in the promenade at the second level of the arena. It is in bands of black and gray of restful appearance.

Finishing of the 27 committee rooms on three different levels has been started and good progress has been made on plumbing and plastering of numerous lavatories. Heating and ventilating ducts have been installed.

For the air conditioning plant, believed to be the largest in the world, a cooling tower has been erected in an area way at the back of the auditorium. The tower, brickwork of which is well under way, is a good-sized structure in itself. It covers a portion of the south wall of the building, which had been designed for public observation, since the conditioning plant originally was intended to go on a separate site. In consequence of the change, ordered by the present city administration, face brick and stone trim of the south wall was coated with asphalt paint for waterproofing within the cooling tower area.

Placing of the heating and ventilating fans and other equipment in chambers scattered about recesses of the arena unit has progressed. Installation of 7428 permanent seats, costing $7.67 each, on the two sloping tiers surrounding the arena floor will be begun a week from today. There will be 3442 portable seats for the main floor.

To Be Ready for Legion. Ted Unland, construction superintendent for the architects, the Memorial Plaza Commission, said the arena, entrance ramps, lavatories and committee rooms would be completed in time for the Legion convention if there was no delay.

He hoped the upper and lower promenades might be finished by then also, although this is not required. An effort will be made, in addition, to complete the check rooms under the seat tiers. The din of construction cannot be heard from the large stage with the soundproof steel curtain low.

ered. The stage, with a curtain on each side, will serve the arena and the 3563-seat opera house separately or jointly.

CONVICTION SET ASIDE IN $105,000 HOLDUP CASE

Union City (N. J.) Doctor Was Sentenced on Charge of Possessing Money From Mail Truck.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 10.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals set aside yesterday the conviction of Dr. Leo W. Brandenburg, Union City (N. J.) physician, sentenced last October on charges of possessing money stolen in a mail truck holdup.

Dr. Brandenburg was convicted largely on the testimony of Vincent Girard McGrath, teller of a Rutherford (N. J.) bank. He said Dr. Brandenburg gave him the money to deposit under a fictitious name. Dr. Brandenburg denied knowledge of the money. The mail truck was held up at Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 14, 1933.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 10.—The $105,000 mail truck robbery here, in connection with which Dr. Leo W. Brandenburg of Union City, N. J., was indicted, was attributed to four members of the notorious Touhey gang of Chicago.

Basili Banghart, Isaac Costner and Dutch Schmidt, three of the gang, were convicted and received long sentences. The fourth, Charles Connors, was found shot to death on a Chicago street.

Author Fined as Drinking Driver. HOLLYWOOD, July 10.—Gouverneur Morris, noted author, yesterday paid a fine of $500 for driving while intoxicated May 27 when his automobile struck another car, injuring L. E. Erickson. He entered a plea of guilty.

ROOSEVELT SAYS CITIES MUST HELP BEAR WORKS COST

Orders First Consideration Given to Those Putting Up 55 Pct. of Outlay on PWA Projects.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Delays in getting PWA projects approved by the Federal Government apparently are in store for cities and states which do not put up 55 per cent of the cost.

President Roosevelt told state PWA directors yesterday that "local public bodies willing to put up their share of the total cost of the project must, of course, be given first consideration."

PWA terms recently were liberalized by increasing the Federal donation from 30 per cent to 45 per cent. Cities unable to put up 55 per cent may be granted loans from a PWA revolving fund, which is made up through sales of securities the Public Works Administration has accepted on loan, or in some cases they may turn to Harry L. Hopkins' Works Progress Administration for donations.

"Human to Try to Get More." Some cities, the President told the directors, "are going to try to prove to you that they cannot finance their share of the costs and it is up to you to find whether that proof is adequate. It is only human to try to get more than 45 per cent."

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, head of PWA, and Hopkins both have said that efforts would be made to detect cities which take kind of "pauper's oath," without

CARDINALS AGAIN IDLE

THE world champion Cardinals again were idle today. Tomorrow they will open a five-game series in four days with Jimmy Wilson's Phillies at Sportsman's Park.

With no game since Sunday, some of the Redbirds have had a three-day vacation, while those who played in the All-Star game at Cleveland Monday have had a two days' rest.

Our Hardy Annual.

THE perennially blooming Ted Dreyer has just won another municipal tennis championship, his twelfth consecutive victory and his fifteenth since his first appearance in municipal tennis play in 1916.

This is remarkable not only from the fact that Dreyer is nearing his thirty-eighth birthday, but because in all these years our municipal courts have not been able to produce a competitor able to dethrone this hardy annual.

At 38, however, well preserved, the bloom is off the athletic peach in all pastimes that are at all strenuous. Yet Dreyer is still with us today, apparently as easily master of his younger opposition as he was 10 years ago.

Getting Nowhere Fast.

THE answer to the inevitable question why this should be is either that Dreyer has steadily improved his play or that the stiffness of the opposition has declined.

As to the former, it may be pointed out that where Dreyer was formerly good enough to win four national municipal championships, he has not been able to repeat in late years. That should mean that while he has kept pace locally he has slipped nationally. The obvious conclusion is that

"Me and Paul" Pitching Better Than Last Year, Records Show

By Herman Wecke.

Although the firm of Dean & Dean, pitchers for the world champion Cardinals, is behind its 1934 record as far as victories are concerned, statistics bring out the fact that the brothers Dizzy and Paul have pitched more efficiently than was the case a year ago.

At this time in 1934 Dizzy had 14 victories against three defeats, while Paul's mark was 10-4, a total of 24 victories and only eight reverses. This season it is 13-6 for Dizzy and 17 for Paul or 21 triumphs against 13 defeats. Thus the brothers have three fewer victories and five more reverses.

The two, however, have twirled better ball. A year ago Dizzy had yielded an average of 4.32 runs for each nine rounds, while Paul had been found for 5.04. This season the figures are 3.33 runs off Dizzy and 4.77 tallies for Paul. Dizzy especially has been more effective since he has yielded almost one run fewer in each contest.

For the early part of the 1934 campaign the elder brother, pitching in 156 innings, had allowed 75 runs. This year, working in the same number of rounds, Dizzy has been scored upon only 55 times, a difference of 17 runs! A year ago he had allowed 160 hits, more than a round, whereas this year the total is 149. Dizzy, with 94, has two more strikeouts this season than in 1934, while he has issued two more bases on balls, 45.

Finished 14 Complete Games. Dizzy, to date, has pitched 14 complete games, four more than he owned a year ago. In 1934, he Jamison vs. Fehlig.

Draper vs. Stewart.

By W. J. McGoogan.

NORMANDIE GOLF CLUB, July 10.—Lou Fehlig of Norwood Hills led Paul Jamison of Glen Echo, one up after the first nine holes of their semifinal St. Louis District junior golf tournament match here this afternoon. Tom Draper also was one up on Phillip Stewart of Osage after the outgoing nine.

Fehlig sprang a surprise this morning by upsetting Bob Stamm of Normandie, one up in 19 holes, in a quarterfinal match. Fehlig had seven birdies.

After finishing the 18 all square, they were both beyond the green with their second shots on the nineteenth. In chipping back, Fehlig dropped his ball six feet from the pin, while Stamm's was 12 feet away. Bob suffered a bit of bad luck when his long putt hung on the lip of the cup for what would have been a birdie and then Fehlig came through with a perfect putt for a four and victory.

Their cards:

Fehlig, Draper, defending champion, scored a 4 and 3 victory over his Normandie clubmate, James Black, to enter this afternoon's semifinal against Phillip Stewart of Osage, who eliminated Jonas Weiss of Norwood, 1 up.

Paul Jamison of Glen Echo was first to complete his quarterfinal match, defeating Mark Schlude, 2 and 1. Jamison's game improved as the match went forward and in the last eight holes he had a succession of sensational shots, scoring

In 57 innings pitched, Burger of Long Island University fanned 68 men, averaging better than 10 to the game.

PASSES TO MUNY SPORTS EVENTS ARE ABOLISHED

By Dent McSkimming.

The pass evil, which has plagued officials of the Municipal Athletic Association recently, has grown to such proportions that it has strangled itself. The Central Council of the Municipal Athletic Association, at its meeting today, adopted a resolution of the committee on policy abolishing passes. Hereafter, the only persons who will be admitted without charge to such attractions as the baseball and soccer finals, will be "members of the participating teams (including players, manager, trainer and team sponsor), officials in charge of the game and Municipal Athletic Association officials (including members of the Central Council and the various sports executive committees), and members of the press engaged in covering the game."

"Last spring, the pass evil became so great that it was a major problem of my department," Frank Sullivan, superintendent of recreation, told the committee. "At one of the soccer finals there were over 700 passes collected at the gate. And the worst feature of it was that these passes had reached the hands of persons well able to pay the required 25 cents, whereas they were presumably issued to unemployed soccer fans without the means to pay." Sullivan was head of the committee which recommended the no-pass rule.

College Football League.

Among other business transacted at the meeting, the council voted to recognize a league of football teams to represent the American college game. A grounds will be provided by the Park Department, probably in Forest Park.

President John "King" Finnegan was instructed to name two delegates to represent the Municipal Soccer League at the annual meeting of the United States Football Association at Atlantic City, July 27 and 28. He said after the meeting he would name the delegates after consulting with the executive committee.

CLIFT MAKES FOUR HITS; LARY GETS TWO DOUBLES AND SINGLE

By James M. Gould.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—All things, good and bad, come to an end and the Browns this afternoon snapped their losing streak after nine straight defeats, by handing the Athletics a 7-2 beating in the opener of the series behind the good pitching of Dick Coffman. Hornsby's men collected an even dozen safeties off Marcum and Dietrich and were never in danger after making four runs off Marcum in the second inning.

Clift, with four hits and Lary and Burns, each with three, led the St. Louis attack and Coffman was the first Brownie pitcher to finish since June 24. Dick permitted eight hits, three of them in the eighth when the Mackmen made their only runs. Three double plays by Hornsby's infield helped the hurler out of tight places.

Lary Bats in Two Runs.
The Browns had one of their infrequent "big" innings in the second. With two out, Clift singled to left and Bejma was safe when Warstler fumbled his grounder. Coffman's patience was rewarded with a pass after which Lary came through with a double past third to score Clift and Bejma. Marcum then walked Burns and Solters singled Coffman and Lary scored. Marcum retired after this inning and Dietrich was his relief.

What Dietrich filled the bases in the fifth with two down, it was Burns' turn to come through and he did with a single to center which was good for two more runs.

Coffman started very shakily but when the Athletics didn't score in the first inning, after filling the bases with one down, he settled down nicely.

Athletics Scoreless Until Eighth.
The Browns played snappily throughout with the fielding match in the pitching. A double play squelched what might have been a rally in the second and in the seventh, when McNair led off with a safe bunt, they pulled another fast two-timer.

In the last of the eighth, the Athletics broke through with two runs. Moss opened with a double and scored on Cramer's two-bagger. After Johnson filed out, Cramer counted on Fox's single and then the Browns turned their third double play of the game on Higgins' grounder to Bejma.

In the ninth, the Browns picked up a seventh run on hits by Clift, Lary and Burns and Coffman held the Mackmen easily in the last half.

The game:
FIRST INNING—BROWNS—Lary struck out. Burns doubled past first. McNair threw out Solters, Burns reaching third. Coleman fouled to Higgins.

ATHLETICS—Moss popped to Lary. Cramer singled to right. Johnson singled to left, sending Cramer to third, and took second on the throw to third. Fox was purposely passed, filling the bases. Higgins hit to Coffman and Cramer was forced at the plate. Coffman to Hamaley. Warstler filed to West.

SECOND INNING—McNair threw out West. Hensley was out the same way. Clift singled to center. Bejma was safe on a fumble by Warstler. Clift stopping at second. Coffman walked and the bases were filled. Lary doubled past third, scoring Clift and Bejma and putting Coffman on third. Burns walked and the bases were filled again. Solters singled to left, scoring Coffman and Lary. Burns stopping at second. Coleman grounded to Warstler. FOUR RUNS.

THIRD INNING—Dietrich went in to pitch for the Athletics. West filed to Johnson. Hensley singled off Dietrich's glove. Clift lined to Johnson. Hensley stole second. Bejma walked. Warstler threw out Coffman.

FOURTH INNING—Mosses filed to Solters. Cramer grounded to Burns. Johnson was safe on Lary's high throw to first. Fox walked. Johnson stole third. Higgins forced Fox. Clift to Bejma.

FIFTH INNING—Lary doubled off the wall in left. Burns filed to Johnson. Solters popped to McNair. Coleman walked. West grounded to Fox.

SIXTH INNING—Clift threw out Warstler. McNair fouled to Solters. Richard filed to Solters. Marcum hit into a double play, Bejma to Lary to Burns.

SEVENTH INNING—Dietrich went in to pitch for the Athletics. West filed to Johnson. Hensley singled off Dietrich's glove. Clift lined to Johnson. Hensley stole second. Bejma walked. Warstler threw out Coffman.

EIGHTH INNING—Mosses filed to Solters. Cramer grounded to Burns. Johnson was safe on Lary's high throw to first. Fox walked. Johnson stole third. Higgins forced Fox. Clift to Bejma.

NINTH INNING—Lary doubled off the wall in left. Burns filed to Johnson. Solters popped to McNair. Coleman walked. West grounded to Fox.

ATHLETICS—Clift threw out Warstler. McNair fouled to Solters. Richard filed to Solters. Marcum hit into a double play, Bejma to Lary to Burns.

FIFTH INNING—Hensley fouled to Richard. Clift single past third. Bejma filed to Johnson. Coffman walked. Lary also walked and the bases were filled. Burns singled.

SCHUMACHER WINS ELEVENTH GAME IN ROW

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 10.—Hal Schumacher extended the season's best winning streak for a major league pitcher to 11 straight victories when he limited the Pirates to five hits today, the Giants battling hard behind him to take the series opened, 1 lost 3.

Schumacher retired the last 16 men who faced him in order, as he blanked the home side during the final six innings after he had been touched for three runs—two of them unearned—in the third frame.

The great young right-hander, who received his bachelor of science degree from St. Lawrence University two years ago, while helping pitch the Giants toward a pennant, did not seem a bit fatigued today, though he had tossed four innings the day before yesterday in the all-star game in Cleveland. It was his thirteenth victory of the year, in all, against but two defeats.

It was the Giants' ninth win over Pittsburgh in 12 games the two teams have played so far.

PEACOCK AGAIN DEFEATS OWENS IN SPRINT BUT LOSES IN JUMP

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A new star has appeared in the track firmament, and his name is Bright. Norman Bright of Bellingham, Wash., who wears the colors of the San Francisco Olympic Club, raced to a new American two-mile record last night on the rain-soaked track of New York University at Ohio Field.

Bright, who said he never before had run the two-mile event in competition, amused timers before the race when he asked that his time be yelled to him as he passed each quarter-mile mark.

They had expected that the veteran Joe McCuskey of the New York A. C. would romp in first with plenty to spare.

Bright allowed McCuskey to make the pace until the last lap, when he breezed by the leader like a dash man and broke the tape 30 yards in front in the new American time of 9 minutes 13.2 seconds, more than two seconds faster than the former mark of 9m. 15.4s.

Peacock-Owens Break Even. Eulace Peacock, the latest Negro speed sensation, turned in his third victory over Jesse Owens of Ohio State in the century dash, but Owens evened matters for the meet by taking the broad jump. Peacock, fast on the getaway, was nearly overhauled at the tape, winning by a scant foot in 8.7s.

Owens gathered himself from a slippery takeoff, however, to leap 23 feet 9 inches in the broad jump. The best Peacock could do was 23 feet 8 1/2 inches.

A new "world record" was claimed for the New York A. C. quartet in the 1000-meter Swedish relay. The event, unfamiliar in this country, is not on the official world record list authorized by the International A. A. U., but the winners' time of 1 minute 56.1 seconds was six-tenths of a second faster than the best previous listed performance made by an American team composed of Peacock, Bob Kane, Glenn Hardin and Ben Eastman at Oslo, Norway, last summer.

August Wins From O'Brien. The N. Y. C. A. team, running consecutive legs of 100, 200 and 400 meters, was composed of Willard Allen, John Kunitzky, Milton Flewelling and James McPoland.

The big surprise of the meet came when Ivan Pucot of Syracuse defeated Eddie O'Brien of Syracuse in the 400-meter dash, in the 300-yard run.

Young Miss Dolores Smith, junior 100 and 220 yard champion swimmer, training for the senior championships, which will be held July 13 and 14. She is considered the most promising of the upcoming swimmers and likely to graduate as senior champion.

Peacock United States' Best Bet to Win Sprints at Next Olympic Games, Paddock Says

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 10.—Charles W. Paddock, who once held most of the sprint records, scanned the 1936 Olympic games horizon and saw only Eulace Peacock, of Temple, as a sure bet to defend the dash honors at Berlin for the United States.

Only dimly could the once "fastest human," veteran of three Olympic games, see such speedsters as Jesse Owens, Ralph Metcalfe and George Anderson, as he paused from business yesterday.

"I can only see Peacock as a certain performer in the games at Berlin," said Paddock. "I'm afraid Metcalfe can't hold up another year, what with that bad leg, and I can't help feeling Owens is pretty much burned out."

"As for Anderson, well, I had counted on George pretty much since he's from my home town of Pasadena, but it looks as though he would have a hard time getting into the first three in either the hundred or two hundred meters."

Although Paddock was the exception to the rule, he feels the life of a sprinter is shorter, competitively speaking than any other athlete who takes part in track and field events.

"I expect a couple youngsters whom we hear little or nothing about so far, to come up next year and share the spotlight with the Temple Negro."

"If Owens were to specialize on the 220-yard dash next year and leave the hundred and long hurdles alone he still might figure."

There isn't much left of the long list of records the former University of Southern California star once held. Of the world's marks one of 33.2 seconds for 300 meters set in 1921 alone remains.

There's nothing to it," Baer said. "My coming back tonight to join my wife at Long Branch."

Baer left for Baltimore where he will receive treatment for injuries to his hands suffered in the fight in which he lost his title to James J. Braddock.

The former champ surprised friends in a New York restaurant last night by appearing with a girl to whom he was once believed engaged.

"The marriage is on the rocks," he said at that time. "My wife is Catholic and I'm Jewish so it's no go."

Mrs. Baer, speaking from the Baer residence at Long Branch, had laughed when told of his earlier statement.

"We are very happy," he said. "I talked to Max at 5 o'clock today and if there was anything wrong then he failed to mention it."

SUMMER BASKETBALL FOR OLYMPIC PROGRAM By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 10.—Summertime basketball, out-of-doors, in contrast to the normal winter indoor setting of the game will be provided in the 1936 Olympic Games at Berlin.

Dr. Carl Diem, general secretary of the Olympic Committee in Berlin, advised Dr. F. C. Allen, chairman of the Olympic committees of the National Coaches' and Rules organizations, that the contests would be played midway of the Olympic program on the afternoon of Aug. 8-14 inclusive.

Competition will be governed by the rules adopted five years ago by the Federation Internationale de Basketball.

Each nation may have a maximum squad of 14 members of whom only seven may be nominated for each game. Teams will be allowed 48-hour intermissions between games.

Competition will be carried out on the cup system, with the nature of the draw to be determined by the International Federation, which also will appoint all officials. Consolations will be arranged.

Warburton to Marry. By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 10.—"Cotton" Warburton, 25, former quarterback on University of Southern California football team, filed notice yesterday of intention to marry Miss Nellie Keswick Mayson, 20. The ceremony, he said, will be performed Saturday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church here. Warburton gave his occupation as assistant film cutter.

Warburton to Marry. By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 10.—"Cotton" Warburton, 25, former quarterback on University of Southern California football team, filed notice yesterday of intention to marry Miss Nellie Keswick Mayson, 20. The ceremony, he said, will be performed Saturday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church here. Warburton gave his occupation as assistant film cutter.

I STILL got a complaint to make about the All-Star game and I reckon after I get this one off my chest I'll let the old thing go for another year. But what burns me up is when I read where the American League explains that Mickey Cochrane picks what he thinks is the best "money" team to represent the league in that game, which is cutting the corner to say that he didn't think Hank Greenberg was very good on the pinch or at least not good enough to keep Lou Gehrig off the club.

That is a lot of bunk if you will excuse me. They tell me Old Hank knocked in his 100th run of the season the other day and anybody who can knock in 100 runs in July must be pretty good in the old pincherino, which is when men is on the bases and a base hit is needed to cash in.

Greenberg was a little tight in the world series but so was all the Tigers, especially their stricken leader, Mr. Mickey Cochrane and I hate to see a good hitter like Greenberg get the works from his own manager and his own club and league when I figure everybody agrees he is the best first baseman in that league this year.

SURFACE ADVANCES TO THIRD ROUND OF SPRING LAKE, N. J. TENNIS By the Associated Press.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 10.—Billy Reese of Atlanta and Hal Surface of Kansas City moved impressively into the third round of the Spring Lake invitation tennis tournament today.

Reese, one of the favorites for the title, defeated Donald Hawley of East Orange, N. J., former New York University star, 6-2, 7-5, while Surface was winning easily from Dr. Philip B. Hawk of Forest Hills, 6-3, 6-1.

Bernard T. Welsh, Rockville, Md., defeated Haines Stockton, Spring Lake, N. J., 6-1, 6-1, in the second round.

Two other favorites, Wilbur E. Hess, newly-crowned intercollegiate champion from Texas, and Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., also advanced.

Hess played excellent tennis to eliminate Edgar Weller of Richmond, 6-2, 6-0, and Harris likewise was in form as he mowed down Lieut. J. M. Worthington of Bradley Beach, 6-2, 6-1.

MERCEINA WEISS IN SEMIFINAL OF MUNICIPAL MEET

Lois Keene, St. Louis girl who holds the University of Illinois women's tennis championship, provided the first upset in the Municipal championship by defeating Marjorie Dierberger, St. Louis District girl titleholder, in a second round match on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park, yesterday afternoon, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Dierberger was seeded No. 4, while Miss Keene was not included in the list of seeded players.

Merceina Weiss, Wisconsin University champion, won her way into the semifinal round by defeating Lillian Boeing, St. Louis University Club player. Miss Boeing forced the first set to 6-3 but failed to win a game in the second set.

The defending champion, Mrs. Ruth Bailey Prosser gained the quarterfinal bracket as the result of her 6-0, 6-2 victory over Mrs. Gertrude Bell O'Fallon Park entrant. Following the singles Mrs. Prosser teamed with Miss Weiss to defeat Lorna Grandt and Hope Lindauer 6-0, 6-0 in a quarterfinal doubles encounter.

Mrs. Prosser will oppose Evelyn Caporal in the only quarterfinal round singles match scheduled for this afternoon. Mrs. Virginia Dusek, a former titleholder, will play Laura Mundy in one second round encounter, while Ruth Moehlenkamp meets her doubles partner Mrs. Beatrice Slater in another.

Only one doubles match is scheduled, Lois Keene and Marjorie Dierberger will meet Mrs. Frank Furlong Jr., and Lillian Boeing.

Forest Park Results. Robert Prosser reached the second round of the Forest Park Tennis Club closed tournament by defeating Eugene Hartnett, 6-4, 6-4 yesterday. Leon Neuman played good tennis in defeating Dr. Louis Singer, 7-5, 7-5 in a second round contest. James Lieber Jr. won from G. Higgins, 6-2, 6-0 in the first round.

Only one match was played yesterday in the women's singles event. Mrs. Marcella Kransberg eliminated Mrs. Betty Beebe, 6-0, 6-0 in a second round contest.

Coffman, Solters walked and the bases again were filled. Coleman grounded to Fox. TWO RUNS.

ATHLETICS.—Dietrich struck out. Moses singled to center. Cramer grounded to Burns. Johnson fouled to Clift.

SIXTH—BROWNS.—West filed to Johnson. So did Hemaley. Clift singled to left for his third hit. McNair struck out. BURNS.—Clift was called out on strikes. Higgins filed to West. Warstler popped to Larry.

SEVENTH—BROWNS.—Warstler threw out Coffman. Larry walked. Burns filed to Moses. Larry stole second. Solters struck out.

ATHLETICS.—McNair bunted safely toward third. Richards hit into a double play, Clift to Bejma to Burns. Clift threw out Dietrich.

EIGHTH—BROWNS.—Warstler threw out Coleman. West walked. Hemaley sent a long fly to Cramer. West was out stealing. Richards to Warstler.

ATHLETICS.—Moses doubled to right. Cramer doubled to center, scoring Moses. Johnson lined to Solters. Fox singled to center scoring Cramer. Higgins hit into a double play, Clift to Bejma to Burns.

NINTH—BROWNS.—Clift singled to left for his fourth hit. Trying to sacrifice Bejma popped to Dietrich. Coffman was called out on strikes. Larry bunted safely toward third. Burns singled to right center, scoring Clift and putting in Larry third. Solters filed to Solters. ONE RUN.

ATHLETICS.—Warstler grounded to Larry. Richards grounded to Clift.

Brownie Notes. PHILADELPHIA, July 10. FUNNY thing, but certain observers are always asking "what are they going to do about St. Louis?" They might give a little attention also to Philadelphia and Washington. Here, today, an estimated 500 at the attendance at the opening of the series, would have been extremely generous.

Hornaby probably will use Thomas and Knott as starting pitchers in tomorrow's doubleheader. Mahaffey and Wilshire are Philadelphia probabilities.

The game marked Coleman's first Philadelphia appearance in other than a MacGuffin. He would have been received heartily by the big crowd if there had been any big crowd. The few present cheered, however.

When Cramer and Johnson singled with one down in the first, it was the old "army game" to intentionally pass Fox to fill the bases. It's a great old game when it works, and it did, for Higgins forced Cramer at the plate and Warstler filed out.

Coffman set a record when he completed the opening inning. Not one of the three starters in Detroit did that well. And, a base hit with the bases filled, as they were, probably would have put Dick out.

The Browns filed the bases twice in the second inning and each time a two-run hit was forthcoming. Larry and Solters being the hitters. With Warstler's error a part of the proceedings after two were out, all the tallies were unearned.

The rest must have done Larry some good. His two doubles were real hits—one past third and the other off the left-field wall.

Hemaley is taking himself and his profession very seriously these days. He was delighted at having played in the all-star game, and there's little chance that the "Hobo" ever will be a bad boy again.

local municipal tennis play is not advancing.

Tennis officials interested in improvement of municipal play say this is due to the fact that the public do not get adequate free instruction, such as is available to players in Chicago and other centers, where instructors are hired to teach the young idea how to play.

Why not here, too? Money to pay the instructors is lacking. Tennis playing in the public parks is recreation rather than competition. And perhaps that is better.

One Way to Pep It Up. T All-Stars game is not so unadventurous a contest as it might be. Too much of the exhibition flavor has been injected into it. Fans want a tooth-and-nail struggle.

As long as the present plan of exhibiting as many stars as possible continues, the impression of lack of player interest will prevail. As a matter of fact the boys really want to win and play their very dingiest. We are informed.

However, it is important to convince the public of this fact and there seems only one way to do it. That is to give the boys a cut of the pie. Twenty per cent of the pot, say approximately $20,000 winner-take-all, would restore confidence that the players were heart and soul in the struggle.

Fans would be convinced that no player would willingly shirk or allow jealousy to impair his efforts to bring victory. And probably no manager would lightly refuse a winning combination merely for the sake of exhibiting a few more men.

Of course the players, knowing that the purpose of the game is to build up a fund which one day they themselves may have to fall back upon, should and probably do give their best efforts. But the $1000 a man for each of 20 would be a man for each of 20 toward convincing skeptics.

Tapping New England's "Sugar." ANOTHER spout will start draining the sap from New England's "sugar" tree—the Suffolk Downs racetrack, built at a cost of $2,000,000 on a reclaimed East Boston dump. The mutuels will take a 20-day whack at what remains of New England's dollars, already decimated by meetings at Rockingham and Narragansett.

Some idea of the volume of money circulated in this comparatively fresh mutual district may be noted in the $6,000,000 handled at the Pawtucket track in 16 days.

Starting in the spring, the racing mutuels begin to tap the New England "sugar." The "sap" supply seems endless. At Rockingham, Narragansett, Boston, and then back again over the same circuit, they turn out in thousands.

In addition to the horse racing mutuels, the dogs have been legalized in Boston and what is left of the daylight "sugar" will be drained the night saps by the canine mutuels.

A Five Months' Drain. NEW ENGLAND is a rich community. In the summer months it is aided by a considerable resort population which can afford to lose some of its surplus. Allowing for it all, it is difficult to see how Boston, which is the principal center drained by racing promotions, can stand the drain of day and night takeout percentages, for four or five consecutive months.

That signs of uneasiness are beginning to be manifested by promoters is shown in the attempt of the present owners of Rockingham track, a veritable gold mine, to sell out while the selling is good.

Rockingham officials probably have seen the handwriting on the wall, which reads: "Too much is too bad."

New England is getting too much mutual play for its own good. Time will show.

Tilden Expects Mrs. Moody to Win U. S. Title

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, July 10.—"Big Bill" Tilden, although admitting the all-Helen final at Wimbledon was a nip and tuck affair, today predicted Mrs. Helen Wills Moody will run away with the American tennis championship at Forest Hills, N. Y., this fall.

Once king of the almon pures, Tilden peered over the fence from his professional world, where he is priest, and was able to see no one but Mrs. Moody among the women amateurs. Tilden knows what a good tennis player looks like, and he likes to rate today's stars.

"Mrs. Moody," he said, "has not changed her style a bit. Her accuracy and speed have suffered during her two years' absence from the game, but these will come right back with a little practice."

"She still is the best woman player in the world. She is regaining her old form rapidly, and when she goes on the courts in America to fight for that title she missed two years ago, I have no doubt but that she will win it."

In case you're interested in Tilden's views on men players, here he discusses professional tennis, livelihood—know that he rates his young colleague, Ellsworth Vines, Californian, "the greatest player living today—a man who can beat anybody in the world."

And amateurs? Why, says Tilden, at the present moment the greatest amateur player is Baron Gottfried von Cramm, German Davis Cup ace who was beaten decisively last Friday by Fred Perry in the men's final at Wimbledon.

two birdies and one eagle. Jamison will oppose Fehlig in this afternoon's semifinal.

Stamm's play yesterday was very good for the fourth hole, a par five, where he got a three, but he missed the feature match of the day, however, was a second round contest in which Jamison eliminated Walter Ambo, University City, runner-up to Draper in the District, 1 up in 21 holes.

Ambo won three holes in succession to start with as Jamison, a member of Yale University's golf team, went two over par on the first; one on the second and one on the third. But after that Paul rallied and his 41 on the first nine left him only one down.

He had picked up the deficit by the time they had finished playing 16 and winning the seventeenth with a par five went to the home hole one up. Paul took a five on the par three eighteenth and Walter sent the match into overtime with a four.

Ambo falters on No. 21. They both had birdie fours on the nineteenth and par fours on the twentieth, but Ambo slipped one over par at the twenty-first when he missed a seven-foot putt for a three while Paul canned a five-footer for the win.

Schlude, Jamison's opponent to day, wedged through his first two matches, winning from Dick Mattis, Forest Park, 4 and 2 in the morning and from Walter Hubbel, University City, 4 and 3 in the afternoon.

Black complained of illness all day but staggered to a 4 and 3 victory over Charles Gillis, University City, in the first round, and to a 3 and 2 triumph over Byron Moser, Algonquin, in the second.

Phil Stewart, a youngster about the size of a jigger, being 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 106 pounds, sprang the biggest surprise of the day when he trimmed George Stamm, cousin of Bob and also a member of Washington University's team, 1 up in 19 holes.

Phil shot the seventeenth and eighteenth in par to square the contest then birdied the nineteenth to bag the victory.

Jonas Weiss eliminated Willard Jones, University City, 2 and 1, in his opening contest then took Jack Berkley, Woodlawn, runner-up to Joe Switzer in the Junior a few years ago, into camp in the afternoon, 1 up.

Lou Fehlig had little trouble defeating Bob Bowron, Forest Park, 6 and 5, in the first round, then defeated Tom Young, Alton, Ill., 3 and 2, after lunch.

Want Collegiate Tourney. Draper said yesterday that he and Bob Cochran, St. Louis U., had made an effort at the recent National Intercollegiate tournament at Washington, D. C., to have the 1935 tournament come to St. Louis.

He said that the college golfers were very favorable as they felt it was time to take the event out of the East, where it has always been held. He has asked some of the clubs in the district as to their attitude and feels if a good club can be obtained the tournament will be brought here, if not it will go to Chicago.

ROSALIND WINS IN GRAND CIRCUIT RACE
 CLEVELAND, July 10.—Rosaland, two-year-old trotter owned by Gibson White of Lexington, Ky., won yesterday's Grand Circuit Sweepstakes, the $1500 Rainy Day Sweepstakes. Rosaland came in fifth in the first heat, but came back to take the final two heats and the race.

Golden Direct, owned by William Eckert of Reading, Pa., won the 2:21 pace easily in straight heats and Tracey Hanover, driven by A. T. Morrison, won the Tanner Purse for three-year-old pacers in similar fashion.

The Oil In The Can, owned by H. F. Blum of Marengo, O., won the 2:15 trot.

LEGION PLANS WATER CARNIVAL HERE SEPT. 22

The American Legion will sponsor a water carnival on the Mississippi River Sept. 22 in connection with the American Legion National convention, which will open here the following day. The carnival will start at noon and continue until midnight, according to Dr. Arthur H. Depe, chairman of the committee. There will be races of various water craft, exhibitions, possibly one by Gar Wood, famous speedboat driver, pageants, parades and a two and one-half hours fireworks display.

The committee, which, in addition to Dr. Depe, consists of Daniel Bartlett, Joseph Richter, Charles P. Bobe, Capt. Schwartz, Frank Hamilton and Arthur Haney, plan to bring members of yacht clubs in Louisville, Peoria, Chicago and Memphis here for the affair.

Present arrangements call for the grand opening at noon, with a parade of all craft. American Legion bands will furnish music. Following the opening, the races will be held, with events for racing shells, outboard motors, cruisers and canoes. After the races, pageants and exhibitions will follow until dark, when bonfires on the riverfront and searchlights on Government barges will illuminate the scene.

With the river lighted, the national commander and other officials of the American Legion will be brought down the river on a special boat and welcomed to St. Louis.

Following the welcome of the commander, a two and a half hour fireworks display will be held. If the water carnival is a success, Dr. Depe says, "River day" will become an annual event.

DOROTHY ROUND TO LEAD ENGLAND'S TEAM IN WIGHTMAN SERIES
 By the Associated Press.
 LONDON, July 10.—Reconsidering an earlier decision, Dorothy Round, England's top-ranking woman tennis star, announced today she would accept an invitation to play with the British Wightman Cup team against the United States at Forest Hills Aug. 16-17.

Named to the team last Thursday, Miss Round said the following day she would not play because she was suffering from severe leg strain and was "tired of tennis."

"NIBLICUS CONTEST"
 ON TUBERCULOSIS DAY
 Seven widely-known golfers of the St. Louis district will compete in a "niblicus contest" as a part of the Tuberculosis Day athletic program next Tuesday afternoon at Sportsman's Park.

The group will compete. They are Johnny Manion of Sunset, Ben Richter of Triple A, and Orville White, formerly of Westborough. Three of the four amateurs in the competition are Tom Draper, George Dawson and Bob Cochran.

The contest will consist of shooting golf balls at a bag several yards from the golfer.

 The New York Americans soccer team is touring Mexico. The Americans have been reinforced by players from Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis and Pawtucket, R. I.

LOCAL FIGHTERS FACE ARKANSAS BOXERS TONIGHT

Jimmy Webb, North Side middleweight, and Lou Wallach, local bantamweight champion, will oppose a pair of hard-hitting Little Rock fighters in the feature bouts of the six interstate matches between local and Arkansas battlers on Benny Kessler's amateur boxing card tonight at the West Side Softball Park, located near Skinner and Delmar. The first of six preliminaries will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Webb will trade blows with Walter Tom Morrison, while Wallach will mix with Jesse Clements. Morrison and Webb will be fighting for the second time. Webb won from the Arkansas scrapper in their first meeting here last winter. However, there were many spectators who thought the Arkansas boy deserved the decision. In addition to holding the Arkansas crown, Morrison is the Oklahoma and Texas titleholder.

Clements comes here with the reputation of being a knockout artist. In Wallach he will be meeting a classy youngster who has been defeated but twice the past year. Wallach is the Ozark A. A. U. 115-pound champion.

Another Ozark A. A. U. titleholder, Billy Beardsley, flyweight from Bauxite, Ark., is also on the card. He will meet Joe Camminetti of Madison, Ill. Camminetti has been a consistent winner here all season. Beardsley won his district title in the tournament here last winter.

A second Southern Illinois product, Joe Delya, welterweight, has a tough assignment confronting him in his match with Winfred Jones, Parham, Eldorado lightweight, and Harold Brown of Bauxite will face Jack Conway, North Side featherweight.

Supporting the interstate matches will be six preliminaries featuring leading local "club" and Negro fighters.

THE PROGRAM
 INTERSTATE MATCHES:
 Jimmy Webb, North Side, vs. Walter Tom Morrison, Little Rock, Ark., middleweights.
 Lou Wallach, St. Louis, vs. Jesse Clements, Little Rock, Ark., bantamweights.
 Joe Camminetti, Madison, Ill., vs. Billy Beardsley, Bauxite, Ark., flyweights.
 Eddie Anderson, St. Louis, vs. Snyder Parham, Eldorado, Ark., lightweights.
 Harold Brown, Bauxite, Ark., vs. Jack Conway, St. Louis, featherweights.
 Preliminaries:
 Martin Singer, St. Louis, vs. Henry George, St. Louis, vs. Ray W. M. C. A., vs. Gerald Walker, Belleville, Ill. Heavyweights.
 Snowball, St. Louis, vs. Archie Moore, St. Louis, welterweights.
 Negro fighters:
 Billie, St. Louis, vs. Bob Saunders, St. Louis, lightweights.
 Joe Everett, St. Louis, vs. Matthew Harrison, St. Louis, lightweights.

CANADIAN WINS THE SENIOR GOLFERS CUP AT PRESTWICK, SCOTLAND
 By the Associated Press.
 PRESTWICK, Scotland, July 10.—R. M. Gray of Canada today won the Senior Golfing Society's Founders' Cup with an 18-hole score of 77. A. R. Aiken of Great Britain was runner-up with 79 and Morton L. Feary of New York, third with 80.

Other American scores included an 82 for Charles H. Jennings of Miami Beach, Fla., and 84 for Robert O. Smith of New York.

It rained so hard during the round that several competitors withdrew after playing a few holes.

Recessional No. 3.
 THE tumult and the shouting dies,
 The players for their teams depart,
 A bunch of husky A. L. guys Upset the N. L.'s appeat.
 As they have done it twice before,
 The thing's becoming quite a bore.

They sent Bill Walker to the box,
 Perhaps to put him on the spot;
 Then who steps up but Jimmy Fox,
 And slams the ball out of the lot.
 And he said, lest we forget,
 That pesky pill is rolling yet.

The final score was 4 to 1.
 The 1 accruing to the Nats,
 Who many claim might still have won
 If they had brought along their bats,
 Because those weapons of offense
 Were strangely not in evidence.

Be that, however, as it may,
 The parent body lost the game;
 But there will come another day
 And the result will be the same
 Until those justly famous Nats
 Learn how to operate their bats.

 By the Associated Press.
 CHICAGO, July 10.—Pastures on the other side of the fence were not so lush for Indianapolis on its last road trip, but the Indians have been getting a better break on the home lot.

They trimmed Minneapolis, American Association leaders, last night to split even in their four-game series and climb to within half a game of the second-place Kansas City Blues. Stewart Boen allowed Minneapolis only one hit until the eighth, when they got three more hits and all of their three runs for a 6-to-3 victory.

Mike Ryba of Columbus also did some fourth-pitching as the Red Birds entertained Milwaukee. Columbus won, 4 to 0, and put themselves a half game behind the four-place Brewers.

MEN HAVE MORE TIME TO READ ON SUNDAY

During the week men have to work. From the ring of the alarm clock in the morning they are busy until evening. They constantly rush from one thing to another every day except Sunday. And on Sunday the day belongs to the man... He gets up when it suits him, and does just as he pleases all day long.

Maybe you go to Church... maybe you play golf... maybe you drive in the country... maybe you go to a show or the ball game... and maybe you visit with your friends. But, regardless of the day's activities, you will, at sometime during the day, settle comfortably into your favorite chair and leisurely... unhurriedly... read the Sunday Newspaper. ## ROOSEVELT TELLS HOUSE LEADERS TO SPEED UP Democratic Chiefs Agree at Parley to Work for Adjournment of Congress Late in August.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 10.—Democratic leaders in the House discussed the legislative situation with President Roosevelt for two hours and a half last night and agreed to attempt to expedite the President's program. They hope that Congress will adjourn the last week in August.

Some of the House leaders had gone to the White House for the specific purpose of telling the President their ideas of why all was not serene around the House.

Following the House revolt against the President in the utilities fight, they indicated they would try to convince the President he must give greater consideration to the desires of members of that chamber. They said there was dissatisfaction among the members because the President had yielded to the Senate on several legislative problems, while declining to yield to the House. They also mentioned patronage trouble, and the complaint that the President failed to listen to the advice of regular House leaders.

As it turned out, however, none of these things was mentioned at the White House. Instead the conferees wound up in a talk of the best ways to expedite the bills on the President's program. The only reason given for the omission of the discussion about dissatisfaction was that it took so long to talk about legislation.

The "Must" Measures.

Today, the leaders were making every effort to put through the House those "must" measures which still lack House approval. The new tax program, on which the Ways and Means Committee is holding hearings; the bill to outlaw suits for recovery of losses alleged to have been suffered under the gold policy; and the Guffey coal stabilization and Federal alcohol control bills, now awaiting approval by the Ways and Means Committee.

The President, of course, repeated that he expected Congress to finish action on the social security bill, now in Senate and House conference; the utilities holding company bill, on the way to conference; the Tennessee Valley Authority amendments, passed by the Senate and up on the House floor today; the omnibus banking and agricultural adjustment act amendment bills, passed by the House and pending in the Senate.

Rest Up to Leaders.

Beyond that, however, he left the rest of the program to the leaders. They interpreted that as meaning that if there were time the President would like to see finally enacted the railroad reorganization, ship subsidy and bus and truck regulation measures.

It was reported authoritatively that in the discussion the President talked about a possible end of the session on Aug. 3. That drew a laugh, and the most optimistic estimates by the leaders today were Aug. 20.

"If you'll tell me when the tax bill will be passed, then I'll tell you when Congress will adjourn," one leader said.

IOWA GRAND JURY LINKS LIQUOR AND GAMBLING GRAFT

Beer Bar Owners Obtain Spirits From State Stores, Sell It Openly Without Molestation.

REPORT ON SITUATION IN SIOUX CITY

Says That by Payment of Stipulated Sum Persons May Engage in Any Illegal Operation.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 10.—The practical operation of Iowa's new liquor law, which provides for beer bars but prohibits the sale of hard liquor except in packages by State liquor stores, is comparable to that of prohibition. Beer bar proprietors are able to obtain hard liquor from the State liquor stores and, by paying for protection, sell it openly over their bars without molestation.

This is the pith of the partial report of a special Woodbury County grand jury investigating official corruption which has indicted 28 persons, including Attorney-General Edward L. O'Connor and Walter F. Maley, his first assistant, for conspiracy in the operation of slot machines.

"There has been open, notorious

FOUND DEAD IN CREEK

THE body of MARY ISABEL MAHAR, 14 years old, was found in a creek near Fort Smith, Ark., following her disappearance from a swimming party at which, a witness testified, a male companion chased the girl through the woods.

and wholesale violation of the law with respect to the sale of intoxicating liquor and gambling in Sioux City, the report stated. "Intoxicating liquor is being sold in all parts of Sioux City for consumption on the premises with no attempt at concealment. Most of this liquor can be traced directly to the Iowa Liquor Store and bears the State seal. We learned from the store manager that he is fully aware of it and considers himself helpless to do anything about it under the laws and regulations in force."

Stores Can't Revoke Permit.

The State liquor law provides that an annual permit, sold for $1, entitles the holder to buy as much as five gallons of liquor a day. The State liquor store manager has no authority to revoke a permit.

Competition from bootleggers is officially recognized by placards posted in the Iowa State Liquor Store at Sioux City, however. One, bearing the signature of the Iowa Liquor Control Commission, states: "Our merchandise is made from grain, the bootlegger's is made from molasses. Grain grows in Iowa, molasses comes from Cuba."

"Legal sales mean lower taxes," states another poster in the State liquor store.

The Grand Jury Report.

"Open and notorious operation of places where liquor is illegally sold and consumed and where slot machines are in operation leads to the conclusion that such conditions could not exist without official knowledge and connivance," the grand jury report asserts.

"The jury has heard many witnesses who frankly state they are victims of a system under which they are forced to pay for protection, and that if they fail to pay they are subjected to immediate and repeated raids by Sioux City police."

"On the other hand, it has been repeatedly demonstrated to them that by payment of a stipulated sum per month they may engage in any sort of illegal operation without official interference."

"The slot machines belong to a small group of underworld characters who enjoy immunity from prosecution."

Witnesses testified that machines placed in their places of business by operators who were not "approved" were seized and soon thereafter they were approached by operators who offered to install "protected" machines on a percentage basis.

Machines Stored in Police Station.

Referring to this testimony, the grand jury report continues: "Some of these machines are even now in storage at the Sioux City police station although no legal action has been taken and no arrests made in connection therewith."

"The crimes of gambling and illegal liquor selling in Sioux City are conducted upon a highly organized basis. Apparently no one would think of engaging in these crimes without first getting in touch with some member of a small group of underworld characters who represent to them they must make weekly or monthly contributions to a fund which is paid in turn to principal officers of the city and county whose duty it is to enforce laws, and that such payments will guarantee them immunity from molestation and prosecution."

The special grand jury already has brought in evidence which resulted in the institution of ouster proceedings, based on neglect of duty, against Max E. Duckworth, county attorney for Woodbury County, and Henry C. Kuhlmann, Public Safety Commissioner for Sioux City, who directed police and fire departments. After testimony in the ouster suits started, both resigned and the suits were dismissed.

Sioux City "Wide Open."

Sioux City, with its several large packing plants, long has been known as a "wide-open" town where cowboys and cattle men from the Dakotas, Wyoming and Montana might have an occasional fling, when they came here to market cattle.

Referring to charges against him, Duckworth said: "I do not think a county attorney is anything but a lawyer who is hired by the county to try cases of all kinds for the benefit of the people of the county from which

RAILROAD STATION IN WISCONSIN BURNED; MAN INJURED.

CAMBERSPORT, Wis., July 10.—A man was injured and a railroad station and nine tank cars of road oil were destroyed by an explosion and fire here early today.

Jack Wheelon, member of a highway maintenance crew which was heating the oil, suffered burns on the face, neck and chest. The fire was brought under control after two hours by volunteer firemen and crews from nearby towns. A storage tank containing 200,000 gallons of gasoline, only 200 feet away, was undamaged.

Ex-Legislators Assaults Law.

Former State Senator C. F. Lytle, wealthy Sioux City contractor, who is largely responsible for the special grand jury investigation, referred to the Iowa State liquor law as "a statute designed to meet the needs of the grafter and the political pot hunter." He takes pains to explain he is not a reformer or a prohibitionist.

Lytle, defeated for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in 1932, was a supporter of Gov. Clyde L. Herring, Democrat, who was re-elected to a second year term in 1934. Herring, first Democratic Governor for more than 40 years, also has been a witness before the special grand jury.

Verdict Returned in Dispute Over Sale of Collateral by New York Depository.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A verdict for $45,546, including interest and costs, was returned in favor of Oscar E. Buder of St. Louis against the New York Trust Co. by a jury in United States District Court today.

Buder charged that in December, 1931, he executed a promissory note for $100,000 to the trust company's order, the obligation including payment of interest at 5½ per cent, and delivered to the firm as collateral 21,000 shares of stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

His loan having been called on May 3, 1932, and payment of the balance due withheld, the plaintiff alleged, the trust company without notice to him sold the collateral, realizing less for 20,000 shares of the stock than could have been procured in the open market.

MANY VILLAGES WIPED OUT BY YANGTZE FLOOD

More Reports Received of Deaths—Thousands Leave Homes—Famine Adds to Suffering.

PERSONS IN TREES, ON HOUSE TOPS

Few Towns in Distance of 800 Miles Escape Damage—Many Urgent Pleas for Relief.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, China, July 10.—The sun today broke through the leaden skies which have hung over Central China for the last three weeks, but the Yangtze River held its floodlevel and reports of wholesale death and destruction continued to come in.

Most of the reports, filtering into this national capital through disrupted communication lines, were accompanied by urgent pleas for assistance.

The meager advices indicated that few cities between here and Ichang, 800 miles to the west, where the river flows out of the mountains to the Yangtze plain, have escaped without loss of life. Even approximate figures, however, were unavailable.

The flood, fed by melting snow in the mountains of Tibet and Western China, seemed to have struck with particular violence near Hankow.

One Town's Disaster.

Typical was the disaster befalling the town of Kingchow, bordering on Shasi, where two-thirds of the population was reported wiped out by a sudden rush of yellow water.

Many residents clung to trees and house-tops, awaiting rescue, while the flood undermined the foundations of the mud buildings.

Famine contributed to the great death toll.

Semiofficial advices from Hankow and Wuchang, near Hankow, said more than 20,000 refugees were driven from that district to higher land.

Advices from Ichang, 287 miles the river from Hankow and 1000 miles from the sea, said the Yangtze flowed over its dikes into that walled city of more than 50,000 inhabitants. Many perished.

Numerous villages about Ichang were reported to have disappeared before the onrushing water. What befell the villagers remained a matter of conjecture, but it seemed certain that many were victims of the flood.

Plane Scatters Pamphlets.

Marshal Chang Sueh-liang, pacification commissioner for the Hankow area, sent a private plane over Shasi and Ichang to scatter pamphlets, urging civilians and officials to co-operate in an effort to check the flood.

One thousand soldiers went into action, assisting in the construction and repair of dikes.

Hankow was still shielded from the full force of the flood, but became increasingly anxious as new leaks developed in the water gates.

Steamboat captains arriving here from Wuhu reported that the district was suffering from the most severe floods in its history.

The Yangtze Conservancy Commission announced that nearly all of the river's water marks exceeded the records established during the 1911 flood in which thousands of persons perished.

More Cities Submerged by New Breaks in Dikes.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW China, July 10.—Official Chinese dispatches say dikes along the north bank of the Yangtze River collapsed 150 miles above Hankow early today, letting the water flow over low lands toward the Han River.

The City of Kieli, near which the break in the dikes occurred, was submerged, the dispatches say, as was the equally important City of Melan and many villages lying along the river in that area.

Another important break in the dikes is reported at Mahukui, 10 miles below Kieli, torrents pouring toward the Han, while additional breaks occurred between Kieli and Shasi.

Still another report says the Han River has broken through its dikes 50 miles above Hanyang and the water of that stream is pouring inland on both sides.

With the entire area west of Hankow and from Shasi northward to the Han River apparently doomed to be flooded, engineers were rushed from Hanyang to try to stem the Han.

Details of the situation at Shasi, which yesterday was reported flooded, were meager. Big oil companies serving this area, including those American-owned, maintain storage tanks there and officials here were fearful that their properties had been badly damaged.

Shasi lies in a deep depression

Famine contributed to the great death toll.

Semiofficial advices from Hankow and Wuchang, near Hankow, said more than 20,000 refugees were driven from that district to higher land.

Advices from Ichang, 387 miles from the river from Hankow and 100 miles from the sea, said the Yangtze flowed over its dikes into that walled city of more than 50,000 inhabitants. Many perished.

Numerous villages about Ichang were reported to have disappeared before the onrushing water. What befell the villages remained a matter of conjecture, but it seemed certain that many were victims of the flood.

Plane Scatters Pamphlets.
Marshal Chang Sueh-liang, pacification commissioner for the Han-Kow area, sent a private plane over Shashi and Ichang to scatter pamphlets, urging civilians and officials to co-operate in an effort to check the flood.

One thousand soldiers went into action, assisting in the construction and repair of dikes.

Hankow was still shielded from the full force of the flood, but became increasingly anxious as new leaks developed in the water gates.

Steamboat captains arriving here from Wuhu reported that the district was suffering from the most severe floods in its history.

The Yangtze Conservancy Commission announced that nearly 10 miles below Kienli, torrents pouring toward the Han, while additional breaks occurred between Kienli and Shashi.

Still another report says the Han River has broken through its dikes 50 miles above Hanyang and the water of that stream is pouring inland on both sides.

With the entire area west of Hankow and from Shashi northward to the Han River apparently doomed to be flooded, engineers were rushed from Hanyang to try to stem the Han.

Details of the situation at Shashi, which yesterday was reported flooded, were meager. Big oil companies serving this area, including those owned by American-owned firms, were there and officials here were feared that their properties had been lost.

Shashi lies in a deep depression

Baldwin Calls Roosevelt Works-Recovery Plan Failure

Commons Uphold Premier—He Has Always Doubted State Expenditures Would Revive Industry.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 10.—The House of Commons upheld the Government's policies for fighting the depression by an overwhelming vote last night after Prime Minister Baldwin had criticized features of President Roosevelt's New Deal.

A Labor motion to censure the Government for its plans to relieve unemployment was rejected, 450 to 76.

Baldwin, making his first important speech in the House of Commons since he became Prime Minister for the third time, said Washington's program had failed "up to the present in bringing about a natural recovery of trade."

Taking a stand against lavish outlays of public works, which he said were advocated by many members of Commons, Baldwin said: "We have always doubted whether state expenditure would bring about a revival of industry. We are of the opinion that if it did not, such an expenditure would be disastrous."

Against the Word "Plan."
In what was generally interpreted as an attack on Lloyd George's initiative "New Deal" recovery program, Baldwin said, "If there is a word which has been ridden to death today it is the word 'plan.' I have seen nothing of planning by any foreign country which would lead me to think it is a universal panacea."

Baldwin was replying to an attack on the Government during which Arthur Greenwood, Labor party spokesman, said industrial production had increased 39 per cent in the United States since Jan. 1, 1932, as compared to 25 per cent in this country. Greenwood made the motion for a vote of censure.

The Laborite's statistics were dismissed by Baldwin as dealing "only with certain aspects of the truth."

George Lansbury, leader of the opposition Labor party, attacked the personnel of the British Cabinet. He charged Baldwin with "political dishonesty" and asserted: "Ministers now are not chosen for ability, but just to represent the various sections of the national Government."

He challenged the appointment to the Cabinet of former Prime Minister MacDonald's son, Malcolm, and of Anthony Eden as unfair or unnecessary.

Turning on Sir John Simon, Home Secretary, Lansbury demanded that Baldwin say whether "He agrees with those who say Simon proved himself the worst Foreign Minister in modern times." He asked: "Is that the reason why he was switched to the Home Office?"

Lansbury attacked the elder MacDonald, asserting: "He and a dozen colleagues represent their constituencies, but not a single trade union nor a single co-operative Socialist society. Nevertheless, they claim to get free seats in the so-called National Cabinet and two assistant ministerial posts."

Lansbury declared: "It is cheap and impudence on the part of the Prime Minister to go masquerading around the country. Whatever you do, let us keep the unity of the nation."

"There has been no political unity, and to say otherwise is downright, undiluted nonsense."

Baldwin, replying, said the Prime Minister has "absolute and complete freedom" to form the Cabinet any way he wishes.

A. F. OF L. READY TO FIGHT FOR WAGNER LAW, GREEN SAYS

He Asserts His Organization Will Defend It in Supreme Court

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 10.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared today that manufacturers, newspapers and Communists tried in vain to defeat the Wagner labor dispute bill. Addressing the convention of the International Longshoremen's Association, Green said "the enactment of this bill constitutes the greatest legislative victory in the history of the A. F. of L."

The federation president said the supporters of the Wagner bill, signed last week by President Roosevelt, expect a continuance of the fight against it. "I know it will be taken to the Supreme Court," he said, "and labor is prepared for the fight."

"We are willing that the Supreme Court shall again say that a measure sponsored by the people and passed by Congress is unconstitutional," he said. "Let them say it."

BANK OF FRANCE PRESIDENT PREDICTS STABILIZATION MOVE

Jean Tannery Expects U. S. and England Will Join His Country in Effort

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 10.—Jean Tannery, Governor of the Bank of France, predicted today that "America, France and England soon will unite for stabilization."

Speaking at the American Club luncheon, he said Secretary Morgenthau's aid at the end of May in the recent French financial crisis was "a great help."

Tannery said it indicated the friendly feelings of the two countries and encouraged his confidence as to the possibility of stabilization which, he said, "will mark the end of the depression."

Tannery said France was determined to avoid devaluation as "unjust and serving no purpose." He said the bank was firmly decided to "defend the franc with all our means—and we have the means."

TREASURY ASSISTANT NAMED

Peter Grimm, New York Real Estate Expert, Appointed.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced yesterday the appointment of Peter Grimm, New York real estate expert, to be assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Grimm, the secretary said, will represent him in relations with real estate mortgage agencies of the Government—the Federal Housing Administration, the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Farm Credit Administration.

Grimm is president of William A. White & Sons, a real estate corporation, and was president of the Real Estate Board of New York for four years.

1935 AAA TAXES EXCEED THOSE ON INDIVIDUAL INCOME

Basic Changes Caused by Nuisance and Adjustment Levies Shown in Report for Fiscal Year.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Fundamental changes wrought in the Federal tax structure by the miscellaneous nuisance and agricultural adjustment processing taxes were strikingly revealed yesterday in a statement by Commissioner Helvering showing Internal Revenue Collections for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Total collections from corporate and individual income taxes, miscellaneous and AAA taxes amounted to $3,297,300,578 for the year just ended, as compared with $2,672,239,194 collected in the fiscal year 1934. This represented a gain of $625,061,384. Of the 1935 collections, however, $526,401,713 was from the AAA taxes and $1,671,409,000 from the miscellaneous taxes. The AAA taxes were slightly greater than the total amount collected through individual income taxes. The collections from this latter source amounted to $526,024,762.

Figures Almost Identical.
The fact that these two figures were so near to identical emphasizes that the AAA taxes, which theoretically at least are passed on to the consumer in most instances, are now as important to the Federal Government as the direct individual income taxes.

The commissioner's statement disclosed that all collections increased in 1935 over 1934. The income taxes, on corporations and individuals, increased from $817,025,339 to $1,099,489,364, an increase of $282,464,024; miscellaneous taxes jumped from $1,483,790,969 to $1,671,409,000, an increase of $187,618,031 and AAA revenue increased from $371,422,885 to $526,401,713, a gain of $154,978,828.

In the fiscal year just ended, the miscellaneous and AAA taxes were almost double the total direct income taxes. The total for the indirect taxes was $2,197,810,713 as compared with the total of $1,099,489,364 in 1934.

SWANSON LISTS SHIPS TO BE BUILT DURING FISCAL YEAR

Includes 12 Destroyers and Six Submarines and Possibly Battleship.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary Swanson announced today that the navy's building program for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1936, would include 12 destroyers and six submarines, and possibly a battleship.

He explained at a press conference that under the Vinson Act 54 warships—36 destroyers and 18 submarines—would be required to bring the fleet to treaty strength by 1942.

Swanson reiterated that no decision had been reached on a proposal to replace one of the seven battleships which will be over age on expiration of the Washington treaty Dec. 31, 1936.

Construction could start on it Jan. 1, 1937, he added, but emphasized that the navy was "not starting any competition."

VOLCANO KRAKATOA ERUPTS, SPEWS LAVA 2500 FT. IN AIR

Warnings Ordered to Be Sent Out by Tom-toms; 36,000 Killed at Crater in 1883.

By the Associated Press.
BATAVIA, Java, July 10.—The volcano Krakatoa, which exploded in 1883 killing 36,000 persons, began a series of eruptions today.

The eruptions were occurring at two-minute intervals, and lava was spewed to a height of about 2500 feet.

The watch maintained by the Netherlands Government doubled its arrangements for safety precautions and ordered warnings to be sent out by tom-toms through the inland regions should the eruptions, in its opinion, become dangerous.

It was reported that the small island of Anakrakatau had disappeared.

The volcano is on an island of the same name in Sunda Strait, between Sumatra and Java.

Nazi Warning on Speculation.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, July 10.—The management of the Berlin Bourse, holding the boom in stocks unjustified, today acted against the rising prices. The management said Nazi Germany's shortage of raw material had stiffened prices temporarily but that a later decline was to be anticipated. Brokerage houses interpreted the management's action as a warning against speculation. Prices today weakened as a result.

Illinois Central RFC Loan Extended
WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized an extension of the three years on a RFC loan to the Illinois Central Railroad amounting to $3,783,000. The loan would have matured July 22, 1935.

RETIRED OFFICERS OF JAPANESE ARMY AND NAVY TO VISIT U. S.

Four Men to Be Sent on Good-Will Mission by Reservists' Association.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, July 10.—The Japan Reservists' Association announced today that it was sending four retired army and navy officers to the United States on a good-will mission. The mission was organized in response to an invitation from James Van Zandt, national chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to promote friendship between former service men of Japan and the United States.

The officers will sail from Yokohama Aug. 22 for San Francisco and will attend the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention at New Orleans Sept. 15. They also will visit Washington, New York, Chicago and Seattle. The mission is headed by Admiral Isamu Takeshita, one-time naval attaché at Washington.

The others are Lieutenant-General Harushige Nimomiya, Naval Capt. Kan Nakamura and Col. Moichiro Fujita.

The Japanese Reservists' Association has a membership of 3,000,000 and is one of the most powerful organizations in Japan.

Public Funds for 'Leftist' Schools.
JERUSALEM, July 10. (Palor Agency).—The Vaad Leumi, Jewish National Council decided at a meeting last night to demand that the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv allot a portion of its educational budget to a group of private schools attended by the children of laborers, where so-called "left" educational methods are in use. The Municipal Council of Tel Aviv previously had turned down the request that the private labor schools be given subsidies, although it had voted to support private schools maintained by orthodox religious groups.

WOMAN IS CAPTAIN OF SOVIET FREIGHTER

Anna Shchetinina, 27, Has 30
Men Subordinates; Started
Before Mast at 17.

MOSCOW, July 10.—Ten years after she began, at 17, to serve before the mast as a sailor, Anna Shchetinina has become "Comrade Captain" to the 30 young men forming the crew of the new Soviet freighter Chabichva.

A rarity even for Soviet Russia, where women do men's jobs of every kind, from shoveling sand to managing state industries, the woman captain has just brought from Hamburg to Vladivostok as third mate of the trawler Toporok.

She now is to take the Chabichva from Odessa with a cargo for the ship's home port in Kamchatka. Seafaring life has not made of Captain Anna an Amazonian type. Although a severe disciplinarian while on duty, she is quite feminine at other times. She uses face powder and lipstick, likes American jazz records and dances the fox-trot—a latest craze here—with her men subordinates.

"None whatever," was the reply. She has made the hazardous sea trip between Russia's Pacific Coast and Western Europe three times, each time in a post of authority. Four years ago, at 23, she sailed from Hamburg to Vladivostok as third mate of the trawler Toporok.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Thinks Senator Norris Is in Error.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THERE is no individual in the United States Senate who commands greater respect for his righteous efforts in behalf of the people, or who is held in greater esteem for his uprightness, honesty and complete lack of hypocrisy, than Senator George W. Norris.

But the man who has never been in error on any subject has never existed and does not exist. In his idea of the necessity or the value of a constitutional amendment to curtail the activity of the Supreme Court, Senator Norris is unquestionably in error.

The Constitution now expressly and clearly points out the field of activity for the Supreme Court, as also, that of all other courts. The Supreme Court is the creature of the original assembly which formulated the Constitution. The Constitution says: "... The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make." If any words in Article III indicate that the Constitution confers upon the Supreme Court, or any other court, the right to act as a third legislative chamber, such an interpretation of it can be apparent only to those who can read words that do not exist.

An amendment to the Constitution to curb and possibly eventually to cure the courts of their assumption to arrogate to themselves a pretended right would not only be an erroneous move, but would be an admission of the constitutional legality of such usurpation, and, therefore, morally and legally wrong. To admit that the Supreme Court could act as a censor of any laws passed by any legislative body, no matter whether it were by a majority of one or by a unanimous vote of the court, would be an act of moral turpitude on the part of the people which would stamp them for all time as unfit to exist as pretended participants of a representative government.

A Traffic Obstruction.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
NOW that the Public Service Co. is to have a bus line on St. Louis avenue from Vandeventer to Broadway, which will transfer to Broadway, steps should be taken to eliminate the nine blocks of "bottle neck" from Broadway west to Fourteenth street. St. Louis avenue is too narrow between these points and should be widened, now that North Twelfth boulevard is to connect with Natural Bridge avenue and pass St. Louis avenue.

I am old—nearly 100—but all the years I worked at the north end of Broadway, I had to go all the way to Easton avenue to transfer to a North Broadway car. The Cass line, 50 years ago, should have been made to go east and west from Broadway on St. Louis avenue or Cass avenue to the city limits.

That British Offer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
RECENTLY you printed an editorial, "Britain's Unusual Offer," regarding Capt. Anthony Eden's proposal to give British territory in his peace efforts between Italy and Ethiopia.

This was not an unusual offer, because British New Guinea is what it would not be accepted. Her so-called traditional policy of "honest broker" is bunk. According to her action on her war debts, an appropriate term for her would be the whimpering welscher. When the U. S. was a debtor nation and Britain the creditor, this country did not complain or try to twist the issue of her obligations as Britain does.

RAY PARKER.

We Gullible Americans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WE Americans are the most gullible of all races, the blue-ribbon "suckers" of the world, who swallow the fish pole along with the bait, hook, sinker and line. They say, "One is born every minute," which in America means that one swindler is born every minute to make swindlers of simpletons happy by lifting the shirts off their backs.

The "Hokey" Longs, "Doc" Townsends and Coughlins are only a few sharks among all the other predatory fish who gobble up the small fry.

The American people have yet to learn the great truth that the enemies of society are those who praise, flatter and cajole men, and dangle gold bricks before their eyes, whereas the friends of society are those who chastise men's sins and follies because they love men, as a father loves the small wayward son whom he flogs with a slipper.

CONSTITUTIONS AND GOVERNMENTS.

In signing the Constitution, Benjamin Franklin made a point which enjoys particular pertinence now. He said the instrument he was signing would serve us only until the nation became so corrupt that no form of government could save us from dictatorship.

This is as true now as it was then. No form of government can benefit the governed if the times are corrupt. We see how this operates every day. Somehow to expect that the Government is going to be better than we are is far too naive for this real world. A good many people believe the burden of government has been thrown upon Washington because of the failure of government in the states. They point out that whereas in the beginning that government was best which was closest to the people, a time has come with us when that government is best which is farthest removed from the people.

James Truslow Adams thought the troubles of the United States derived chiefly from the demoralization which resulted from too many excesses in the settlement and exploitation of the country. The low moral tone which pervaded the nation through this period came at last to debauch politics exactly as Franklin had foreseen that it would be debauched. The state capitals became the strongholds of greed and privilege. Instead of statesmen, the nation came to have bosses in the states. It has them now. There are heartening exceptions, but they cannot successfully contradict the prophecy made by Franklin when he signed the Constitution. He knew history. He knew the chief characteristics of government everywhere. He did not believe that adopting a mere constitution would make us better than people had been in Europe, nor did he believe that any form of government would do for us what we could do for ourselves.

We need to think of this. We need to recall that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. A nation that has made material well-being its goal is doomed to spiritual poverty. This is what has happened to us. It is why Huey Long can hold Louisiana in the hollow of his hand. It is why Boss Pendergast controls government in Missouri. It is why the great public utility lobby can put a ring in the nose of the lower house of Congress. It is why we have municipal corruption in the cities, powerful lobbies at all the seats of government, eternal conflict and bitterness over what the law should be, prostitution of the legal profession and economic hooligans sitting in the seats of the mighty. No amendment to the Constitution, nor the Constitution itself, can assure good government when we are so corrupt.

In truth, the United States needs a spiritual regeneration far more than it needs new laws, or new parties. We have sold liberty to the highest bidder, and we sit in the chains of adversity and corruption because we have done so. We are not the first people to barter away our heritage. We might be one of the few peoples to redeem it. Free government implies many stern obligations. We cannot ignore them without suffering the consequences. We cannot let the responsibilities of life go and occupy ourselves with its opportunities without bringing ourselves to confusion. To let politics go hang is at last to be hanged by it.

The Constitution and the Continental Congress were great institutions, but they did not deceive Poor Richard. He knew what happened after the Ten Commandments. We are what we make ourselves and not what any law can make us.

SENATOR BORAH SPEAKS OUT.

Senator Borah's forthright letter, denouncing the loose talk which links the names of Supreme Court Justices with the presidency because of recent decisions, is the great Idahoan at his best. Every word of his message breathes righteous indignation. For it is not only unfair to reflect against the judicial service of two of the court's most able members—Justices Stone and Roberts—by reading political aspirations into their views as Judges. To indulge in such discussion, as Senator Borah points out, is to say in effect that members of the court must not only interpret the Constitution but popular sentiment as well—to disregard entirely the honorable place of the Supreme Court in the framework of our Government. Someone high in public life has been needed to call the turn on gossip of this sort, and Senator Borah has measured up to the demand.

SUGGESTION TO MR. ODETS.

Clifford Odets, playwright and leader of the 15 "investigators" deported from Cuba last week, is full of indignation and determination as a result of his party's experience. "We are going to organize another delegation to Cuba," he announced on landing in New York.

Inasmuch as another party would undoubtedly encounter the same reception as the first, we hope Mr. Odets will think again and become practical. After all, why should there be astonishment over the Cuban Government's summary treatment of his group? It is a dictatorship, maintaining itself by force, and investigation is something which no dictatorship anywhere tolerates. Too, Cuba is a sovereign nation, and may welcome or bar visitors as it pleases, just as the United States does. We agree with Mr. Odets and his friends in condemning Cuba's Government, we sympathize with the plight of her people, but we disagree with the tactics the group used to show its sentiments.

So we offer a suggestion: Mr. Odets is an accomplished and forceful playwright, an acknowledged master in the drama of protest. Let him bend his talents to writing a play about the Cubans and their troubles. Such a work would be a far greater contribution to their cause than any unofficial investigation. Nor could it possibly be construed as American interference with Cuban affairs, which Mr. Odets and his friends rightly deplore. A play of this sort would attract large and enthusiastic audiences, both because of the playwright's skill and the advance advertising it has received.

ITALY SNUBS THE LEAGUE.

The League of Nations Commission endeavoring to settle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute has abandoned the field, in the face of the Italian delegates' refusal to hear an Ethiopian witness. Italy's attitude thus is that of an angry bully, determined to batter a smaller neighbor, deaf to protests and to the victim's statement of the case.

The damage done to the League by the Italian attitude is even more harmful to the world's future than the outcome of its impending war of conquest. Weak as it has proved in many cases, the League remains a bulwark of hope for settling international disputes peacefully instead of by force. But if it is to be effective, there must be co-operation by the nations. It is not alone the lives of thousands of Italians and Ethiopians that are imperiled by Mussolini's aggression. His snub to the League endangers the institution that, under happier circumstances, might redeem the world from militarism.

MR. DIES' REMEDY FOR UNEMPLOYMENT.

Representative Martin Dies of Texas has a scheme for ending unemployment, and hence the depression. "If there were no aliens in this country," he asserts, "we would not have an unemployment problem." So he has introduced a bill calling for deportation of all aliens illegally in this country (3,500,000, by his figures). To unnaturalized aliens legally here (4,000,000 to 7,000,000, he says), Mr. Dies would give 12 months in which to apply for papers; failing that, they, too, would be deported. In all, he estimates, the country would rid itself of 6,000,000 persons by carrying out his program, to its immense benefit.

Suppose for a moment that Mr. Dies' figures are correct. Does he not realize that consumers are required to keep industry and business going, and that the disappearance of 6,000,000 consumers would be a staggering blow to the whole economic structure? Even if all these 6,000,000 are on relief rolls (and in fact a high percentage of them are self-sustaining), the rational goal should be restoring them to payrolls rather than removing them entirely.

Mr. Dies' figures, however, are challenged by high authorities. The number of aliens illegally in the country does not exceed 100,000, according to the records of Immigration Commissioner McCormack. Important as it is to remove all genuine undesirables, this would fall far short of solving the unemployment problem, or the crime problem, either.

As to unnaturalized aliens, there are less than 3,403,000, says Mr. McCormack. Their forcible naturalization would not necessarily make them good Americans. Their deportation would leave a host of dependents, who would not be accepted abroad, and would remain to swell our relief rolls. Other countries, in retaliation, would expel Americans working there, to increase our total of unemployed.

Seeking a "goat" for the unemployment problem, Mr. Dies has discovered the alien. All of us are descendants of aliens, who would have been subject to deportation under a Dies law if one had been enacted in depressions of the past. As a matter of fact, the alien is a diminishing problem. Emigration has dwindled to a trickle, and in the last few years, more persons have left the country than have entered. Wholesale deportations would be a vicious display of prejudice and an economically unsound attack on unemployment. The best thing Congress can do with Mr. Dies' scheme is to disregard it.

IDEAL WORK FOR DR. WILLIAMS.

It is good to read that, with his health much improved, the retirement of Dr. Walter Williams from the presidency of the University of Missouri will make it possible for him to resume his writing on journalists and their profession. Here is a field of work for which the dean of the first School of Journalism is well equipped. Even with heavy administrative duties on his shoulders in recent years, he could not forsake it entirely.

A number of the articles on St. Louis journalists in the monumental Dictionary of American Biography, now four-fifths completed, are the product of his research and literary effort. Among these are the sketches of Louis Richard Cortambert, Thoreau-like editor of a French weekly in pre-Civil War days; William Mason Grosvenor, leader in the Liberal Republican movement of the '70s and an exposé of the Whisky Ring; George Knapp, for nearly a half-century proprietor of the historic Missouri Republican; Joseph B. McCullagh, Civil War correspondent, wit and newspaper founder; and Henry King, who declined appointment as United States Senator from Missouri on the ground that a newspaper editor should not sacrifice his influence or limit his independence by becoming an officeholder.

Many writers have done their best work after reaching three-score and 10. May the forthcoming years enable Dr. Williams to continue a congenial task which holds so fruitful a store for the social historian.

WISDOM FROM THE BENCH.

City Judge Borders of East St. Louis deserves the gratitude of society for refusing to join in the effort made to save from execution three young men convicted of murder in his court.

In a letter to the Illinois Board of Pardons and Paroles, Judge Borders said he did not believe that State officials should have the right to overrule courts and juries, and he expressed the opinion that if these defendants were not sent to death, the electric chair at Chester would as well be "junked."

The executions did take place. They were preceded by efforts usual in all such extremities. The three young men had been convicted of shooting a street car motorman. There were no extenuating circumstances. The men were what are known in the underworld as "young punks." Their criminal careers had at last culminated in capital crime.

Judge Borders held out resolutely against the effort to stop the executions. Gov. Horner and the Board of Pardons and Paroles were perhaps as much influenced by his example as by their own official responsibility. One by one, the states have come to realize that crime must be met resolutely. If justice is not stern, then there can be no justice. As this truth sinks into the national consciousness, the law becomes everywhere more terrible.

It must be so. We have made crime unparalleled in the United States by giving it too many outs and according it too much sympathy. The greatest of all crime deterrents is terror of the law. It is what has reduced crime to a minimum in England. Murder is rampant in our own country. The number of homicides over here startles every foreign observer. What is the cause of this disgraceful situation?

We have time and again told what it is. Crime in the United States has its roots in our archaic criminal procedure and the sentimental defenses built about criminals and abetted by the unwitting. Usually in such cases, sentiment for the accused loses all thought of sympathy for the victim. It forsakes the slain for the slayer. The states are finding that so to relax their vigilance increases the number of criminals. It makes more murderers. It makes more gangs. It makes life more perilous.

It is undeniable that mercy should temper justice, but it is just as undeniable that mercy should not be permitted to make a mockery of justice. Judge Borders has set the excellent example of refusing to let down the safeguards of society. It is exactly in such key positions as he occupies that the decay of society sets in. Therefore, the more honor to him. We need this inflexible quality in more courts. If the law is not terrible, then lawlessness is.

The Tax Confusion

THERE is yet no evidence that the administration has any clear idea of what it wants to do about the tax program. The President, in his message of June 19, put all his emphasis upon a better distribution of wealth and economic power. Only in one clause did he refer to the budget, and then only to say that the inheritance taxes would "incidentally assist in our approach to a balanced budget." But the latest reports from the House committee say that "we must have a bill that will raise substantial revenue," and that this means at least $340,000,000.

Which is it? Until Washington makes up its mind whether its primary purpose is to redistribute wealth or to balance the budget, it cannot begin to legislate intelligently. Nothing but trouble can come from confusing the two purposes.

Let us suppose that the primary object is to balance the budget. Is it not self-evident that the time to discuss new revenues is when the new budget is presented next winter? What is the point of discussing taxes until it is known what the expenditures are to be?

The whole purpose of a budget is to enable the country to consider its expenditures in relation to its revenues and its revenues in relation to its expenditures. When a budget is in balance or is being balanced, the first rule is that no money must be appropriated for which revenues are not provided.

It is no less contrary to orderly budget practice to raise revenues which have no relation to expenditures. It leads to such absurdities as the suggestion that the Government must immediately have $340,000,000 more to reduce a prospective deficit of over four billion dollars. Why $340,000,000? Would a deficit of $3,660,000,000 be in any real sense different from a deficit of four billion dollars?

The proposed new revenues will not balance the budget or bring the balance into sight. The only effect, therefore, of imposing new taxes now is to add to the burden of a few thousand individuals without lightening in the least the burden on the national finances. Burdensome taxation that does no one any good is just stupid and arbitrary.

The only wholesome way to impose new taxes is to impose them as part of a comprehensive plan to bring the budget into balance. Opinion is divided as to whether it is necessary or wise to balance the budget at once. But if the budget is to be balanced at once, then new taxes should accompany retrenchments.

To add to the taxes without beginning to economize will not balance the budget; it will merely produce the worst results of both policies. It will not give business men and investors the confidence that a balanced budget would give them, and yet it will have the deflationary and discouraging effect that a meaningless sacrifice involves. What could be more disastrous than to be taxed drastically without making a dent on the deficit?

Taxation of this sort is merely punitive. It hurts the income taxpayer and helps no one. But if the budget is that no new taxes should be imposed until after the budget is presented to Congress next winter. That budget ought, I believe, to contain a definite program to reduce the deficit drastically next year and to end it soon thereafter. Such a program depends upon reducing the cost of relief, and reducing the cost of relief depends primarily on putting the unemployed back to work in private industry. Now when this problem is examined, it will appear, I believe, that, given the recovery necessary to absorb a substantial part of the unemployed, the present tax rates will yield very large revenues.

It is not generally realized that the present tax rates are already producing larger revenues than the Government received in any year from 1923 to 1928. They were nearly 50 per cent larger this year than in 1923; they have produced $3.70 this year for every $2.10 they produced in 1923.

The trouble with the budget, therefore, is not in the tax rates. The trouble is in the expenditures and in the fact that business is only partially recovered. A recovery which makes possible a reduction of expenditures will also, without raising the tax rates, increase the revenues.

If the administration will concentrate on recovery, it can readily balance the budget. If it will not concentrate on recovery, it will not balance the budget merely by raising the rates.

An eventual revision of the tax system is desirable and necessary as a matter of a larger public policy. It should include more deeply graduated income and inheritance taxes. But these new rates should be imbedded in an income tax system which covers at least as large a proportion of the voters as are covered by the British income tax system.

In 1931-32, 3,700,000 persons paid income taxes in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland. This was about 17 per cent of the voters in the 1931 election. That same year in the United States, 1,900,000 individuals had taxable returns. They constituted less than 5 per cent of the voters in the 1932 election.

An income tax system set up so that not more than one voter in 20 pays a tax, that not more than one voter in 10 even files a return, is a dangerous one to invoke for the purpose of breaking up large fortunes. It is wide open and without defenses against extravagance and the squandering of the large accumulations of the nation's capital.

Those large accumulations ought eventually to be taken out of private hands. But they cannot safely be entrusted to a legislature elected by a population which is not conscious that it pays taxes. An electorate containing 10,000,000 income taxpayers may hope to redistribute income without destroying capital, but an electorate in which income taxpayers are a negligible number is under constant provocation to squander capital on current political expenditures.

In short, we may conclude, I think, (1) that new taxes for revenue should not be considered apart from a budget which retrenches, and (2) that new taxes to redistribute wealth should not be considered apart from new taxes to redistribute responsibility among a very much larger number of income taxpayers. Since Congress is not now ready to deal with either question in this fashion, this is not the time to legislate. (Copyright, 1935.)

JUST A LEGEND.

The Balance of Power Theory

Lee Taylor Casey in the Pittsburgh Press

I'M GLAD the British have gone back to the balance of power theory. For the makes European affairs so much easier to understand. For several years, it has been difficult to know just who was the head man on the Continent. Now you'll have no such difficulty. You can be confident the head man is the one the British are against.

Cardinal Wolsey is credited with originating the balance of power idea. The theory is perhaps the simplest and most efficacious ever devised in international affairs.

When Wolsey was in the saddle, the balance of power shifted more rapidly, because in those days a soldier killed you at short distance and a government could always hit an army, whereas today a government finds more difficulty in establishing and equipping munitions plants.

So Wolsey had to work fast. One year when he considered Charles V of Spain strong, he would favor Francis I of France. After he had built up Francis, he would change sides and favor Charles. By this method, he always was able to keep the man trimmed down to suitable size.

In later times, the shifting was less rapid. When France became dominant under the capable rule of that joyless user of power, Napoleon, the British developed a sudden affection for the Teutonic races and other oppressed nationalities.

The British policy of divide and rule is not original. It was, indeed, lifted from Augustus. He tried it out in Germany with notable effectiveness. When, across the Rhine, which was the Roman boundary, the Chatti became powerful, Augustus would incite the jealousies of the Cherusci and persuade them to chivy the Chatti; when the Cherusci grew strong, Augustus would side with the Chatti. The meant the Germans would kill each other and let the Romans alone.

It worked, and the British imitation likewise met the pragmatic test.

SENATOR CLARK'S ADDRESS.

From the Baltimore Sun.
It is probable that few Fourth of July orations could be found to match that delivered by Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, in Washington. Senator Clark said:

"So long as the world expects and prepares for war, it will have it. But even if it were true that preparation for war would end war—a proposition denied by the whole history of the world—the present state of expenditure for armament will absolutely bankrupt the world, even without the aid of another war."

Such elementary truths are too rare in patriotic speeches, and Senator Clark's address would appear to be a splendid model for such Fourth of July oratory as seems unavoidable in the future. Whatever may be said for or against his proposed neutrality laws, discussion of them was at least a patriotic function in that it called national attention to a decision of great importance which the American people must make before very long. In contrast to the conventional whoopla of the day, it was a magnificent address.

One of the revolting features of the glorious Fourth—aside from the type of oratory for such Fourth of July oratory as seems unavoidable in the future. Whatever may be said for or against his proposed neutrality laws, discussion of them was at least a patriotic function in that it called national attention to a decision of great importance which the American people must make before very long. In contrast to the conventional whoopla of the day, it was a magnificent address.

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, July 10. LOT of people are wondering why hard-hitting young Mariner Eccles, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, suddenly about-faced and gave public approval to the bill after it was humiliated by Senator Carter Glass. The bill is his prize pet, and when he first heard about the Senate committee's report, Eccles nearly hit the ceiling.

He rushed to Secretary Morgenthau, who was over with plans to blast the mutilated measure and press conference and firing all barrels. But Morgenthau cautioned calmness and advised him to see the President.

Roosevelt shook his head. "That is not the way, Mariner," he said. "I can't take on any more fights with Congress. I've got my hands full. We will have to use other methods."

Those other methods already have been worked over by the President and his strategists.

Chief factor in this plan is the controversy which has raged for years between the two Banking Committee chairmen of Congress—Glass of Virginia in the Senate and Steagall of Alabama in the House.

The bill which already has passed the House with Steagall's blessing is in the form of the Administration wants it. It gives full force to Title 2, which provides for Government-regulated central banking.

The Senate bill, as it came from the sulphuric hand of Carter Glass, is a drastically diluted Title 2, giving private bankers part supervision over central banking.

Roosevelt, with other Congressional fights on his hands, now plans to let Henry Steagall take on Glass.

It should be a good bout.

Draft Act.

WITH at least two people, Gen. Hugh Johnson got off to an extremely bad start as administrator of Works-Relief in New York City.

His cavalier requisitioning of Alvin Brown, personnel officer of the NRA, without first obtaining approval of NRA Ruler James O'Neill, brought a vigorous protest from the latter. Finally, however, he yielded.

Not so Secretary Perkins. When Johnson attempted to draft her Assistant Secretary, able Ed McGrady, there were even greater fireworks.

"Just who does he think he is?" remarked Secretary Perkins. In the end, Johnson had to fly down from New York to pacify her. No one is quite sure he succeeded.

WOLSEY. Gen. Johnson claims authority of the World War Universal Draft Act.

Modern Barter. THERE is a confidential file in the office of George Peek, head of the Import-Export Bank, which tells a revealing story regarding the trend of trade.

It shows that modern commerce is reverting to the methods of barter days. In order to circumvent restrictions on exchange, whereby certain countries may not ship out gold, a tremendous trade is springing up in goods, without the use of money.

Peek has a list of 200 instances of barter deals between private companies throughout the world. Since such deals are usually kept secret, he surmises there must be 10 times as many.

Urges Speeding Up PWA 1000 Per Cent or Removing Limits on Work Relief Plan.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, July 10.

THESE are some of the problems in relief of unemployment:

1. I start with the great pool of people on the rolls of "Home Relief," I. e., the dole. In New York City there are, in that pool, some 250,000 breadwinners, representing more than 1,000,000 destitute people. That number includes both able-bodied people who could work if they had jobs and also those who are through age or other infirmities.

2. The problem is to get these people, now on the Home Relief dole, back on a basis where they can earn some kind of living. As long as you can't do that, the continuation of the dole—nearly 20 per cent of the population. There are four ways to get the vast army to work.

(A) Increasing business to make employment for them. This is the only real solution, but there is no certain, immediate possibility of success.

(B) Make employment by vast public works under PWA. These are big construction projects—bridges, tunnels and the like—including every construction project costing more than $25,000. They take a long time to plan and are very slow in getting started and finished. They are financed in part by the Federal Government, and in part by the various states and cities.

(C) "Works Progress" projects. These matters now stand—and they as many that he knows nothing about. He has found that much American trade with Germany is conducted by barter. Here are some of the deals:

U. S. tobacco exchanged for German chemicals; U. S. dried apples for German steel wire; U. S. walnuts for German steel pipe; U. S. lumber for German padlocks; U. S. red salmon caviar for German miscellaneous goods; U. S. feathers for German lily-of-the-valley pips (bulbs).

Sometimes the deals involve several countries. Peek came across one where an American commodity was shipped to Germany and traded for German commodity bought by Uruguay; but turn, some of the original U. S. shipper collected in French francs.

Peek is preparing this evidence for his fight with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He plans to demand that the Government follow the lead of private industry and execute barter deals of its own.

Narcotic Lobbying.

A YOUNG MAN, clad in a dark suit, strode out of Senator Wagner's office the other day with surprising alacrity. Immediately behind him came the New York Senator himself.

"Do you know who that guy was?" he scowled at his secretary. "That guy had the nerve to come in to see me on a narcotic case. Wanted to get out of serving time."

"When I refused, do you know what he had the nerve to say?" he said. "But there'll be a very big contribution to your campaign."

The young man who left did not look as if he would make the contribution.

Merry-Go-Round.

THE President still hopes to go to the West Coast this summer. Another hope, which will probably not be realized, is for a voyage to Brazil. Jefferson and his term.

Some retailers already consider the processing tax dead. They are asking millers to deliver flour at a price that leaves the tax out, expecting it will not have to be paid.

Hot weather in Washington brought a substantial increase in consumption of iced tea in the House restaurant, but not of beer. The steward's daily order of beer is only eight to 10 cases.

Explanation offered is that when a Congressman wants a drink, he wants a drink, not a beverage.

Reacting from criticism of high-powered publicity by New Deal agencies, Tugwell's Resettlement Administration issues no handouts for the press, merely posts items on a bulletin board.

Transients' Union, advocating the overthrow of present relief methods, and the immediate passage of the Unemployed Bill to give every unemployed man a pension.

When Congressmen go home at the end of the session, they will travel on an allowance of 15 cents a mile, but when they return in January, the allowance will be 20 cents. They increased the rate for themselves during the present session.

Growing daily more bitter against Roosevelt, Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota declares: "I doubt if he will allow us another election. He is trying to create chaos to prevent it, so that he may be the last President and the first Emperor!"

ence to the running rate in the community—much below it.

(C) PWA requires a vast preparation and much red tape. "Work Relief" is supposed to be of a summary nature.

Now the frank truth is that the public works theory of unemployment relief hasn't worked. More than two years ago $3,300,000,000 was appropriated for this idea and this year $4,800,000,000 more. It may be doubted whether, in those two years, $1,000,000,000 has been spent on real public works projects.

Last year CWA made the work that PWA failed to make. This year that job is up to "Works Relief." The question is whether, under its restrictions on the use of material and on paying running rates of pay, "Works Relief" can take up the slack of PWA delay.

The restrictions mentioned will make it doubtful and difficult. Furthermore, they so limit the field of useful work as to be little better than making leaves.

Furthermore, skilled working people are going to raise fighting objections to working at the subsistence wages on regular public projects. The answer that is advanced to quiet them is that public works projects pay full wages and will eventually accommodate most skilled workers. Unless public works can speed up about 1000 per cent that is not a sufficient answer, and restrictions of work will result in a practical omission of really useful work until it is too late to do any good.

There is only one thing to do—extend every effort to TRY to make the new policy work, relying on the belief that, if it proves impossible, it is trying to create chaos to prevent it, so that he may be the last President and the first Emperor!"

HISTORICAL SOCIETY GETS

Portrait of Daughter of Jean Baptiste Charles Lucas Sent by Descendant.

A pastel portrait of the late Mrs. Anne Lucas Hunt, daughter of Jean Baptiste Charles Lucas, who was appointed Commissioner of Land Claims and Judge of the Louisiana Territorial Court by Thomas Jefferson in 1805, has been received by the Missouri Historical Society from Mrs. Nancy Turner Pope of Denver, Colo., great-granddaughter of Mrs. Hunt.

The picture, produced in 1878, a year before Mrs. Hunt's death at the age of 83, shows Mrs. Hunt in a black taffeta gown, wearing a white lace cap and a gold chate-laine hanging from her belt. In her lap she holds a child, Theodora Turner, a sister of Mrs. Pope, who is now the superior of a convent in Maine.

Mrs. Hunt was born in Pennsylvania in 1796. Her father settled in St. Louis County in 1805 and founded the county community which he named for his native Normandy.

Hunt was first married to Capt. Theodore Hunt and after his death married his first cousin Wilcox P. Hunt, who was a member of the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

During the later years of her life she devoted most of her time to charity and gave more than $1,000,000 for philanthropic purposes. Mrs. Hunt founded the Sisterhood of the House of Good Shepherd of the Church and School of St. Mary's.

In a story of her life, which she wrote shortly before her death in 1879, she said she had three children, 21 grand-children and 22 great-grandchildren.

METHODISTS GIVE $3,227,679 IN YEAR FOR WORLD SERVICES

Contributions to Benevolences and Foreign Missions Increase Slightly, Treasurer Reports.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church contributed $3,227,679 for benevolence and foreign missions during the year ended May 31, an increase of $46,833 or 1.47 per cent over the previous year, it was announced yesterday. The report was made to the World Service Commission of the church by its treasurer, Dr. Orin W. Auman of Chicago, at the opening of the commission's annual meeting in suburban Evanston.

Dr. Auman asserted that he and financial executives of other Protestant churches agreed the general trend of church giving was upward, but only slightly so. "World service giving has run practically parallel to business trends," the treasurer said.

The Chicago area was one of 11 Episcopal divisions reporting increases for the year. The area, including all of Illinois and two small foreign language conferences, gave $195,824 for world service, an increase of $4877, or 2.5 per cent.

Funeral of Gen. Heintzelman.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Funeral services for Gen. Henry Halleck Heintzelman, who died Saturday at Hot Springs, Ark. A military escort from Fort Meyer, Va., paid tribute to the officer. As an artillery caisson bearing the body entered the cemetery gates a 13-gun salute was fired. Another salute was fired as the caisson was lowered into the grave. President Roosevelt sent a floral tribute.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MR. LEE PETIT GAY and Mrs. Edward Vernon Martin and their children, will leave St. Louis by motor about July 29 to join Mrs. Marion Gratz Carr at a farm in Underhill Center, Vt., where they will spend the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. Gay have sold their home on Upper Ladue road to Mrs. Henry A. Boeckeler, 9 Arundel place, who, with her son, Henry, will take possession later this month. Dr. and Mrs. Gay will move next Tuesday to an apartment in the Oxford, 320 North Union boulevard.

Dr. Gay's mother, Mrs. Roger W. Gay of Arcadia, Mo., who has spent the winter with her son and daughter-in-law, has gone to Fort Myer, Va., near Washington, to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. Mortimer.

Mrs. Samuel Tucker Gay, 112 North Bemiston avenue, will take her three children to Grand Haven, Mich., for the month of August. Mrs. Gay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Price, landed in England Sunday and are now motoring through Scotland and Wales. They will also go to London to be with their son, Vincent Jr., who is filling theater engagements.

Mrs. Charlton Messick, 4537 Maryland avenue, left this morning for Wequetonsing, Mich., where she will join her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Wright Pettus and Mrs. Pettus' young son. She will remain two or three weeks, and will be joined next week by Mr. Messick.

Mr. Pettus accompanied his family North but has returned to St. Louis and will be here until he rejoins them next month.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White, 325 Eastgate, and their daughter, Miss Elsie White, accompanied by Miss Virginia Cave and Charles Messick Jr., departed yesterday for Grand Haven, Mich., where the Whites have taken a house for the summer. Mr. Messick will return later this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Moss of Upper Ladue road will by motor today for Charlevoix, Mich., to join Mr. Moss' mother, Mrs. John Wallace Priest, who has had a summer home there for many seasons. They will remain in the North about three weeks and the middle of August plan to go to a ranch near Sheridan, Wyo., for a month.

Mrs. Moss' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey H. Clarke, 501 Clara avenue, will be at home until they go next month to Springfield, Mo., to spend three weeks with Mr. Clarke's mother.

Mrs. Robert A. B. Walsh, 24 Portland place, her daughter, Miss Polly Walsh, and Mrs. Walsh's brother, Walter L. Schneider, have gone to Mexico, D. F., where they have a home. They will be away until fall, during which time they will travel extensively in Mexico.

Mrs. Neil S. Moore, 7229 Westmoreland drive, and her son left a few days ago to spend the summer in La Jolla, Cal. Dr. Moore will join them in August. They will return home early in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Keller, 4 Carrswold, Mr. Keller's mother, Mrs. Ida Keller, and Mrs. Keller's cousin, Mrs. H. P. McGregor, 7645 Carrswold drive, will sail from New York July 28 on the Berengaria for England. They will spend a month there and expect to be home early in September.

Mrs. James H. Wear, 40 Westmoreland place, left Monday morning to open her summer home at Biddford Pool, Me., for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Rugg, 10 North Kingshighway boulevard, have with them for the summer their young granddaughter, Patty Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill Patton of Pittsburgh. Mr. and Mrs. Rugg were in St. Louis for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Rugg will take their granddaughter east in the fall.

Mrs. Edward L. Pretorius of the Park Plaza and her daughter, Miss Edwina Pretorius, are at the Greenbrier in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Mrs. Pretorius and her daughter will go to California following their visit in White Sulphur to which they were accompanied by Lawrence Marshall Eckert.

Miss Nellie Grant Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Astor Peters, 5095 Westminster place, who has been visiting in New York for a week, has gone to Portland, Me., after seeing Miss Jeannette Bell off for Europe on the Berengaria Friday.

day night. In Portland Miss Peters will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Deck Reynolds, cousin of Mrs. Peters, at their summer home. She will return late this month.

Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Towner Senseney, 4555 Pershing avenue, have gone to Eagle River, Wis., for the summer.

Miss Stella and William H. Bixby Jr., children of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby, 13 Portland place, have gone to Lake George, N. Y., for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Bixby, Miss Martha Bixby and possibly Mrs. Frank Rice Sheldon, the former Miss Lillian Bixby, will join them there next month. Mr. Sheldon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon, 14 Kingsbury place, have already opened their summer home at Hyannisport, Mass. Their daughter, Mrs. Bernard Shea Horne Jr. of Pittsburgh, Pa., is the mother of a second daughter, born Monday evening in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Cecil Carlisle Pangman, 4654 Pershing avenue, and her daughter, Miss Joan Pangman, will leave Monday by motor for Grand Haven, Mich., where they have leased for the summer the cottage formerly owned by Samuel A. Mitchell. Another daughter, Mrs. Edward Douglas Campbell, and her young son, Ian, of Montreal, will join them there, and Mr. Pangman and Sewell Pangman expect to spend their vacations in the North.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Neff, 7625 Westmoreland, and their daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Helene, will leave Monday for Central Lake, Mich., where they will be at their cottage, Kildere Lodge, for about six weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Neff and their daughters have recently returned from a visit in Mexico.

Miss Frances Blayney, J. M. Blayney Jr. and Lindsey Blayney, daughter and sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Blayney, 240 Linden avenue, Clayton, left last week to spend a month at Easton's Ranch near Sheridan, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Swartz have closed their home at 5362 Waterman avenue, and have gone to Santa Barbara, Cal., for the summer. They will return early in the fall.

Mrs. Fred Hoag, 625 Skinker boulevard, and her daughter, Mrs. Locke Purnell of Laredo, Tex., who with her young son has been visiting in St. Louis, departed Saturday morning for the South. Mrs. Hoag plans to take a trip to Mexico before returning about the first of August.

8000 Persons at Opera. Nearly 8000 persons attended the second performance of Rudolph Friml's operetta, "The Vagabond King," last night at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park.

Miss Georgia Lamont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson Lamont, formerly of St. Louis, now living in Santa Monica, Cal., and Miss Carol Krausnick of Memphis, will leave Friday for Tennessee after a two weeks' visit with the latter's aunt, Mrs. Howard V. Stephens, 5165 Lindell boulevard.

Miss Lamont will stay with Miss Krausnick for a few days and will also visit friends in Chicago and Grand Lake, Colo., on her way to California.

Grandison Royston Jr., son of Dr. Grandison Royston, 441 North Hanley road, has gone to Washington, Ark., to visit relatives and will be away most of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton May, 11 Brentmoor, will leave Aug. 1 for California.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Aronson, 6633 Waterman avenue, are guests at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

Mrs. Samuel C. Ball, 4515 Lindell boulevard, departed at noon today to spend the summer at the Belvedere Hotel, Charlevoix, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. G. Meyer, 7330 Maryland avenue, will leave next week for the Sea Cliff Hotel, Nantucket, Mass.

Mrs. Wallace W. Scott Jr., 4629 Maryland avenue, and her two daughters, have gone to their summer home, which is situated on Stone Lake, near Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratford Lee Morton, 6 Brentmoor Park, have arrived at the High Hampton Inn and Country Club, Cashiers, N. C., for the remainder of the summer season.

Miss Theodosia Holland of the Kings-Way Hotel is spending the summer at Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Mrs. Sadie Stix of the Park Plaza, and her mother, Mrs. Moses Fraley, are at the Oliver Cromwell in New York. They will spend the summer in the East.

Miss Grace Adams, 320 Skinker boulevard, will entertain tomorrow morning for the members of the creative work class of the Wednesday Club at her home. Mrs. Frank W. Schaberg will read a group of original short stories for children.

8000 Persons at Opera. Nearly 8000 persons attended the second performance of Rudolph Friml's operetta, "The Vagabond King," last night at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park.

It is the perfect vacationland for the whole family. A wilderness mountain world where trails twist up among cliffs and crags to the forested region more than two miles high—to challenge those who wish to experience the explorer's stirring joys.

UNIONS COMPLAIN OF DELAY ON NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS

President Fitzmaurice of Central Trades Presents Protest to Board on Construction Program.

INTEREST CHARGES HELD EXORBITANT

He Says People Expected Jobs to Be Made When They Voted $2,000,000 Bond Issue.

A complaint over failure of the Board of Education to carry out promptly the entire program of school construction under the $2,000,000 bond issue and $578,000 public works administration grant of last year was received by the board last night from William J. Fitzmaurice, president of the Central Trades and Labor Union.

The board took no action on the complaint, except to order it filed.

Fitzmaurice objected to the payment of interest, at 3 per cent annually, on the full $2,000,000 bond issue when all of the money was not being used yet. He said $1,785,102 was lying idle in the bank, but the board's reports showed a bank balance of $1,689,538 as of June 30.

Bonds Sold Last Year.

The bonds, dated last Aug. 1, were sold last year. It was arranged to pay the interest on the bonds out of the proceeds of the PWA grant for a time, but for the present $120,000 has been appropriated from the bond proceeds for two years' interest, since payments from the PWA have not been received yet.

Fitzmaurice declared the interest payment of $60,000 a year was "exorbitant" in view of the volume of work done so far. The board, he declared, should keep its pledge to provide employment with the money in erecting new school facilities.

The people anticipated early employment in voting the bonds in May, 1934, he added.

Fitzmaurice inquired why the bonds were not sold in smaller amounts at intervals as needed, to reduce the interest charges. He said not more than $100,000 had been paid out on construction contracts, although he said board figures indicated $147,885 had been paid. The board's reports last night showed that $205,341 had been paid up to June 30 under $711,123 in appropriations for work at seven schools, equipment and general construction expenses.

16-Ton Meteorite to Planetarium

THE WILLAMETTE, found near Portland, Ore., 33 years ago, will be moved from the American Museum of Natural History in New York City to the Hayden Planetarium, a few blocks distant. Johnson, superintendent of the museum, has charge of moving this and two other meteorites.

month, William M. Susanka, formerly Assistant Auditor at $4850 a year and an employee of the department for 25 years, was made Auditor for a four-year term, at $6750. He succeeded Richard L. Daly, who died June 11. Susanka will not appoint an Assistant Auditor. Francis F. Whelan was promoted from clerk in charge of payrolls and inventories at $2700 to chief clerk at $3600. The personnel was otherwise rearranged without changing the total payroll.

Construction Completed.

Records showed that $79,548 worth of construction had been completed in additions at the Columbian and Carondelet schools, while $381,365 worth was under contract for the new Herzog School, the new Delany portable school, and additions at Gundlach, Divoll and Booker T. Washington Vocational School. The additional appropriation for equipment and general expenses was $130,210, nearly half of which has been spent. In addition, plans have been placed under preparation for a new high school, estimated to cost, with equipment, $300,000. The foregoing accounted for $1,371,123 of the $2,578,000 bond and PWA fund. No orders have been issued by the board yet for additional construction.

Adjustments of Salaries.

In adopting its annual budget last night for the fiscal year which began July 1, the board suspended the salary schedule of the Instruction Department, as had been provided by the board. It was not proposed to change salaries of those who have reached the maximums, but it was expected the schedule of automatic increases, which has been suspended for the last two years, would be altered somewhat, to the benefit of the younger teachers, in the lower pay brackets.

Dr. Gerling will not report the year's pay schedule for the teaching corps until the board's next meeting in September. The budget included allowance for the increase. The superintendent has estimated that 1050 teachers and principals and 50 other employees would benefit.

Dr. Gerling reported that the suspension of the automatic increases and the 10 per cent reduction of all school salaries, which has been in effect for three years, had affected especially those on the lower salary levels. In view of higher costs of living and with the object of "moderating inequities," he recommended suspension of the schedule.

It was provided that the minimum salary should be $1300 a year, instead of $1200, as was the rule for the last three years. Thus the effect of the automatic increase for teachers on the lowest scale would be preserved.

Minor Changes in Budget.

Only minor changes were made in the final budget from the figures laid before the Finance Committee June 21, and published then. The board ended the last fiscal year with a cash balance of $3,766,500. It estimated receipts for the new fiscal year at $9,770,932, but appropriated for all departments for the year at $10,230,101. This would leave a cash balance at the end of the new year of $3,307,331, of which at least $2,400,000 would be required to pay bills until taxes were received six months later.

Thus the actual surplus a year hence will be $907,331, compared with $1,366,500 now. Appropriations for the new year exceeded anticipated income by $459,168. At that rate of excess, the surplus would be wiped out in less than three years. Reversions of unexpended balances from the departments at the end of the last fiscal year amounted to $495,535. Reversions from various sources, notably delinquent taxes, in the last fiscal year were much better than had been anticipated.

W. M. Susanka Made Auditor.

TAX BILL ASSAILED AT HOUSE HEARING

Witness Who Calls Roosevelt "Morally Deficient" Not Allowed to Continue.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—A threat to suspend the hearings cut short another heated political debate over President Roosevelt's tax program today before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Frederick R. Kellogg, New York representing Community Chests and Council, Inc., was on the witness stand when Representative Treadway (Rep.), Massachusetts, suggested:

"The tax bill ought to be put off, but it won't because you (Democrats) get orders while we on this side didn't."

Representative Cooper (Dem.), Tennessee, retorted with a demand to be informed "whether this morning is going to be wasted as yesterday morning was, in a political discussion."

"If so," he said, "I'm ready to suspend the hearings; I've got other work I could do."

Thereupon, the committee allowed Kellogg to proceed with his testimony, in which he advocated that corporations be allowed to deduct from their taxable income amounts donated to community chests up to 5 per cent of their net income.

Another witness, Hugo Noren, Pittsburgh, advocated replacing the present complicated tax structure with a single tax on land.

"We've been destroyed with tax## es," Noren said. "What I'd do is abolish all of the Federal Government except the Senate and the Supreme Court."

"Why that would put us out of jobs," Representative Treadway observed.

"That's what I'm here for," Noren answered, "to convince you that you should be put out of your jobs."

Amid rising laughter from committee members, he added: "The House is a useless body, anyhow."

A witness who described President Roosevelt as "morally deficient" was refused permission to continue his testimony before the committee.

He was H. E. Miles, of Washington, who said he represented the "Fair Tariff League" in advocating action to reduce "the excess profits of trusts."

Asked by Treadway if President Roosevelt favored his ideas, Miles said:

"I think he favored it when I was asked to come down here to help him get elected. But I don't think Franklin Roosevelt has anything on Monday that he has on Thursday. I think he is morally deficient."

"You ought to be ashamed to make such a statement," Representative McCormack (Dem.), Massachusetts, asserted.

He moved the . . . of Miles' testimony be stricken from the record and the witness excused. The motion carried.

Lake Searched for Missing Man.

By the Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 9.—Searching parties turned to Lake Vermilion today in an effort to locate Firmin Pacot, 56, who has been missing since Sunday. A note addressed to a daughter, police said, told of the missing man's despondency over ill health and asked forgiveness for his actions.

BIDS ON MEAT FOR CITY

SHOW DECREASE IN PRICES

Cost Lower on 28 or 33 Different Items for Municipal Institutions.

Low bids for 33 different items of meat received by the city for a month's institutional supply average about 10 per cent lower than those received a month ago. Supply Commissioner Roach announced today.

Twenty-eight kinds of meat were priced lower than a month ago, four higher, and one the same. The increases in 100-pound lots were: Beef liver, $12.25 to $12.75; beef tongues, $15.80 to $16.50; pork loin, $22.92 to $23.50; spare ribs, $13.88 to $15.50.

Some of the decreases in heavier classifications of meats for 100-pound lots were: Beef carcasses, $14.95 a month ago to $12.90; beef hinds, $16.75 to $14.90; beef loins, $20 to $18.75; mutton carcasses, $8.75 to $7.95; pork shoulder, $17.91 to $17.25; sausage meat, $16.97 to $15; hamburger, $20 to $19.90; and lamb carcasses, $16 to $14.90.

BOND ISSUE PROPOSAL
BY BROWN SHOE CO.

SEC Asked to Authorize $4-000,000 of 15-Year Sinking Fund Securities.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
291-05 Kelllogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Brown Shoe Co. of St. Louis filed an application with the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission today for the issuance of $4,000,000 15-year sinking fund bonds, the receipts to be used for redemption of 31,559 preferred shares, the payment of outstanding notes and for additions to the company's general funds.

The underwriters of the issue, if approved, will be Goldman Sachs
& Co. and Lehman Brothers of New York. The proposed interest rate, the proposed discount to the underwriters and the price at which the bonds would be sold to the public were not included in today's application and will be furnished in a supplementary application. The application stated that it was the plan to offer the bonds about Aug. 1. Usually 20 days are required for clearance of an application by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

$18,900 to John A. Bush.

The application disclosed that President John A. Bush received aggregate remuneration of $18-989.57 for the company's fiscal year which ended Oct. 31, 1934, and that under terms of an agreement made
Jan. 5, 1932, Bush was to be elected president annually for the subsequent five years and was to receive compensation on the basis that prevailed for the year 1931. Under this agreement Bush was given an option, which the application said had not been exercised, to purchase 8000 shares of the company's common stock at $35 a share. This option, subject to certain restrictions as to the time of purchase, will expire Dec. 31, 1941.

The application revealed that the compensation to officers for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1935, "is to a certain extent" based on the company's earnings in accordance with an "additional compensation plan" adopted by the board of directors Dec. 4, 1934. This additional compensation plan, according to the application, is 12 1/2 per cent of the company's net profit, after deduction of stated fixed charges and interest of the preferred and common stock.

The application explained that the resolution of the board of directors approving this plan was not included as a contract exhibit "as it is doubtful if such resolution or matters embraced thereby constitute a contract."

Reason for Plan.

The resolution, however, is included in another section of the application and states that the additional compensation plan was adopted because "in the opinion of the board, the executives of the company who are responsible for the conduct of the business are entitled to additional compensation for the services rendered for the ensuing year; and in the opinion of the board, an increase in compensation based on the earnings of the company is more desirable than a fixed and stated increase."

The beneficiaries of the additional compensation plan were described in the resolution as "important executives of the company who are primarily responsible for the conduct of the business and who shall be in the company's services for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1935."

The board members named to select the beneficiaries were George E. Southwick and Walter E. Sachs, who were declared ineligible to benefit from the plan.

The resolution indicated that participants in the additional compensation plan would be selected after Oct. 31, 1935. The proportion of the earnings allotted to any one individual was to be wholly in the discretion of Southwick and Sachs.

The compensation for the principal officers, other than Bush, for the 1934 fiscal year, was as follows:
E. R. McCarthy, vice-president,
$13,043; T. F. James, vice-president,
$13,043; H. S. Hutchins, treasurer,
$17,135; Walter R. Elkins, William Kaut and W. S. Powell, department managers, $11,250; E. H. English, depart ent manager, $10,059. South-wick and Sachs, as directors, received no compensation in the fiscal year 1934.

The application disclosed that Bush owned 60 preferred and 4300 common shares as "of record and beneficially" and 3009 preferred and 9000 common shares as "co-executor but not beneficial." McCarthy was listed as owning 7109 common shares and T. F. James, 3245 common shares.

1935 AAA TAXES

EXCEED THOSE ON

489,864 collected directly from corporations and individuals.

Missouri Internal Revenues.

Total internal revenue collections in Missouri increased from $76,211-
245 for the fiscal year 1934 to $86-315,718 for the year just ended. The total collections in the St. Louis district increased from $56,276,955 to $63,793,641. In the Kansas City district the total collections increased from $20,134,293 to $22,522,077.

Total income tax receipts in the St. Louis district were $21,202,035 for 1935, of which $13,895,063 was from corporations and $7,306,971 was from individuals. As compared with these figures there was collected in the St. Louis district $32,302,128 in miscellaneous taxes, which include the nuisance taxes, which intended and $10,289,476 in AAA taxes.

In the Kansas City district a total of $7,392,368 was collected in income taxes, of which $4,687,893
was from corporations and $2,704,475
from individuals. In the Kansas City district the miscellaneous taxes amounted to $5,172,382 and the AAA taxes to $9,957,326.

A comparison shows that the total
AAA taxes collected in the state, $20,246,802, was just about $1,000,000 less than the total income taxes paid in the St. Louis district.

Illinois Collection Districts.

In the two Illinois collection districts the total internal revenue paid into the Federal Treasury amounted to $321,268,828 in 1935 as compared with $214,710,546, a gain of more than $100,000,000. The AAA tax collections in 1935 in Illinois amounted to $100,488,652, and the total income tax collections to only

The total Federal tax receipts from Arkansas for the fiscal year just ended were $3,160,254, as compared with $2,933,002 for 1934. The total income tax collections amounted to $1,342,761 in 1935, of which $737,488 was from corporations and $605,272 from individuals. The miscellaneous internal revenue collections were $1,491,120 and the AAA tax receipts $398,372.

New Mexico paid less taxes into the Federal Treasury than any other state. The total collections for 1935 amounted to $1,031,578. The collections in 1934 were $863,595.
The six districts of New York paid in a total of more than $650,000,000, about a fifth of the total for the country.

CHATTANOOGA EDITOR
KILLS SELF IN OFFICE

Richard Earl Walker, 50, of the Times, Leaves Note Telling of Failing Health.

By the Associated Press.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 10.

—Writing that he was "no longer able to work," Richard Earl Walker, 50-year-old associate editor of the Chattanooga Times, typed out data for his obituary and shot himself to death in the newspaper office.

Mr. Walker's body was found seated at his desk yesterday, a bullet wound in the right temple. In his typewriter was the obituary note addressed to "whom it may concern."

"I have been in failing health for two and one-half years," it said.
"I am no longer able to work."

A pistol was found in his right hand. Coroner Charles Apperson said there would be no inquest.

The note in the typewriter read:
"I was born on July 28, 1884. My parents were James J. and Mrs.
Martha L. (Meisenheimer) Walker.
My birthplace was Rowan County, North Carolina. I was educated at Wake Forest College, Wake Forest, N. C. There I obtained my B.
A. degree in 1909, studied law and obtained license to practice in the fall of 1912. In the spring of 1913

I received from Wake Forest my
M. A. degree. I am survived by my mother, Mrs. S. E. Simmeron, who has been an inmate of Lyons View since Feb. 2, 1933, and my wife, Mrs.
Mae Lucille Walker. I have been in failing health for two and one-half years. I am going because I am no longer able to work."

Mr. Walker came to the Times
Jan. 5, 1925, from Roanoke (Va.)
World News as associate editor. The Times was one of the newspapers owned by the late Adolph Ochs.

---

Ingot Output Back to 36 1-2
Per Cent, "Iron Age" States.

By the Associated Press.—NEW YORK, July 10.—"Steel ingot output has rebounded to 36½ per cent of capacity, or only 1½ points short of the rate that prevailed in the last two weeks of June," says the Iron Age. "The current operation compares with 27 per cent in the corresponding week of 1934. But the in the production pace does not different measures the improvement in the industry's position over what it was a year ago. At that time producers' customers were loaded up with swollen inventories which had been accumulated in anticipation of price advances. Today buyers' stocks are relatively light and, in some instances, actually subnormal because of postponement of purchases for possible price advances.

Other favorable factors are the sustained demand for automobiles, with July assemblies estimated at 275,000 units, and married betterment in the condition of the farmer, who a year ago was faced by one of the worst drouths in history. Agricultural buying is not only sustaining farm equipment and tractor manufacture but is accounting for out-of-season activity in roofing sheets, barbed wire and fencing.

Leading automobile makers will be down for a time in August for retooling, but volume purchases of steel for new models, which will get into production in September, ber, will be made late this month or in the first half of next month. Current steel business from the motor car industry consists both of fill-in lots for final runs on 1935 models and initial small orders for 1936 cars.

"A real test of steel prices will develop when buying sets in in earnest for the new models.

"Tin plate shipments in June assumed record proportions for some producers, and in the case of other mills will reach an apex this month. Output of the industry's excellent recovery system has been hindered by interruption and is now averaging 65 per cent. Reaction from can companies reflect the condition of packing crops, which are abundant except for pear, which have been ravaged by lice in the orchards. The tin-plating producing industry is under a contract placed by the Premier Tinplate Corporation, Milwaukee, with a can company for containers points to a marked expansion in the use of tin plate for beer cans.

New York City has placed orders for 3500 tons of cement-lined cast iron pipe and Los Angeles has opened bids on 3500

"Prospects of larger tonnages from public works have been brightened by the example of Mississippi River improvements from the arbitrary rules of the Government concerning relative expenditures for labor and materials. Bids will now be taken on the river projects at a rate of $1.00 a ton a week, nearly half tenders to be taken this week and next on two contracts for the Bonneville (Ore.) dam involve 7800 tons of steel.

"Structural steel lettings total 21,800 tons against 7000 tons a week ago. Private work was well represented, leading "The scrap market has a strong tone, although prices remain substantially unchanged. The 'Iron Age' composite for heavy melting and hot rolling is $175.75 a gross ton. The 'Iron Age' composite prices for pig iron and finished steel also are unaltered at $17.44 a gross ton and $212.46 a pound respectively. Connellsville furnace coke is gaining strength, with the domestic ton now at $32.25. The fuel markets have been demoralized by the flood of offerings that had accumulated prior to the threatened coal strike.

"Our tariff on iron and steel products has again been lowered, this time by a reduction in duties on high-grade steels, effective Aug. 5, which follows the conclusion of a Swedish-American trade agreement."

BONDS ARE IRREGULAR IN CLOSING TRADES

NEW YORK, July 10.—The bond market was irregular at the close. Sizeable gains in various industrial and utility issues had been offset in sharp losses in a number of low-priced rails.

The U. S. Government list moved quietly throughout the session and final prices were 3-32ds of a point higher to 3-32ds lower.

Liens of Erie, Pere Marquette, Great Northern and New York Central closed 1 to 1/4 points lower. Bonds of Southern Railway and Southern Pacific showed good Strong features in the general corporate list included Laclede Gas 3½s, Chile Copper 3s, Columbia Gas & Electric 3s, Youngman Sheet & Tube 3s and International Telephone 3s.

The foreign department was featured by renewed weakness in Italian and French Government loans. Other groups were irregular.

LOW BIDS ON STATE BUILDING

Smaller Figure for Concrete Construction at St. Joseph.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—The Madsen Construction Co., Minneapolis, Minn., and J. E. Dunn Construction Co., Kansas City, today submitted the low bids for construction of a dormitory at State Hospital No. 2, St. Joseph, the advisory committee for the State bipartisan board, announced.

The Madsen company bid $202,394 and $198,482. The Dunn company bid $203,108 and $199,808. The first bids were for steel girders and the second were girders of reinforced concrete.

BOYS FIND BODY OF MAN

Head Crushed, Rope Around Neck and Legs Amputated.

By the Associated Press.

HAMMOND, Ind., July 10.—Two boys picking strawberries found the body of an unidentified man yesterday in the swampy Robbinsdale section which was notorious as a burying-ground for victims of Chicago gang killings during prohibition.

The man's head had been crushed, a rope was knotted tightly about his neck, and his legs had been amputated. A coroner's physician said the body had been there four or five days.

EX-STATE AUDITOR HELD LIABLE FOR $4000

Supreme Court Finds Against L. D. Thompson and Bonding Company on Printing Item.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 10.—Former State Auditor Lorenzo J. Thompson of Jefferson City and the surety company which signed his official bond, must pay the State $4000 because Thompson's department issued warrants in 1932 to pay State printing bills in that amount against an appropriation to which the items were not properly chargeable, under a ruling today by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc.

The Court reversed a ruling of Cole County Circuit Court, which had found for Thompson in a suit by Attorney-General McKittick to recover $31,984 on printing-bill warrants alleged to have been paid from appropriation against which they were not chargeable. The Supreme Court sustained the charges, as to $4000 of the items, on an appeal by the Attorney-General, and directed the lower court to enter a judgment for that amount.

Thompson, a Republican, served four years as State Treasurer and two four-year terms as State Auditor. He retired from the latter office in January, 1933, after he was defeated in the 1932 election for Secretary of State.

Warrants in Question.

The payments attacked by the Attorney-General involved three warrants issued by the State Auditor in 1931 and 1932 to the Botz Printing & Stationery Co. of Jefferson City, which held the State printing contract at the time. The warrants, which were paid by the State Treasurer, were for printing for the State Department of Education, and were charged against a $220,000 appropriation for teacher training in high schools, for the 1931-1932 biennium.

It was charged the printing had no connection with teacher training, was not used in the training courses, and that the payments were not included in the purposes for which the appropriation was made by the Legislature.

Judge Charles T. Hays, who wrote the opinion, said the evidence showed that all of the printing was used in, and was a necessary part of the teacher training work, except items totaling $4000. He said the latter items had no connection with the teacher training and that this fact was admitted by Thompson's counsel, on appeal.

Thompson contended that the items were audited and the warrants issued by his department, only after the State Printing Commission had approved the printing requisitions of the Department of Education, against the appropriation, and that he had no alternative but to issue the warrants, under the law. He also pointed out that the payments had been approved by a legislative auditing committee, in the biennial settlement with his office. He contended that under the circumstances there had been no breach of his bond.

The defense also relied on an opinion by former Attorney-General Stratton Shartel, issued to the Department of Education in 1931, holding that certain printing items might be charged to the teacher training appropriation.

Defenses Overruled.

Judge Hays overruled these defenses, holding that inclusion of the $4000 in items admittedly not connected with teacher training "was an obvious and inexcusable error."

Judge Hays said counsel for Thompson had stressed arguments that the State had suffered no actual loss from payment of the accounts in question, and that all of the printed matter was necessary for the use of, and was used by, the State Department of Education.

"None the less that fact constitutes no defense in this suit," the Judge said. "It is not the province of the courts to bestow largess or to exonerate from legal liability. That function, as regards the liability of the respondents as hereby fixed, belongs to another branch of the Government, the Legislature. There have been instances where Legislatures have relieved public officers from liability for public moneys that have been lost in various ways without negligence on their part."

All of the other judges of Court en banc concurred in the ruling. Thompson's official bond of $50,000, as State Auditor, was signed by the American Surety Co. of New York.

FIRST WHEAT AT JERSEYVILLE

Charles Tucker Delivers Load of 1935 Grain to Elevator.

The first load of 1935 wheat to be brought to Jerseyville, Ill., was received late Saturday afternoon at the elevator of the Jersey County Grain Co. on East Exchange street. Charles Tucker, a tenant on the farm of C. G. Reddish in the Nutwood vicinity, brought the grain to the elevator here.

The wheat graded No. 2 and ran a test of 53 pounds to the bushel. Tucker received the sack of flour given by the company to the first wheat producer of the season. Several farmers were hauling wheat to Jerseyville Monday morning. Claude Yocom delivered a load to the Stanard-Tilton Co. and others who came in later in the day were Fred Mowrey of Kane, D. B. Grether of Rosedale and Charles Tucker of East Hardin.

STUDENT SOLDIERS GET FIRST AID INSTRUCTION

Emergency Bandages Demonstrated at Jefferson Barracks Training Camp.

Instruction in first aid was given youthful student soldiers at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks today, medical corps officers demonstrating all kinds of emergency bandages.

The first formal review of the camp was held yesterday afternoon for Major-General Frank A. McCoy, commanding the Sixth Corps area, who returned to his headquarters at Chicago after announcing he was "well pleased" with the showing of the recruits.

Only the First Battalion, consisting of four of the camp's 12 companies, passed in review. Although 70 per cent of the marchers had never received military training until a week ago the movements were executed in good order.

The Sixth Infantry band played for the review but within a few days the camp band will make its debut. Just now it is holding long practice sessions. Most of its members are players in Illinois high school bands.

All of the 1490 campers were engaged this morning in four hours of regular drill. Infantry maneuvers were taught most of the companies although the two machine gun companies, composed of youths who have been to camp before, received advanced instruction. Athletic events occupy each afternoon. The wrestling and boxing tournaments, open to the public at no admission charge, will begin tonight at 7 o'clock at the camp's stadium. Entrants have been received from every company.

Illinois Road Contracts Awarded.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 10.—Contracts for two highway improvements were approved yesterday by the State Department of Public Works and Buildings, Division of Highways. The projects were described by Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, as follows: Franklin County — Steel I-beam bridge near West Frankfort, awarded to Vincennes Bridge Co., Vincennes, Ind., $2269. City of Hanover, 1089 mile combination curb and gutter, awarded to Ole H. Kleven, Mount Carroll, Ill., $1356.95.

Big War or Little?
A Different Italy.
Japan Expects—La Guardia's G-Men.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

WAR is not coming; it is here. It may or may not be a war "setting the world on fire." Italy had an unpleasant experience in Abyssinia, in the last century, and wants to repair that. It also wants to keep Japan from gathering in Abyssinian trade, and controlling Abyssinia. Britain can understand how Italy feels, since Britain found it really necessary to gather in the Transvaal and other vast areas throughout the world.

Italy used to send 500,000 immigrants a year to the United States. Now they are shut out. They must go somewhere. They would considerably improve Abyssinia if they went there. You read of the rainy season in Abyssinia, of low, malarial regions. But what Mussolini sees is the marvelously cool uplands, the wonderful 300,000 square miles, through which you may travel from the hot tropics to climate and might like those of the Alps.

Abyssinia is a wonderful country for an adventurous young Italian, with rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses, giraffes, crocodiles, lions and all kinds of queer creatures to shoot, to say nothing of natives classified as "wild tribesmen," some Christians, some Mohammedans.

Forty years ago the Abyssinian King Menelik II, with 90,000 Abyssinians, defeated Italy at Adowa. This time Italy led by Mussolini will go in airplanes and presumably wipe out that defeat.

Some of the Mohammedan tribesmen, on the edge of the big lake that supplies the headwaters of the Blue Nile, still retain, as part of their religion, the "hippopotamus cult." A young man must kill a hippopotamus before he is allowed to marry. That law supplies meat.

For his own sake, and that of his subjects, it is to be hoped the Ethiopian Emperor will not allow too many to be killed before he realizes that Italians, fighting from the air, are not like Italians marching over hot sand or through swamps; also, that Italians fighting under Mussolini are a kind of Italians that Abyssinia has not met.

A late message indicates that the Abyssinian trouble might expand. In reply to Mussolini's warning that "Japanese infiltration into North Africa would some day constitute a challenge to the white race," Japan replies, through Gen. Ugaki: "Japan could not remain neutral in a war between Italy and Abyssinia."

A FAT MAN IN MOSCOW

By Alexander Woolcott

Alexander Woolcott

MOSCOW, November, 1932. I AM just back from Leningrad and the manager of the hotel has gone off again with my passport. He will brood over it for a week, entering all its fascinating vital statistics in a series of ledgers and in the process discovering — I should think without great surprise — that, although I have been away from Moscow three whole days, nothing has happened in the interval to alter the previously noted fact that I was born in Phalanx, N. J., of all places, on Jan. 19, 1887. It is depressing to contemplate the amount of clerical labor and white paper which, during the past 10 years, has been wasted in solemnly recording for the police archives of various countries a date of such scant historical significance. There is one aspect of travel in the Soviet Union about which no one thought to warn me. Of course, I had heard it would be bitter cold and it is true that already Moscow is festively mantled in snow. I have been skating on the ponds which fringe the city and the small, pre-revolutionary sleighs (into which I can get only with the aid of several panting tovarishchi and a shoe horn) are out today, busily threading, with gleeful urchin impudence, the baffled traffic of trucks and trams. When the curtain rises even at the pampered Art Theater, an Arctic blast sweeps out over the proletarian audience from the drafty reaches of the stage. But we don't call this cold in Quebec. At least, it seems no more than chilly to one who has ever waited for the last trolley on a street corner in Utica, N. Y. I suppose it will get quite nippy in January, but as the citizenry has already resorted to fur coats, extra sweaters, mittens and ear muffs, I do not see what there is left for them to add in the event of a really brisk day.

But no one had warned me how disconcerting would be the daily experiences of a fat man in the Soviet Union. In this connection it is necessary for me to intrude upon you the fact that your correspondent verges on the portly. Therefore all readers who have been enveloping him as a young gazelle are in error. For candor's sake, I must state that there is dignified literary precedent. When Mr. Shaw, lying sick in his prime, announced that his coffin might at least be followed through the streets of London by all the animals he had never eaten, Mr. Chesterton ventured to suggest that many humans would want to be represented in that cortege and that he himself would be glad to substitute for one of the elephants.

Now every foreigner is used to being stared at in Moscow. It is his clothes which betray him and it is no uncommon thing for him to be stopped in the street and asked politely, wistfully even desperately, where he got them. But it is my unflinching and often embarrassing experience that all Russians, young and old, whom I pass on the street not only stare but halt in their tracks as though astounded and then grin from ear to ear.

Local commentators are inclined to suggest that I owe this mild but constant commotion to my resembling the capitalist as he is always pictured in the Soviet cartoons. But I myself am disposed to ascribe it more simply to the fact that in the Soviet Union a man of girth is an exotic rarity. Fatist or even Mr. Pickwick, stroll on the Nevsky Prospekt, would cause as much of a stir as a mastodon on Fifth avenue. And for the same reason.

I DO not think I am being either fanciful or sententious in ascribing this phenomenon of Soviet behavior with the food shortage. The other day I was attending a cantata put on by the children of the workers in a Moscow boot factory. A fat, bearded kid of eight or nine wore gravely about the stage, all carrying red flags and singing what even they seemed to regard as somewhat cheerless songs about the importance of tractors and the sheer beauty of machinery. I fell into conversation with a jolly girl of 10 who occupied the adjoining seat and who was obviously more entertained by me than by the efforts of her school-fellows upon the platform. She improved the occasion by taking a short English lesson. How, in America, did one say "papa" and "mama" and "theater" and "international"? And did Americans live in caves or in houses? I asked if she would like to go to New York and, after looking at me meditatively, she decided she would. "I think," she said, "that there must be plenty to eat there."

Then the other evening while I waited on a windswept doorstep for a friend to pick me up, one of a trio of young Communists—a lad of 15 perhaps—reached out and patted my face as I passed by. I feel sure this was not rudely done at all. The grin he gave me over his shoulders as he went on his way was somehow both envious and appreciative. That's the word for it. It was an appreciative grin. It seemed to say: "Ah, comrade, what a sequence of juicy steaks, what

Common Sense Often Dictates Social Usage

Fellow Office Workers May Be Asked to Wedding Without Wives.

By Emily Post

Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: I am sending wedding invitations to men in the same office with whom the groom-to-be has been associated for a long period of time, it is necessary to include their wives? It seems to me the common sense method would be to address the invitation to the men alone at the office, since the wives are not known to their husbands' associates, and the office is the common ground upon which their friendship has been made.

With answer: I agree with you that it would seem sensible to forget the unknown wives, and ask the men alone, but according to etiquette—particularly if the wedding is to take place after business hours—invitations to married men should be addressed in each case to "Mr. and Mrs.," and yet when the wives are total strangers, it is the custom in many communities to send the invitations to the office and consider all of the men as bachelors, who made the wedding a special office event and all go together in a body. Even so, it would be more polite to address the envelopes Mr. and Mrs. and send them to the office and let each man make it an office or family event, as he thinks best.

Dear Mrs. Post: We sent a graduation present to a boy who thanked us for "the five dollars" on a postcard. My husband thinks it was poor taste for him to mention the present specifically, and poorer taste to write the note on a postcard. What do you think?

Answer: He should have written on note paper, first, because a postal card should never be used for social correspondence, and second, his message is necessarily public. Had he written a letter, it would have been proper to mention the present specifically, therefore I don't think it can be said that this was a serious fault. The real shortcoming was lack of note paper, and yet all the excitement of commencement week, the one fact that really matters, is that he did write and thank you.

Dear Mrs. Post: I know that I am to be asked to two showers in honor of a friend who will soon be a bride. Both will be bridge parties and I don't play cards. Does my inability to play mean that I shall be deprived of going?

Answer: It is perfectly simple to tell each hostess that you will come with pleasure to the shower, and ask her whether it is to be before or after the bridge playing. She will then say, "We are going to have the shower at three o'clock and play afterwards," or "We will play first and then have the shower. Will you come a little after four?"

Better-Smelling Brushes

Scrub brushes and cleaning brushes get very sour and evil-smelling if put away wet after using. A hook under the house in an airy spot is a good place from which they may be hung and dried in a sanitary manner before they are put away.

Mugs of good beer, what mounds of lovely, golden butter, what pools of fine white bread must have gone into the making of that!

A TURBULENT CAREER NEARS ITS END

May Yohe, Once Owner of Hope Diamond, Now Ill in Boston Hospital

MAY YOHE . . . once owner of the famous Hope diamond.

IN A bare white room at the Boston State Hospital, "Madcap" May Yohe, one-time possessor of the famous Hope diamond, is nearing the end of the zig-zag trail that led from obscurity in the ranks of the chorus, to fame and wealth and a title, and then back again to obscurity as a scrubwoman in a Seattle shipyard. Near death from a fall, the once glamorous beauty is "gradually weakening," and attendants at the hospital point out that because of her advanced years—she is 66 now—recovery is highly doubtful. Nearly half a century has passed since May Yohe, who hailed from Bethlehem, Pa., set fashionable London agog by calmly walking off with Lord Francis Hope, the prize catch of the British metropolis, after only a few months' courtship. May met Lord Francis when she was but 17, while playing in "The Magic Opal" at the Lyric Theater, in Shaftesbury avenue, London. It was love at first sight and the young noble lost no time in offering his title, wealth and position to the young actress. And so, by the time she was 18, May was Lady Hope, wearer of one of the proudest titles in all England, and possessor of the 44-carat Hope diamond, the great blue gem which she has always blamed for the numerous assortment of misfortunes which Fate later presented to her.

After the wedding at the Registry in Hampstead, Lord and Lady Hope settled down at Deepdene, the treasure-packed palace surrounded by the ancestral acres, which young Lord Francis had inherited from his mother. But the irrepressible May found Deepdene a bit dull, and it was not long before she was yearning for the footlights and the smell of grease paint. With her husband's consent she built her own theater in London, and for seven years was the "Queen of Comedy" to the theater-going world, and Lady Francis Hope to the flower of English nobility who crowded the drawing room of the popular young Lord and his Lady. And then, with her success and beauty the toast of two continents, and her meteoric career at its height—it happened. May fell for the brass buttons on an American Army captain's uniform and, clutching fame, title, wealth and husband overboard, eloped with the handsome but dissolute Capt. Putnam Bradley Strong, son of a former Mayor of New York, William L. Strong.

Again London was agog. And for May, it was the beginning of a lifetime of misfortune. Lord Francis divorced her and she married her dashing army captain, but the venture ended in disaster and it was not long before May discarded her second husband and attempted to rebuild her career. She tried to convince the world that she was powerless to avoid the unfortunate episode, that she was pursued by the deadly hoodoo that had followed the wearers of the Hope diamond ever since it was stolen from India in the latter part of the seventeenth century.

But May's one-time devoted public was inclined to be a bit skeptical of her explanation and slowly but surely she was forced down the ladder, rung by rung. With each step down, she reaffirmed her intention to vindicate herself and prove to the world that she was powerless to avoid her indiscretion. "I can only say that the brass buttons of the American army hypnotized me, as they have hypnotized other women," May announced time and time again in extenuation of her act. "I was bereft of my senses for a short period. And like a few other women in the history of the world's big tragedies I trampled under my feet all that was most wonderful and most splendid in life. I killed it forever, and now there is nothing left but to begin again."

THERE were many beginnings—again. For a while she was able to secure bookings in England because she had once been Lady Francis Hope and because the public was curious to view the unexplainable woman who preferred a commoner to the delicately chivalrous Lord Francis. Finally May was reduced to accepting a job as a barmaid in a Bohemian London club.

MAY YOHE in the prime of her career.

Just before she went to the hospital. And worked at it five weeks before John knew it. Then I got some money from an estate and bought a little ranch in California, but the gophers ate up all the crops, so I sold out. Later I found out that the man I sold it to struck oil on it. Isn't that just my luck?" Her next venture was a tea-room and maple-sugar business in New Hampshire but the ill-luck curse of the diamond hunted her out once more. Fire gutted the building but May and her captain escaped with only a few burns and a broken arm apace. In 1923 she attempted to stage a comeback, singing "Honey, Ma Honey," "If I Were Only You," "That Old Girl of Mine," and others that had made her the sensation of the gay 90s. Some of her magnetic personality still remained, but her success was disappointing in comparison with the triumphs of her early days. Again in 1928 and in 1930 May announced intentions of returning to the stage, but failed to find sufficient encouragement.

Now in the psychopathic ward of the Boston State Hospital as the result of complications brought on by a recent fall, May seems to be at the end of the rocky road she has traveled since the day she eloped with a uniform. But with it all, there is no bitterness in "Madcap May" Yohe. She is still plump and cheery and likeable. Of her early escapade she says, "I was a naughty girl then." And adds simply, "I think I've paid for what I did." And of the Hope Diamond, "I wore it twice and didn't care if I never wore it again. It looked like a bum shapphire. Why, I gave the old stone more publicity than it ever had before or since."

MAY was always reluctant to talk of the immense blue diamond. She believed that it was "ill to talk of an ill thing." But once when she was trying to prove that it was responsible for her misfortunes, she set down for publication a list of the possessors of the stone and their fates. Believed to have been stolen from India in the latter part of the seventeenth century by one Andre Tavernier, the gem was then still the rough and weighed 12 1/2 carats. Tavernier sold the ill-gotten stone to Louis XIV for 2,500,000 francs and a barony, but before he could begin to enjoy his new fortune was torn to pieces by wild dogs while hunting. And the "red with blood and wet with tears" trail of the diamond was begun. Next came the beautiful Madame de Montespan, who as soon as she acquired the stone found herself supplanted in the affections of the great Louis by Madame de Maintenon. Madame de Maintenon did not wear the jewel but Louis lent it to M. Fouquet. Two years later M. Fouquet lost his head on the guillotine. The next wearer was Queen Anne who also went to the guillotine, and her friend to whom she loaned the gem, the Princess de Lamballe, was torn to pieces by a Paris mob. From then until the diamond was acquired by Henry Thomas Hope, the list of deaths and tragedies is incomplete. Lord Francis Hope sold it to a firm of jewelers for $168,000—it had been cut down to a little more than 44 carats by this time—and the firm immediately was beset with financial troubles. Then Abdul Hamid, Sultan of Turkey, acquired it and promptly found himself deposed. Salma Zayba, the Sultan's favorite and wearer of the blue stone, met violent death, along with several palace officers who were entrusted with its safekeeping. The next owner was a Parisian merchant who was drowned, and the last and present possessor of the famous Hope diamond is Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, of Washington, who wears the walnut-sized jewel as a pendant. Mrs. McLean ignores May Yohe's advice to "throw the thing in the sea."

And even now, with nothing left but a few pleasant memories, May Yohe only scoffs at the famous stone. "They say it still is worth thousands. But I wouldn't give a nickel for it," she says with finality. Fifteen years ago the spell of the diamond had apparently spent itself, and May Yohe settled down to a quiet home-life in the Dorchester district of Boston. And in these last years, "Madcap May" Yohe, who once had a title and a castle and the Hope diamond, and who was chummy enough with the late King Edward of England to call him "Eddie"—this same May Yohe found her greatest pleasure in arising at 5 a. m. to fix ham and eggs for her working-man husband. And from all the things May said before they parted her off to the psychopathic ward, it is safe to guess that the little old lady with the clouded mind thinks not of the glamorous yesterdays, but of her little cottage, her cat and dog, and her faithful spouse, Captain Smuts, who is waiting for her return from the hospital.

Chicken Roll. Cut the raw meat from two good sized chickens and run through the meat grinder. Place in a bowl, add one cup of dried bread crumbs, one medium-sized grated onion, two teaspoons of salt, one-half teaspoon of grated nutmeg and one-half cup of chopped pecans and some freshly ground black pepper. Into this break two whole eggs and mix thoroughly. Form into a roll about four inches in diameter and sew in a piece of cheese cloth. Place bones of chicken in kettle with a few stalks or leaves of celery, sprigs of parsley, one half onion and a small bay leaf and cover with water and slowly bring to a boil. Place chicken roll in this, cover tightly and cook slowly for about three hours. When done remove cheese cloth and set aside to cool. Serve whole or thinly sliced on platter and garnish with watercress and small pickled carrots and pickled cauliflower.

Epicurian Sandwiches. Cream four tablespoons of butter and one teaspoon of dry mustard. Mash four fillets of anchovy and chop four small sour pickles, one teaspoon of finely cut up chives and one chopped taragon leaf. Press the yolks of four hard-boiled eggs through a sieve and add to the butter and mustard. Mix all together and spread on thinly buttered bread and make into sandwiches.

Cheese Salad. Place sections of Camembert cheese in center of crisp hearts of lettuce. Surround the cheese, overlapping, thin slices of unpeeled tart apples and over pour a highly seasoned French dressing. With this pass heated Bent's water crackers.

Enchanted Fruit. In a round or oblong glass bowl place sliced fresh peaches, fresh raspberries, cut up black sweet cherries and white seedless grapes. Sweeten lightly and place in refrigerator to chill. Just before serving cover with whipped cream and over all pour one-half cup of sweet chocolate which has been melted with one-half cup of milk and allow to cool.

New England Cookies. One-half cup of butter, softened. One-half cup of rich sour cream. One cup of sugar. One teaspoon of soda. A little nutmeg. Mix quickly, adding just flour to enable you to roll out the dough very thin. Cut into small rounds and bake in a quick oven to a delicate brown. These will keep a long time and if they lose their crispness can be refreshed by being baked in oven again.

WHEN MUSCLES ARE SORE THEY'RE SICK!

One and one-half cups milk. One cup cottage cheese. Two tablespoons grated lemon rind. One tablespoon lemon juice. One tablespoon granulated gelatin. One-quarter cup cold water. Two egg whites, beaten. Beat yolks, add sugar, flour, salt and milk. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens slightly. Do not overcook. Add gelatin which has soaked in cold water for 10 minutes. Mix well and allow to thicken. Fold in rest of ingredients and pour into crust. Chill.

JANE ARDEN A GIRL REPORTER'S ADVENTURES PICTURED EVERY DAY IN THE POST-DISPATCH

Dear Mrs. Carr: I WOULD like you to please send me suggestions for a party which I am planning for the July 8 for my little son who will be 3 years of age. There will be several his age and a few older. MRS. A. L.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My Dear Mrs. Carr: W HAT is your opinion of those serving you in the shops who invariably say, "Dearie," "Honey," or use other terms of endearment (?) or familiarity? Not only that, but who take hold of your arm or lay the hand on your arm or nudge in the effort to indicate the right direction. I know that in the better shops where the training is the right kind, it is not so much done; but even in these it seems impossible to teach the "hands off" manners. This applies to footwalkers, and both men and women clerks, as well as elevator girls and waitresses.

I do not feel "superior" or unkindly to any of these people; but I think they should learn, as those persons do among people of nice feeling, that it is crude to put their hands on people. ABBY DE F.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I WOULD please tell me if shoes with high heels would be too grown-up looking on a girl 15 years old, when she is a lot smaller than her set of girl friends? Do you think it is best for her to go to a show with a boy in a while, if he is a nice boy to her at all other times? LITTLE FELLOW.

I thing just a little bit in the way of heel height might be conceded a very small girl; but not so very high heels as a very high spike or French heel on a young girl your age, looks ridiculous—and, have you ever tried them? They can spoil an entire evening along with one's disposition. Why not use a little diplomacy this summer, since very low heel sandals are so smart, by scattering that fact among your tall friends? Only once in a LONG while.

Dear Martha Carr: RECENTLY an evangelist came to this small place at the invitation of the Ministerial Association, and is holding a series of meetings in a large tent. What is needed is a pianist for his broadcasts in St. Louis. If these men, the minister and singer, left here in the morning, no matter how early, we could provide no end of talent, but, since they drive to your city after evening services, there seems not seem to provide transportation, etc., or to have someone go from this distance for such an early broadcast. You would be helping so much if you could find someone to help by giving their services as an accompanist. You can refer to the Ministerial Association and the Rev. Ezra Keller, pastor Lutheran Evangelical Church. MRS. C. C. Hillsboro, Ill.

It is possible that the St. Louis Music Extension Society, Mr. John C. Walter, can take this up for you. I have any offers I will let you know.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I WOULD like to take vocal lessons if I could find a teacher or school where I could take them in group form. I have a fairly good voice and want to learn popular songs and I thought you would help me out. ELLIS.

I should like to mail you some children's parties and other suggestions if you will send me self-addressed stamped envelope. I cannot go into much detail in the column because of lack of space.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I WOULD appreciate it very much if you would send me details of a cabaret party, how to give it, what the dress should be, what kind of food to serve and all the particulars. Please send me the information right away. A. B.

You will have to send me self-addressed, stamped envelope for details of a party such as this, as I have not the space to use it in the column.

Dear Martha Carr: W HENEVER a fellow takes me out he never asks to see me again. Although I am very popular with the girls I am not with the boys. I would like to know what I am doing wrong with me, because I am considered pretty, wear nice clothes and my personality is not unbearable. I have tried being both the joking kind and the serious

You are more than right. This habit, or lack of deference (though not at all intended as such) should be carefully watched and restrained anywhere. The truth is, nothing more blatantly stamps an ill-bred person more than the habit of nudging, patting, taking hold of or pulling at people. Sometimes women who naturally dislike this but hate to show resentment, feel they would like to wear a sign around the neck worded, "Keep your hands to yourself."

Character Is Developed by The Individual

Belief in Oneself Helps Build Courage and Initiative.

By Elsie Robinson

MILLIONS of Americans are thinking, feverishly, what are our modern world. Arthur Brisbane, as is his dynamic habit, tells them in exactly 31 words in his column, "TODAY."

Elsie Robinson

Whereupon Mr. Brisbane quietly remarks: "To believe in a good cause, and fight for it, is desirable. There was something also in the old-fashioned plan of believing in YOURSELF, and working to prove your belief justified."

There, if you have the wit to perceive it, are the 31 wisest words upon the air today—words which would change the whole course of your life for the better if you'd follow them.

You want, desperately, to "make something" of your life. You view, with increasing disgust, the wretched souls who have become bogged down in dreary and obscure ruts. Never—you vow—will you be caught in such a trap!

Somewhere there must be a perfect solution for life. An answer to all its riddles. An escape from all its perils. The one right focus for your own restless energy. And for your own seek long enough to find it. In some new religion, perhaps. Or philosophical belief. Or political movement. Perhaps even some new cult of diet or exercise.

So off you go, seeking. Day after day. Each day the throng of seekers grows. America is full of them. The world is full of them. Frantic souls, following new leaders . . . clutching at new formulas . . . announcing new discoveries . . . running hysterical temper tantrums—and getting exactly nowhere!

FOR ALL THE TIME THE ANSWER LIES IN THE ONE PLACE THEY DO NOT EXPLORE—DEVELOP—IN THEMSELVES.

There was a time when a man took it for granted that he should seek within himself FIRST for the courage, initiative, shrewdness, honesty and endurance which are the foundation of all success. But 1935 Youth is the child of the Machine Age—machine-served from the day it is born. Where its fathers, of necessity, hand-learned their solutions, the answer comes to them ready-made, all wrapped in cellophane. Naturally, it expects character to be supplied in the same way.

"Why bother," it cries, "with all those old copybook maxims? Taking life so seriously—fussing constantly over one's immortal soul? That sort of thing's all wet. Take your fun as you go along, kid. And don't worry about the old backbone. It'll be there fast enough when the emergency arises."

But the emergency has arisen, and Youth is still sitting around, waiting for something or someone to happen. Don't fool yourself, youngster. Nothing will happen until and unless YOU make it happen. Mr. Brisbane is right. The answer lies in YOU.

CIRCUMSTANCES IS THE RESULT OF CHARACTER. AND CHARACTER IS THE ONE THING WHICH YOU AND YOU ALONE MUST DEVELOP FOR YOURSELF, OR FOREVER REMAIN A STUFFED SHIRT!

kind, but neither seems to attract the men. JUST ME.

Perhaps you have played up too much; naturalness is more attractive. Be whichever kind you are. It takes more than looks and clothes—the figures in the shop windows, used to model clothes, have both of these attractions. Better take invoice of your real qualities. Perhaps my folder on "Popularity" will give you a lift about this. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Mrs. Carr: IN your column I noticed someone asked for a recipe for fruit punch. You gave a nice recipe and then, without any request, to my surprise and disappointment, you added a recipe for stuffed fruit punch. A CONSTANT READER.

I have had many requests for both, and you know, everyone has the privilege of making his or her own choice.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

DANCING LADY

by H. H. Niemeyer.
GINGER ROGERS has come up in the world since the days when, as a Charleston dancer, she went into the stage show at the Ambassador Theater in St. Louis for a tryout—and remained for six months to share headline honors with Eddie Lowry. Today she is the dancing partner, in films, of Fred Astaire, who is the top-notch of them all. In between steps she is playing star parts in pictures. Rhythm is the keynote to Ginger Rogers' personality. Not merely the rhythm of the hooper but a most essential part of her temperament, coloring almost all of her adventures from childhood in Missouri and Texas to maturity in Hollywood.

Rhythm has kept her moving, dancing, after a fashion, from one thing to another. She decided she wanted to become a concert pianist. A teacher was engaged and for three months Ginger all but slept at the instrument. Then Ginger gave a public recital. Played everything from Macdowell's "To a Water Lily" to Bach and Wagner and was rewarded with tremendous applause.

If she has ever touched a piano since it has been only in the seclusion of her home. For little Miss Rogers decided, suddenly, that painting was the thing. Took a few lessons, and then threw her brushes and paints away. Dancing, she decided, was the real and the Charleston was just coming into vogue.

She's been like that in everything. Swimming was sidetracked for tennis; tennis for croquet; croquet for badminton and so on through the sports. At marriage she has been pretty consistent with just one husband, Lew Ayres, who is also a film actor. Ginger was in a beauty shop when her mother called and said a Mr. Ayres wanted to take her to dinner. Ginger couldn't remember any Mr. Ayres but while her mother was explaining that she had met him a few days before everyone suddenly left the beauty salon. "California was putting on one of its biggest earthquake shows in years. That night while Ginger and the trio were eating dinner the earth staged a repeat performance. The exit signs waved to them and they exited. Once outside Ginger threw her arms around young Mr. Ayres' neck and fainted. She thinks that is when he first proposed to her. Anyway, whenever it was, he kept on proposing and two years later they were married. They live, very happily, everyone says, in a Spanish farm house in Beverly Hills.

The house, by the way, is practically earthquake proof.

THE promotion scheme of a pair of shrewd vaudevillians was responsible for the Rogers girl's dramatic career. Henry Santeny and Anna Seymour were headlining at the Majestic Theater in Fort Worth. The Charleston dance was sweeping the country. Santeny and Seymour organized a Charleston contest on the Interstate Theater Circuit which took in Oklahoma and Texas. As far as Ginger was concerned, dancing was almost an obsession. Also Ginger's mother was society and drama editor of the Fort Worth Record. Mrs. Rogers' business took her backstage. With her went Ginger.

During her backstage explorations, Ginger had met Santeny and

In her life, she says, she successfully did two things at once, rushing from the studio every evening to the theater for her performance in "Top Speed."

ABOUT this time the producers of "Girl Crazy" asked her if she could play a lead. She had just finished a lead in a picture. She declares that she was amazed at their ignorance and glowingly described her ability as a lead player. They took her word for it and gave her the top spot in the show. While in "Girl Crazy," Ginger made one more picture. Then she obtained a release from the studio.

When "Girl Crazy" finally closed, Ginger and her mother joyously planned a long vacation. They rented a cottage at Manhattan Beach, keeping the address secret, for seclusion. Immediately after the last show they rushed gaily to their cottage to begin a hermit's life. The telephone rang. It was Los Angeles calling. A Hollywood studio wanted Ginger to come to California on a three-picture contract. Sadly she and her mother had been foreseen, Ginger received stage offers. The Fort Worth Record changed hands and Mrs. Rogers left to accompany Ginger on the Interstate Theater Circuit. Ginger was on her way to stage and motion picture fame.

GINGER was born July 16, just 23 years ago this month, in Independence, Mo. She did not move to Fort Worth until her mother was made society and drama editor of the Record. The nickname, "Ginger," was the gift of a baby cousin. The closest she could come to saying Virginia was "Gingah."

Mrs. Rogers wrote plays for the Fort Worth Central High School in which Ginger often had a leading feminine parts. Her first dramatic appearance was in "The Life of St. Dennis," a three-act play which her mother drew from Texas history. Ginger was the wife of that eminent historic figure.

However, Ginger had no more than the ordinary young girl's desire to become an actress. If she had any visions at all of a career, she saw herself behind a desk directing the education of a classroom full of children, rather than on a stage beguiling an audience. This desire to be a school teacher was quite natural. Her English teacher lived with the Rogers for a while. The young instructor was so friendly, and so entirely unpretentious, that Ginger thought anything she did must be perfect.

When Ginger Rogers went on tour after winning that Charleston contest in Dallas she selected two of her defeated competitors, a boy and a girl to go with her. They also had red hair and the trio was billed as "Ginger Rogers and Her Red Heads." The act was a success and the supporting cast, of two, decided to branch out for themselves, leaving Ginger flat. She was ready to give up in despair when a Kansas City booking office wired her a date in Memphis as a "single" singer and dancer.

It was in Memphis that Ginger got word from the Skourates to come up to St. Louis and have a try at the stage show at the Ambassador. She stayed 32 weeks and then moved on to the Oriental Theater in Chicago, to sing and

For days she received no word from Kalmor and Ruby. She despaired of ever getting into a musical. Then she was invited to the producers' office. They wanted to see if the contract they had drawn up suited her. She signed it. The musical was "Top Speed." The day after it opened an eastern motion picture studio wanted her to sign a contract. She had to decide immediately or they would have to wire Hollywood for someone to fill the part. She signed it. For the first and only time

The following night Ginger attended the opening of a play. As she got out of her car a photographer shouted, "Hold it for a picture, please, Miss Rogers." Standing right next to the cameraman was the supervisor.

Ginger's first three pictures in Hollywood were with Pathe. She then did two with Joe E. Brown. These led to a part in "2nd Street" at Warners. From that time on the contracts came regularly. "Gold Diggers of 1933" was one of her outstanding films during this period.

RKO-Radio tested her then for a part in "Professional Sweetheart" and gave her a three-picture pact. She handled the role so skillfully that the studio got her to sign a long term agreement. Subsequently she played in "Rafter Romance." The RKO-Radio executives then guarded her from the player's bogey being typed. They inaugurated a policy of alternating roles for Ginger a year ago. After her appearance in the musical, "Flying Down to Rio," she was cast for a straight part in "Finishing School." Loaned out for a straight dramatic part, she returned to RKO for the musical, "The Gay Divorcee," a smash hit for her and Fred Astaire. She followed this with a straight romance with Francis Lederer in "Romance in Manhattan." In "Roberta," again with Astaire, her role combined drama with dancing. She recently completed "Star of Midnight," mystery drama with the suave William Powell. Now she is co-starring with Astaire once more in the as yet uncompleted musical, "Top Hat."

IN HER home life Miss Rogers smilingly admits peculiar ideas of domestic economy. With the same vacillating enthusiasm that marks her pursuit of sports, she engages in such economical, practical, and housewifely tasks as knitting, crocheting, and petit point. Generally she doesn't finish what she begins. There is one exception. Out of six petit point starts she has one piece completed—as an example of what she can do with the needle. Petit point, it has been explained to us, is something you do with a needle.

There is another example of this peculiarity. She very practically wears clothes long after they are considered out of vogue and keeps her dresses until they almost drop off the hangers. With the normal feminine love of shopping, she very often buys a gown, hangs it in the closet, forgets it until it is out of style, and then, with perverse practicality, begins to wear it. She wants to be comfortable in her clothes, so she usually wears slacks whenever permissible. She has clothes as chic and distinguished as any to be found. She wears them as the spirit moves her, not by dictate of fashion.

As to social activity in general, she is mercurial. Periodically she gets a strong yen to be in a big crowd. This happens about once every three weeks. However, she is quite likely to grow tired of it and retire to a remote corner to read the latest New Yorker or Esquire. Her friends are accustomed to this, too. It is still somewhat of a disconcerting to those who don't know her, as is her amazing and uncontrollable gift of mimicry.

She has a disconcerting habit of rehearsing her lines while driving her auto. Motorists stopping because of a traffic jam, or a red light, she sings, cries or threatens. It is sometimes quite an experience, too, to telephone Ginger's residence or dressing room, her friends relate. The call may be answered by a colored maid, a French woman, a Spanish girl or Mrs. Rogers, as occasion or expediency or fancy dictates. They are all Ginger.

Self-Defense Is Essential in Life of Child

Unless He Learns to Fight Back His Life Is Made Miserable.

By Angelo Patri

"ROBERT, I am shocked. Never, never strike another child. Never."

"But if he hits me?" "Come away and leave him if he does such a thing. It is disgraceful to fight like dogs. Boys are intelligent and must not fight."

Soon afterward Robert came home in a hurry with the gang at his heels hooting and howling his name. "What a happy combination of words and phrases. A shower of pebbles struck the panels of the front door as he slammed it behind him. He Angelo Patri was standing with his back to it, panting, when his father rushed downstairs to ask what was the matter.

"The fellows began rough-housing and hit me so I left and then they chased me home, calling me names and everything. I told mother they would and she didn't believe me."

"What's this? You mean to say you turned your back on a gang and ran home? You mean you ran away?"

"Yes, Mother said I must. And they even took sticks and beat me down the street. I'd like to wallop a few of them just once."

"You go out and do it. Give them all you have. The idea—"

"But mother said—"

"Never mind what she said. Do you want to be chased home every day with the dead cats flying at your head and heels? Go right back and lambaste the daylight out of them."

Robert needed no second order. He was off with a whoop.

"What is happening?" asked mother, coming from the back of the house. "Didn't I hear Robert?"

"You did, and the rest of the village lads along with him. Your son was chased into his own door by a whole gang. Ran for home like a frightened rabbit. He said you told him to. I sent him back to knock the stuffin' out of the crowd. And I'm betting he'll do it. What's the idea of making a coward of him? Want the gang to pick his skin off, or what?"

This is something that must be expected in the lives of boys, aged 8 or 9 or 10, sometimes even older. They must show themselves ready and able to hold their own. When they are attacked they must hit back, and with no uncertain aim. Punch and punch hard. Otherwise they are hounded off the playground and the street and their lives made unbearable.

It is useless, as far as the boys' happiness goes, for parents to protect their children under these conditions. The children must hold their own or lose the respect of their associates. No, I do not want to rear a race of pugilists. The pugilists are a small percentage of the youth of the nation, but the self-defenders, the upright self-sustaining lads, are the backbone of the country. They don't get that way by running with the gang at their heels. They head the gang or they lose out.

This stage passes and appears no more. It is keen while it lasts and it must be accepted. Weapons are out. Fists are the only legitimate weapons after the rules must be preserved. The boys usually see to that. This is not the bad gang outfit operating. It is the masculinity of the boys asserting itself, and that is a healthy normal indication of growth. Let it alone. Encourage it. Let it triumph, but don't rule them out. You can't do that without injuring the mental and physical growth of the little boys. (Copyright, 1935.)

EINSTEIN has a new theory he doesn't understand himself. So has the Tax Committee.

It's the old problem: What happens when an irresistible tax meets an immovable income?

They eat each other up, like moles meeting in a tunnel.

Now Congress must soak everything, like a Chinaman in a laundry. There will even be a consumer's tax for standing in a bread-line.

And the budget is like a man with the mumps. One came out on each side of his neck, and each one balanced the other.

Proposal to Prevent Processors From Action to Recover Levies Called "Tyranny" by Borah.

PLAN 'ABHORRENT'

Chairman Smith of Agricultural Group Is Lone Defender—Says It Would Merely Freeze Money.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Such words as "brutal" and "tyrannical" colored debate this afternoon as the Senate began discussion of the administration's proposed amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act. Democrats joined Republicans in denouncing the particular provision which would deprive processors of the right to file suit to recover processing taxes which they assert have been illegally collected.

"This is the very essence of tyranny," shouted Senator Borah, at the height of the oral debate. In defense of the proposal, Chairman Smith of the Committee of Agriculture, argued that its effect would "simply be to freeze taxes already collected, and would not prevent the filing of suits to recover taxes paid after the enactment of the measure. Senators replied that this was no justification and, furthermore, some of them denied that it was a fact.

Characteristic of Administration. Senator Dickinson (Rep.), Iowa, a persistent critic of administration policies, declared that its procedure in this instance was characteristic of past conduct. He alluded to President Roosevelt's request that Congress enact the Guftay Coal Bill regardless of doubts of its constitutionality, "however reasonable."

"This amounts to saying," Dickinson continued, "that Congress should not consider the Constitution in passing legislation. On this theory Congress might actively dispense with articles of the Constitution which the Administration wishes to pursue, or it might refuse to appropriate money to maintain branches of the Government with which the Administration disagrees."

"I am at least grateful that the Senate has decided to consider these amendments thoroughly, even to the point of examining into their constitutionality."

Senator George, Democrat, former member of the Georgia Supreme Court, remarked that, in his opinion, the provision denying the right to file suit certainly was unconstitutional.

"Abhorrent," Says Copeland. "Moreover, it is abhorrent," added Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, "that a citizen of the United States should be denied the right to enter a court for the purpose of recovering property of which he has been illegally deprived strikes me as unthinkable."

Chairman Smith, no spellbinder at best, was making heavy weather of it. He said that the House Committee on Agriculture had studied the measure carefully and had heard all the objections now being made. But another Democrat jumped him.

"The fact is," declared King of Utah, "that this legislation, like so much other legislation which we have enacted, was not drafted by either House of Congress. It was drafted by so-called 'experts'—lawyers, brain trusters, mostly from New York City."

"Here we are confronted with a bill consisting of 80 printed pages, which has not even been considered by the Senate Committee on Agriculture. The chairman tells us that it greatly modifies the original AAA act."

"That is poor recommendation to me. The original act was an almost unlimited delegation of power to the Secretary of Agriculture. I voted against it because I considered it unconstitutional."

"It Would Prolong Bureaucracy." "I have read the bill before us. It confers almost unlimited power on the Secretary of Agriculture. It would prolong an enormous bureaucracy, responsible to no one but itself. It could fix prices, control transportation, govern processing, and collect and disburse taxes. King charged the bill was "subtly worded" in the hope of getting it past the Supreme Court. He singled out such phrases as "affecting interstate commerce" and "actually or potentially competing with interstate commerce," as illustrating his contention.

When King mentioned the pro-
